THE CULT OF THE NEEDLE.

EXCEPT in the hands of specialists, the cult of the needle appears to be in danger of becoming a lost art. The strenuous life of the present day leaves little time for the elaborate works of art which occupied so much of the leisure hours of the damsels of bygone ages.

In mediæval convents embroidery ranked as one of the most important subjects of instruction, and was considered equal to sculpture and painting. It is a pity that so few of the richly embroidered garments worn by the nobility of that period have been preserved; yet in many cases we get a very good idea of their beauty of design from the marble effigies on tombs, which was often an exact copy of the actual garments worn.

Royal households always kept their own embroiderer. What exactly constituted his daily round is hard to visualise—in all probability he merely directed the work of lesser embroiderers. History tells us that Robynet, embroiderer to Queen Elizabeth of York, received for his services the princely sum of sixteen pence a week for board wages, which at the time was considered extremely good. Stephen Vyne, employed by Richard II., received at his death the pension of sixpence a day, which was certainly good pay for that period.

Linen garments of the sixteenth century must have been truly gorgeous affairs. A writer of that period alludes to "shirts wrought throughout with needle work of silk and suche like, and curiously stitched with open seame, and many other knackes besydes, mo than I can describe." How these fair garments, resplendent with their coloured silks and other "knackes besydes" endured the wash tub test, history does not relate. The problems of lost buttons and burst buttonholes probably came later in the world's history, or perhaps the "other knackes" referred to were an improved kind of press stud fastener, warranted to withstand the most hefty-handed of laundresses.

Here are a few interesting items from "An Inventory of the Jewells and artillerie, etc., within the Castell of Edinburgh" (1578):—

"Ane lang pece of cammes sewit with silk unperfite of the armes of Scotland. Ane little packet of flour delice embroiderit with gold all in peces. Twa little flowis of claith of gold embroderit with gold." And another inventory of about the same time speaks of a "white Taffata wastecote, embrodred with runnings work of silver with birds and flies in colours upon white."

I like the sound of the word "embroderit" better of the two, it suggests more fine workmanship, and greater delicacy of handicraft, than does the more commonplace "embrodred." It is not quite clear whether the above mentioned articles came under the heading of "Jewells" or were they merely "artillerie," but the reference to "gold all in peces" suggests the former.

Belonging to a much later period in history, somewhere about the eighteenth century, the following description of a white satin petticoat is surely worthy of notice:—

"Embroidered at the bottom, brown hills covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breath had an old stump of a tree that ran up almost to the top, broken and ragged, and worked with brown chenille, round which was twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses, and all sorts of twining flowers—vines and leaves variegated as you have seen them by the sun, all rather smaller than nature—many of the leaves were finished with gold, and parts of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Wearing such a garment must have been more interesting, and might I add more nerve racking, than many a 20th century amusement; but it provided the owner, or her private embroidress, if her rank was such that would allow of such a luxury, with many hours, nay, weeks and months of useful and harmless employment.

In the words of Addison, "I cannot forbear wishing that several of that sex had chosen to apply themselves to tapestry rather than to rhyme," for, as he continues, it takes the ladies "Off from scandal, the usual attendant of tea-tables." T. E. D.

PARIS FASHION.

Dark blue silk marocain walking costume, with a novel crossed ceinture arrangement, which is stitched and buttoned. The same ornamentation appears on the cuffs. There is an inset section, and a smart tie of sand-coloured crêpe-de-chine.

BEAUTY HINTS.

SPECIAL attention should be paid to the skin at this time of year, as occasional sunny days, interspersed with windy, cold ones, are very trying. Before going out of doors a little good vanishing cream or almond and glycerine lotion should be applied to the face, after which powder should be applied rather thickly, the superfluity being rubbed off with a chamois leather.

Rain water or distilled water is excellent for daily washing, but if neither can be obtained water boiled and allowed to cool and then boiled again will be very soft. If suh preparations cannot be managed, then the water should be softened with fine oatmeal powder or reliable bath salts. Hard, harsh water should never be used for washing the face. If it is possible to obtain buttermilk, this is invaluable for tan, freckles and sunburn, and should be applied every night before going to bed. If the face becomes rough from wind and rain, either lettuce or cucumber juice should be applied. Both juices are most soothing and healing.

The hands should also have special care in the spring. To keep them soft it is a good plan to dip them in cornflour after washing. Night and morning a little cold cream should be rubbed into them, and gloves should be worn when doing any "rough" housework and for gardening. This precaution saves hours of attention and remedies in the long run.

A great many women suffer at this time of the year with tender and painful feet. This condition may be relieved by bathing the feet frequently in warm water to which a little alum has been added. They should be thoroughly dried after the bathe, and a little talcum powder dusted on the soles. It is also a very good plan to rub the feet every night with eau de Cologne or lemon juice. This is very refreshing, and acts as a tonic to the muscles of the foot.

Clean stockings every day should be a household rule, and it is astonishing what a difference this makes to the comfort of the feet. The stockings are always absorbing the excretions from the feet, and must, therefore, be frequently renewed.

Special attention should be paid to the diet, full advantage being taken of Nature's medicines provided in the form of spring vegetables and fruits. Spinach is particularly valuable as a blood purifier, and should be eaten with oil and lemon juice. Asparagus, too, is a thorough cleanser and purifier, and should be eaten whenever possible.

MARY GWYNNE HOWELL.

THE POET'S MONTH.

OF all the months throughout the year to make the poets croon, the most successful one, I think, is lovely, leafy June; and every magazine just now, and many papers, too, are filled with rhythmic ecstacies re roses, rich in hue.

'Tis very seldom that one reads an ode to poor July, while August does not seem to call forth any tuneful sigh; and though September better fares—with corn instead of hay—the poets' month, par excellence, is that which follows May.

There are so very many things that nicely rhyme with "June"; there's croon and tune, and soon and boon, and noon, as well as moon; and really, I assure you, 'tis a great consideration to find a rhyme that does not strain the tired imagination.

Think, too, of all that June has got to make a song about: the limpid stream in which abide the wary speckled trout, for which the fishermen prepare the daintiest of flies, and celebrate a capture with a tale in which there lies a medium of truth, no doubt. Then there's the chorus sweet of birds that sing delightfully the dawn of day to greet, and wonder small that poets' minds take uncontrolled flight when they have heard a blackbird's lilting lay at fall of night.

The trees are bowers of beauty, with their canopies of green, while here and there the russet tints of copper beech are seen; the grass a velvet carpet starred with yellow and with white; the gorse a miracle of gold on every gentle height.

But, most important of them all, as every Poet knows, is June's great speciality, the lovely fragrant rose.

The weather we cannot control—we hope for what is best—but June can be a fretful lady, just like all the rest; though even when she pouts and weeps, and turns a shoulder cold, her crown in Literature remains a diadem of gold.

For none can be more fair than she, whenever she's a mind, so, honoured by each Poet's pen, dear Lady June, be kind.

MENTAL HOSPITAL WAGES.

The position of tradesmen employed in Irish mental hospitals was under discussion at the last meeting of the Monaghan Board, when a letter was read from the men's union stating that they would have to safeguard the interests of their members if the trade union rates of wages were interfered with.

The committee took counsel's opinion on the subject. Counsel held that the men were entitled to pension; but, in reply to the query as to whether they could compel the committee to pay trade union wages, said: "No, clearly not."

The committee decided to circulate counsel's opinion and consider the tradesmen's wages at the next meeting.

Peter Hoare, Ballymore, Co. Westmeath, for failing to stamp insurance cards, was fined £2 at Ballymahon District Court by District Justice Kenny.

PRODUCE AND FOOD MARKETS.

CATTLE.

CAMBRIDGE.—Beasts, 524; beef, best small, to 14/-; second 13/-, others to 12/-. Sheep, 535; mutton to 11/6, lamb to 1/6. Pigs 942; pork to 15/6. Calves, 152. Excellent supplies of fat cattle met a steady demand at late rates. A special offering sale of store beasts resulted in a large entry, and business was very fair in all departments. Fat sheep and lambs were again offered in good numbers, and prices were higher all round. Fat pigs were a good average show and were dearer. Store pigs a good trade.

LEEDS.—Good supplies and prices easier. Beasts, numbering 671, fetched from 8d. for fat cows and bulls to 10½d. for prime heifers and bullocks. Sheep, numbering over 2,000, realised from 1/3 for choice small sheep down to 7d. for tups. Pigs made from 12/- per stone.

SALFORD.—On offer—Beasts 955, increase 3. Of these 205 Irish were penned, and 317 sheep. Good prime cattle in demand, but other descriptions met with dragging trade. Sheep also ruled slow, and those held over from last market showed signs of deterioration. There was, however, some slight improvement to record in spring lamb, prices being slightly above those of last week. Irish cows suitable for dairy purposes numbered 18, but these were of poor quality, and prices ranged from £21 to £27 per head. General quotations—Best butchers' beasts, 10d. to 11d., others 9d. to 10d.; clipped sheep 1/1 to 1/3, Welsh lamb 1/3 to 1/6, South Country 1/4 per lb.

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC.—WHEAT cargo market dull, and, with some pressure to sell North American grades, prices generally marked a decline of 3d. to 6d. per qr.—No. 1 Northern Manitoba early June sellers 59/-, No. 2 ditto 57/3, No. 3 ditto 55/9, white Pacific June 55/3, August-September 51/-, Australian sailer afloat 60/-, Barusso (61lbs.) Parcels quiet; Plate afloat May-June, also June-July, sold 27/3, August-September 27/9 per 480lbs. BARLEY inactive. LIVERPOOL.—America was closed yesterday, owing to holiday, but Winnipeg was easier, and caused forward deliveries of WHEAT here to give way moderately at the outset. Prices further receded to a liberal extent on free offerings, then recovered somewhat, and, with better late afternoon cables, finished over the worst point, though marking a liberal decline on the day. C.i.f. parcels neglected, and nominally easier; No. 1 Manitoba due quoted 57/9, No. 2 afloat 56/-, No. 2 hard winter July 51/-, and Barusso 61lbs. afloat 53/6 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels MAIZE not traded in; river Plate afloat quoted 28/-, May-June and June-July 27/6 per qr. Wheat on the spot dull and easier. Maize—Spot parcels quiet and easier; River Plate old crop quoted 6/3½ and new 6/7½ per cental. FLOUR quiet, and favoured buyers. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. per cental lower, further receded until 1½d. decline had been registered, then recovered partially, and fluctuated slightly, the market closing steady at 1½d. to 1¼d. under last night. Sales—150 loads at 11/2½, 1¼d., ½d., ½d., ½d., for July, and 10/5½, 4½d., ¼d. October delivery. Values—July 11/1¼, October 10/4½ per cental.

DUBLIN POULTRY.—Poultry generally is in fair supply, and a better demand exists for chickens at firmer rates. A free sale also for choice fat ducklings, but store classes are not wanted. ### IRISH FAIRS.

PHILIPSTOWN (KING'S COUNTY).—This fair was held on Monday, and was well attended by both buyers and sellers. The supply of stock offered for sale in all departments was, if anything, above the average of previous fairs, while good buyers being numerous, the demand all round was keen, and remunerative prices were obtained. The demand for first class springers and milch cows was exceptionally good, prospective buyers being out along the country roads in the early morning on the look-out for choice animals; while store cattle of a good quality also changed hands quickly at prices which showed a slightly upward tendency. Quotations—First class springers £25 to £30, second class £16 to £20; good milch cows £20 to £27, second class and inferior £14 to £18; three-year-old heifers and bullocks, £17 10/- to £23 10/-; two-year-olds, £14 to £15 10/-; yearlings, £9 10/- to £11; good sheep, £4 5/- to £5 5/-; hoggets, 55/- to 65/-; store pigs sold at 80/- per cwt. (live weight); slips (four to six months old), £3 10/- to £5; bonhams (eight to ten weeks old), 27/6 to 45/- each; dropped calves, £3 10/- to £4 7/6.

OMAGH.—This monthly fair was held yesterday in favourable weather. There was a small display of stock, and prices were on the downward grade. Stores were shown in small numbers, and the demand was poor. Yearlings sold at from £6 to £8, six-quarter olds £10 to £12, two-year-olds £12 to £14, 2½-year-olds £14 and £16. Beef not shown to any extent, and from 47/6 to 50/- was paid for best quality. There was also a slow demand for springers, and prices had a downward tendency. Best springing cows sold at from £25 to £23, and second quality at from £22 to £24. Springing heifers were much sought after, and prices ranged from £20 to £24 for best quality, and £18 to £20 for second quality. There was a good display of fat sheep, and prices were easier. Fat white sheep fetched from £3 10/- to £4 each, and lambs from £2 12/6 to £3 5/- each. There was a small horse fair, with business rather slack. Good horses for farm work and driving realised from £16 to £24.

GIRL ATTACKED BY A BABOON.

SCENE IN A CIRCUS IN CLONAKILTY.

Miss Lizzie Duffy, an equestrienne in Duffy's Circus, was severely mauled at Clonakilty yesterday by a large baboon.

The incident, which created the greatest excitement, occurred while Miss Duffy was feeding a pet goat in a cage, one compartment of which contained a baboon 3ft. 6in. in height.

The sliding door between the compartments apparently was not firmly secured, and the monkey tore it aside and attacked Miss Duffy. He lacerated her forearm and inflicted other injuries.

Her screams attracted Mr. Duffy, who procured an iron bar and stunned the brute with a blow on the head.

Miss Duffy was removed from the cage in a fainting condition, and was attended by Dr. Bennett. She was taken to the County Home Hospital, where she is progressing as well as can be expected.

£12,000 PAVILION SCHEME.

BRAY URBAN COUNCIL'S PROPOSAL.

Application for sanction of a loan of £10,000 having been made by the Bray Urban Council for the purpose of erecting a pavilion on the Esplanade and other improvements, Mr. Michael Ryan, B.E., Engineering Inspector, yesterday held an inquiry at Bray on behalf of the Ministry for Local Government.

The Inspector stated that Mr. T. P. Bradshaw, on behalf of the Tickell estate, had objected on the ground that the rates were too high and that the township accounts, as submitted, did not disclose the town's true financial position; that the repayment of the loan would represent a rate of 1s. 2d. in the £ for many years, and that the proposed pavilion would be injurious and an encroachment on the public rights and free use of the Esplanade.

Mr. Ogden objected on the ground that there was already sufficient provision.

Mr. George Wilde, on behalf of the shopkeepers, objected to the inclusion of shops in the scheme.

LEGAL DECISION RECALLED.

Mr. Dickie, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. M. Magee, solicitor), appeared for the Urban Council, and said that the Urban Council, having regard to the position of Bray as a place for tourists and visitors, considered that it would be wise to provide some more convenient way for their entertainment on the Esplanade. He mentioned a legal decision disposing of the right of anybody along the sea front to bring an action restraining the powers of the Urban Council to put up a hall. The Inspector had to decide, he said, whether a hall was necessary. If Bray was ever to reach the position of a large place, attractive to visitors, they must keep up entertainments and interest them.

Mr. M'Caull, Town Clerk, stated that it was proposed to raise a loan from the bank of £10,000 at 5½ per cent.

In reply to Mr. J. P. Murnane (instructed by Mr. Allen, solicitor), for Mr. Ogden, the witness said that he was aware that Mr. Ogden was erecting a dancing hall on the esplanade, but the Council had contemplated the scheme for years. If there was a loss it would fall on the rates.

In reply to Mr. Bradshaw, Mr. M'Caull said that it was hoped to let the hall to one lessee, to get £1,000, and have winter and summer entertainments. It would be for the Council to decide whether the stalls should be exempt from rates.

SHOPKEEPERS' ATTITUDE.

Mr. G. Wilde said that there was a shop to every fifty inhabitants in the town. Shopkeepers paid rates the whole year round. It would be unfair to exempt the proposed stalls.

Mr. E. Donnelly, Mrs. Lyons, and Miss Fitzgerald also gave evidence in opposition to the stalls.

Mr. J. Ogden said that he was at present constructing the Regent Hall on the Esplanade, and it would cost £3,000. It would consist of a ballroom, refreshment room, two shops and a garden roof. He objected to the pavilion, and it could not be erected for the price suggested. If it were not a success, he as a ratepayer would have to contribute to the loss. He would never have gone on with his hall if he had known that the Council would erect this pavilion.

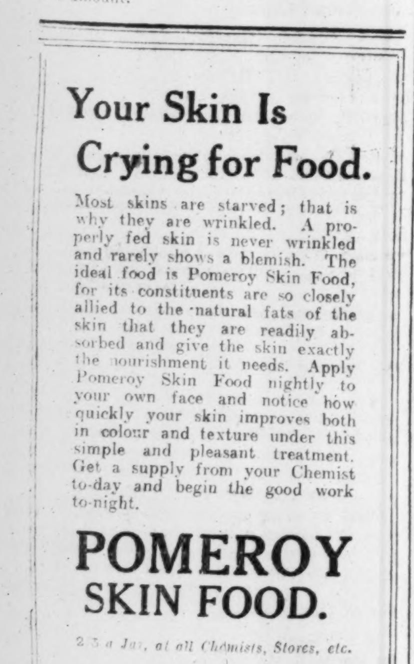

Mr. E. Byrne, Chairman of the Council, said that the pavilion was necessary to provide entertainment for visitors.

Mr. R. Heatley, Urban District Council, said that he would not be in favour of the pavilion if the shops were left out. He would be against the scheme unless it paid for itself.

Mr. E. Murphy, engineer to the Council, said that there would be seating accommodation for 1,400 people in the new pavilion. He estimated the cost at £11,000.

A vote of thanks to the Inspector concluded the inquiry.

At Bray Urban Council last night, Mr. Murphy said that, owing to extensions, his estimate for the new pavilion would be increased from £10,000 to £12,000. It was decided to make application for the loan to this amount.

HOLDING FOR ONE IN TEN.

DEBATE ON THE DIVISION OF LAND.

FORESTRY DEPARTMENT'S WORK.

The vote for the salaries and expenses of the Land Commission was passed yesterday by the Dail. The Minister for Lands and Agriculture mentioned that only one application in ten for holdings could be granted, as there was not sufficient land to meet all demands.

An encouraging report on the work of the Forestry Department was given by the Minister. An area of 33,000 acres has been acquired, and last year 6,000,000 trees were planted.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

COMPARISON OF COSTS IN 1914 AND 1926.

In Dail Eireann yesterday the Minister for Finance moved the vote of £561,889 for the services of the Department of Local Government and Public Health.

Mr. S. Burke, Minister for Local Government, opened his statement by giving comparative figures of the costs of local government in this country in the three periods 1914-15, 1921-22, and 1926-27. He explained that for the two former an apportionment to include only the twenty-six counties had been made. Summarised, his figures were:—

| | Salaries and Expenses. | Cost of Actual Service. |
|---|---|---|
| 1914-15 ... | £63,420 | £22,738 |
| 1921-22 ... | 128,922 | 123,051 |
| 1926-27 .... | 107,855 | 454,054 |

In 1914-15 they had not the services of:—Child welfare, medical treatment of school children, welfare of the blind, treatment of tuberculosis and of venereal disease, provision of meals for school children, grants for housing. It would be found that it was those new services that were responsible for the present increase in the cost of the local government of the country.

THE ROADS.

Coming to the question of the maintenance of the roads, he said that there was a great deal of confusion on the subject. That arose mainly as the result of half truths, insinuated by interested parties, of various kinds. There were those interested in the sale of heavy lorries crying out that the roads in the Saorstat were the worst in Europe. Motorists said that they were getting very poor road value for the heavy taxes they paid. Those interested in the railways complained that the general public were maintaining a permanent way for a rival form of transport at a time when railways were in anything but a flourishing condition. Finally, the ratepayers were crying out that they were being fleeced to maintain highways at a standard that was of no use to them.

There was a certain amount of truth in all of those contentions, but, on the whole, the untruth predominated. It was a gross exaggeration to say that the Saorstat roads were the worst in Europe; their roads compared more than favourably with those of all European countries, except those in England. He would not confine the statement to main roads, because their by-roads were maintained at a higher standard than on the Continent.

NEVER AS GOOD AS ENGLAND.

They had not, and never would have, as good roads as those in England. Here there were to be maintained 14½ miles of roads for every thousand of the population, whereas in England the proportion is 4½ miles per thousand. In England they spent £132 per mile on the roads, whereas we were in a position to spend only £27 a mile. For five years practically nothing was done to maintain the roads, which were the main object of attack during two wars. In the circumstances, he thought that they had already brought the roads to a very creditable condition, indeed.

In pre-war times the ratepayers contributed £700,000 to the maintenance of roads. At present the amount was £1,234,000, an increase of 98 per cent. The increase in the cost of labour on the roads was 146 per cent., and when that was taken into account the ratepayers had a relatively small increase for that service. From 1915 to 1922 the cost of the roads in England had increased from £15,000,000 to £41,500,000. It should also be remembered that the roads of the country were a universal service, benefitting every man, woman and child. The old age pensions, which were of benefit to only a small number, cost £2,500,000 a year.

The increase to the ordinary ratepayer for the maintenance of roads was 98 per cent. over pre-war; the increase of rates on railway property was only 65 per cent., so that the railway proprietors had no grievance whatever.

SCOPE OF NEW POLICY.

The policy enunciated by the Minister for Finance in his Budget speech was not intended to remedy grievances—there were no grievances to be remedied. The sole object of the policy was to devise a more economic and efficient method of expending the resources at their disposal. The Budget speech announced that £2,000,000 would be made available for improving the main roads of the country—namely, trunk roads to the extent of 1,500 miles. They were making all possible haste to get ahead with that scheme.

It was being financed out of the Road Fund. Heretofore that fund was not capitalised, and so they had been prevented from doing any constructive work of anything like a permanent character. The new policy would enable them to undertake much more ambitious schemes. It was their intention, so far as possible, to standardise the present rate paid for roads, to stereotype the rate at about 60 per cent. above what was paid in pre-war times. In some counties it would be more and in others less, but that was the rough figure.

RELIEF TO FARMERS.

It was realised that the agricultural community should be given every possible assistance in their struggle with foreign competitors for the British market. Last year and the year before they had relieved the farmer by increasing the agricultural grant. This year they were again bringing relief to that section of the community by not insisting on an increase in rates for roads to the extent which the present cost of living figure would indicate as the amount required to maintain roads at their former standard out of the rates.

That gift to the agricultural community and ratepayers in general would, of course, necessitate the placing of additional burdens on other shoulders, and they would be placed on the shoulders of owners of heavy lorries. The roads of Ireland were never maintained for heavy traffic. To have the roads torn up by heavy lorries, no matter what expenditure were incurred, would defeat their object. They had already, by order, limited the weight of lorries to nine tons laden, but that in itself was not sufficient. A great many lorries even at six tons laden would create a wear and tear on roads that would be beyond their capacity to repair.

They had devised, therefore, the policy of a steep grading of the tax on lorries, according to weight. If, as a result, heavy lorries should disappear from the roads, the task of maintenance would be an easy one; but if they did not disappear the revenue from the taxes would be greatly increased.

THE YIELD.

From the new system of taxation they anticipated a revenue of something between £600,000 and £700,000. It was not intended to capitalise the whole of that amount. Certain counties would not be touched by the trunk road scheme; others would benefit only to a small extent. Accordingly, a sum amounting to about half the total available would be left for maintenance of other trunk roads in those counties, and also for expenditure on other works of a similar kind in counties where the trunk road scheme would also be put into operation.

Having referred to the "inundation" of his Department with letters and resolutions urging the claims of various roads for scheduling as trunk roads when he first announced a trunk road scheme, the Minister said that this time he had decided to take a strong line. They had sent out their engineers and experts to consult with the County Surveyors and people who were able to give them information in the various counties, and the Roads Advisory Committee had spent months in deliberating on the matter and had decided what roads should be included in the 1,500 miles scheme. They did not intend to deviate an inch from the line they had taken up after very careful deliberation.

It was proposed to repay the loan of £2,000,000 in ten years at 5½ per cent. interest. The principal would be £200,000, and the interest £110,000—a total of £310,000 in the first year. That would leave a considerable residue to make up any injustices that otherwise might fall on counties through which the trunk road scheme would not run.

THE ROUTES SELECTED.

The Minister then announced the routes selected:—

(1) Dublin, Balbriggan, Drogheda, Dundalk, Newry, with branch from Drogheda; Ardee, Carrickmacross, Castleblayney, Monaghan, Clones, Cavan.

(2) Dublin, Navan, Kells, Virginia, Cavan.

Mr. Morrissey asked if the trunk road from Dublin would run through Roscrea, Nenagh, and Limerick City.

The Minister said that that was the trunk road running to Limerick. The other went by Carlow, Kilkenny, and Clonmel.

METHODS OF RECONSTRUCTION.

The question of methods of reconstruction was a very difficult matter. They were always up against the question of cost. Most of the systems of high-class road-construction systems were beyond their means. At the present time they were spending only about £27 a mile on roads on an average. They ought to spend about £3,000 a mile on reconstruction.

The Minister referred to the experimental stretches on the Naas road, and gave details of the costs of the different methods, from concrete at £10,000 a mile, down to tar-bound macadam at about £1,500 a mile. The best of the old coach roads constructed a hundred years ago had cost about £160 a mile. It was not an easy matter, he continued, to lay down exactly what a particular stretch of road would cost, or what method would be adopted for improving it. Every mile of road would have to be surveyed and given special attention. It was the intention to give more attention to the roads in the immediate vicinity of towns where traffic was heavy and where they would achieve the double object of improving their transport system and the appearance of the towns, and, perhaps, the health of the inhabitants. One of the greatest eye-sores in Ireland at present was the miserable dirty streets in some of the principal towns.

"NATIONALISATION."

The Minister contended that the scheme represented the only degree of "nationalisation" of the roads that would be reasonable. If some people meant by nationalisation the establishment of a huge central staff which would duplicate the county staffs, he said that that would not occur. The operations on the 1,500 miles of trunk roads would be directed from a national centre and paid for out of a central fund. They would decide where the roads were to be and what was to be used on them. Under the local Government Act they were empowered practically to get contractors to undertake the work of reconstructing those roads, or, if they wished, to do the work themselves directly.

Probably, however, it would be more economical to allow local authorities to employ contractors, who would have up-to-date machinery. Maintenance would be on the County Councils, but the roads would have to be maintained according to the Department's standards and under its supervision.

DEPARTMENT'S STAFF.

Passing to other matters, the Minister said that the staff of the Department numbered 253, as compared with 288 in the year 1922, and the figure was the lowest that could be reached consistent with efficient administration. It should also be remembered that the Department had to accept transferred services, such as control of mental hospitals, election to the Oireachtas, road maintenance, and central purchasing for local authorities.

The sub-head for child welfare was £15,530, an increase of £1,145. Infant mortality was 6.7 per thousand births in 1925, which showed a reduction compared with 1924. The high mortality continued to be an unfavourable feature, but efforts were being made on the part of the Department to effect an improvement.

School meals were estimated to cost £5,700, a decrease of £300. The Act had been adopted in the boroughs of Dublin and Cork and twenty-four urban districts. The primary schools to the number of sixty-seven under the control of the Christian Brothers would come within the Act during next year. Urban authorities had been reminded of their powers under the Act, but had generally advised that they had not adopted a scheme, as there was no necessity for such an arrangement in their districts. Approximately 12,478 children had been supplied with meals, and the total meals supplied had been 1,551,953.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Comparative progress had been made in reducing the mortality from tuberculosis. The total number of patients dealt with under approved tuberculosis schemes during 1924-25 was 10,131, composed of 2,680 insured and 7,451 uninsured persons, and the amount issued from the grant as recoupment in respect of their treatment was approximately £34,300.

The mortality rate for the year 1924 was 1.45 per thousand of the population—a slight increase over the previous year's figure of 1.41 per thousand. Such increase was not unexpected in view of the disturbed conditions of the two previous years. The comparative progress made in reducing the mortality was shown, in that in 1904 the mortality was 2.9 per thousand. In England the same reduction had taken 32 years to effect, and in Scotland 36 years, and the Free State had achieved it in 19 years.

The estimate for housing was £348,000, an increase of £8,977. Progress in housing had been maintained, and one and a quarter million pounds had been provided since 1922. Under the 1924 Act, 3,609 houses had been built—viz., 1,078 in county boroughs, 357 in urban districts, 65 under Town Commissioners, and 2,108 in rural districts. Under the 1925 Act, 3,366 houses had been erected—viz., 1,045 in county boroughs, 278 in urban districts, 64 under Town Commissioners, and 1,979 in rural districts.

The cost of building showed a slight downward tendency. The cost of a five-roomed house in Dublin was valued between £500 and £535, and in other areas between £450 and £500.

EMPIRE WEEK.

Sir James Craig drew attention to the fact that the local bodies in the Counties Mayo and Galway had refused to fix salaries in accordance with the scale for dispensary medical officers, as had been done in all other counties.

He thought that the Minister was not sufficiently stringent with local authorities in demanding that they should look after the adulteration of food and the contamination of milk. The cause of the country's high mortality among children was chiefly contamination of milk. Half of the cases of cripples in the country were due to drinking of tubercular milk in childhood. The Minister would probably say that they were waiting for the appointments of the county medical officers of health. They were a long time waiting for them. In Dublin, where they have a superintendent medical officer of health, the local authority had not yet adopted the medical inspection and treatment of school children, although Cork City had done so. Dublin had adopted a child welfare scheme which was working very well.

As a constant user of the roads, he was altogether for driving the heavy lorries off the ordinary surfaced highways in the country. He would not object to their use on roads made like some of the Dublin streets, but they should not be allowed on the country roads.

STANDARDISATION.

Mr. Morrissey said that, while the roads of the country were not all that they would desire, they were not in the condition that some people would make out. They would probably be still much better if the Minister devised some standard system of road-making and maintenance which would be followed by every county.

Mr. P. W. Shaw welcomed the Minister's statement with regard to the road schemes because of the great asset of the tourist traffic to the country.

Mr. Gorey said that it was the rule and not the exception that roads maintained by the County Councils were good, but those in charge of a Corporation or Urban Council were bad. The money spent on the urban roads of the country was for the most part money squandered. The town of Kilkenny was one example. One road authority in any county should be sufficient, and legislation should, if necessary, be introduced to effect that and do away with some of the old charters.

Mr. P. Hogan (Labour) had to complain that the infirmaries under the Boards of Health were still regarded only as places for operations.

Mr. John Good said that they were to continue the same bad system of road maintenance that had prevailed for years. That system was wrong in principle. He asked the Minister to say definitely whether roads constructed under the new scheme were or were not to be maintained by the local authority.

STILL A LOCAL CHARGE.

Mr. Burke was understood to say, in reply, that it might be that portion of the maintenance cost of the trunk roads would fall on the local rates. He mentioned 75 per cent. on the national fund and 25 per cent. on the rates, and added that, as new roads might possibly be included later, they could not lay down a hard and fast policy.

Mr. Good—Admittedly, then, we have no definite and settled road policy.

Mr. Burke—And never will.

Mr. Good—And never will from the present Ministry.

Continuing, he said that for the past three years the increase in the charges on the local rates amounted to 40 per cent., and that was largely due to the increased cost of the maintenance of the roads.

President Cosgrave said that three years ago the ratepayers paid some £1,300,000 for the roads, whereas last year the amount was £1,200,000, roughly. The incidence of road taxation on the local rates had in three years fallen by approximately £150,000.

Mr. Good said that he would strongly urge that the burden of road maintenance should be taken off the local authorities and more and more of it put on the users of the roads.

They would like to see in the improved system a uniform standard in the methods of road construction and road maintenance. He thought that there was too much attention being devoted to heavy vehicles, and that some attention might be devoted to the type of tyres used.

He urged that there should be more attention paid to the building of smaller houses for the poorer sections of the community.

EXPENDITURE IN 1922.

President Cosgrave said that in December, 1925, Deputy Good had asked the Minister for Finance for information as to the figures for local taxation in the years 1922-23 and 1924-25. He was sure that Deputy Good did not want to pose on that occasion. But he would like to point out to the deputy that the year 1922-23 was not a year that any sensible business man should base a case on. The estimate for that year was compiled by the County Councils in December, 1921.

He asked them to remember what the position of affairs was—that for eighteen months the agricultural grants, estate duties and other grants had been held up. Obviously in the years 1921-1922-23 there was "a complete mix-up in the finance of local authorities, and he thought that the deputy would admit that 1922-23 was not a year on which a standard could be based. He would like to hear something from the deputy on that point.

Mr. Good made no response, and President Cosgrave said it was a point on which they should be honest with themselves, and that he would have to go further into the matter.

The Corporation of Dublin, he continued, had been obliged in 1921-22 to ask its employés to take 75 per cent. of their wages for twelve months. In January or February, 1922, the British Government agreed to pay £1,300,000 out of the withheld grant. "That is the year," he said, "that Deputy Good has selected and that the Press has taken up in order to prove that there has been a 40 per cent. increase in local expenditure from that year to the next year and continuing through the further years. You might as well base a case on a balloon."

REJECTED PROPOSALS.

With regard to the turning down of the road proposals put forward by the Minister for Local Government, President Cosgrave said that a £3,500,000 expenditure would absorb for service of the loan an annual amount of £540,000, the whole income of the Road Fund as it was last year. The Executive Council could not agree to a proposal to capitalise the entire amount of the income of the fund. They had compromised on a scheme increasing the income of the fund, and putting aside the increase and a little of the ordinary income of the fund to satisfy the claims in respect of £2,000,000 capital expenditure. They were asked to have roads as good as there were in England, although road users had been paying less than they paid in England. This year road users in the Free State were asked to pay as much, and they seemed to object.

Mr. Good—I spoke of heavy vehicles.

The discussion was continued by Mr. Daly and Mr. T. Murphy.

Discussion on the estimate had not concluded when the Dail adjourned at 10.30 until 3 o'clock to-day.

SOAP SUBSTITUTES.

EXEMPTION IN NEW FINANCE BILL.

Of the forty sections which comprise the new Free State Finance Bill, published last night, less than half-a-dozen will have the effect of amending the law relating to the existing Customs and Inland Revenue. Provision is made for the exemption of "any component parts of corsets, made wholly or mainly of non-textile materials," from the duty imposed by the Finance Act of last year, and, similarly, there is provision for the exemption of the following substances from the soap substitutes duty:—Sodium carbonate, sodium silicate, caustic soda, potassium carbonate, caustic potash, ammonia or borax, when imported otherwise than as a part or ingredient of "any article or preparation."

Provision is also made for the exemption of certain medicinal articles from any duty, that is where they contain no dutiable ingredients other than saccharin to an extent not exceeding 1 per cent., "and are shown, to the satisfaction of the Revenue Commissioners, to be intended for use exclusively because of or as a preventive of or remedy for disease."

NEW WINE DUTIES.

With regard to the additional duties on wines the following is the scale proposed in the ninth clause of the bill:—Not exceeding 30 degrees of proof spirit, the gallon, 5s.; exceeding 30, but not exceeding 42, 12s.; for every degree or fraction of a degree beyond the highest so charged, an additional duty per gallon of 1s.; sparkling wine in bottle, an additional duty per gallon, of £1 5s.; still wine in bottle, an additional duty per gallon of 4s.

The purpose of the other sections is, in the main, to give statutory effect to the resolutions already passed by the Dail. One of the four schedules to the bill is the new scale of duties for mechanically-propelled vehicles. The second stage of the bill will be under consideration to-morrow.

BELFAST CITY CONTROL.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION.

A FREE HAND FOR PAID MANAGERS.

PATRONAGE SYSTEM IN APPOINTMENTS.

During a discussion by the Belfast Corporation yesterday of the third interim report of a Special Committee of the Council, which had been appointed to examine the report of the Commissioner who recently held an inquiry into the Corporation's housing schemes, it was suggested that the Corporation should retire for three years and that the city should be managed by paid Commissioners.

Four of the seven members of the Investigating Committee expressed their conviction in an addendum to the main report that efficient administration would result from the appointment of Commissioners, but the Lord Mayor ruled that the addendum was outside the province of the Special Committee, and that any member who was desirous of putting its terms into force should give notice of motion through the Town Clerk.

MAJORITY ADDENDUM.

EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION.

The following is the addendum to the report of the Special Committee, signed by four members:—

"As a result of our investigations, we are convinced that the most effective manner in which to obtain efficient administration would be by the appointment of capable Commissioners for a period of at least three years. Signed—James A. Duff, S. H. Hall-Thompson, Joseph Maguire, John D. McClure."

The Lord Mayor (Sir William Turner), in moving the adoption of the report, excluded a reservation by Councillor Midgley and the majority addendum, and, on a point of order being raised by Alderman Duff, he said that the addendum was outside the province of the Special Committee.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The report of the Special Committee, which is a lengthy document of fifteen typewritten pages, contained the following statements:—

In their first interim report your committee stated that the position of certain members of the Corporation referred to in the Commissioner's report was under consideration and would be reported upon at an early date. They have reviewed this subject from every standpoint and have arrived at the conclusion that the Commissioner, having freely expressed his disapproval of the action of several members of the Council in connection with (1) the acquisition of land, (2) the lack of organisation, and (3) the failure to exercise such supervision as would most probably have prevented gross irregularities being perpetrated without detection, they feel it unnecessary to add anything to his strictures. Your committee consider that the actions of the members concerned should be judged by their constituents rather than by their colleagues.

Your committee recommend that in future responsibility should be clearly placed upon the Law Department officially to disclose and report any documentary evidence of any interest, direct or indirect, of any member or official of the Corporation in any transaction, even if such transaction may already have been sanctioned by the committee concerned and passed the Council.

The subject of financial control has occupied much of your committee's time, and they have come to the conclusion that, whatever system may ultimately be recommended for adoption, it must be built upon two fundamentals, viz.:—

1.—That every account that is passed for payment must be certified as being correct by the City Treasurer.

2.—That in certifying such account his certificate must carry with it the assurance that all his requirements to enable him so to certify have been complied with.

"A SYSTEM OF PATRONAGE."

Under the heading of "Reorganisation," the report states:—Your committee desire to record that in their considered judgment the absence of efficient organisation, coupled with the existing methods of recruiting the staffs, both of officers and employés, which has gradually developed into a system of patronage, must be held responsible for much of the mischief brought to light by the recent inquiry. They have arrived at the conclusion that this subject must be promptly and effectively dealt with, and, with this object, they have had under consideration the Council's scheme for clerical appointments, which they have revised, and now submit, as an appendix hereto, for the Council's consideration. Further, it will be necessary to deal with the system of appointments to the technical staff of the several departments, and the methods of engaging manual workers, as they are firmly convinced that the element of patronage must be absolutely eliminated.

In an appendix to the report it is recommended that, unless under special circumstances, which shall in every case be reported to and recorded in the minutes of the Committee concerned, semi-skilled and unskilled manual workers paid by the hour, week, or day, shall be engaged through the Employment Exchanges, and employment shall only be given to those who have been continuously resident in the city for at least one year immediately previous to the date of their appointment.

Under the heading "The Housing Schemes," the report says:—When your Committee first approached the consideration of this matter they found that the facts were in a state of such obscurity that it has been only with great difficulty and at the cost of very considerable time, not only on their part, but on the part of the appropriate officials, they have been enabled, even in part, to elucidate the position. There is still much to be investigated in this connection.

THE REPORT DISCUSSED.

During the discussion on the report Alderman Nixon moved an amendment that consideration of the report be deferred for a week.

Councillor Midgley rose to move an amendment, but the Lord Mayor said they must settle Alderman Nixon's amendment first.

A man in the public gallery shouted: "You are not managing the business. Councillor Midgley is the man should speak. Fair play!" and was reprimanded by a policeman.

Alderman Nixon's amendment was then defeated.

Councillor Midgley then moved an amendment that the reference in the report to the members of the Council be deleted and his reservation that the members whose actions had been criticised in the report should submit themselves for re-election. He opened by protesting against some member of the Corportaion having supplied a morning paper with an advance copy of the report. Such an action, he said, indicated a deplorable lack of honour. He charged the Committee with lack of courage in dealing with certain members of the Council. They had not the courage to call on them to resign.

Alderman M'Connell—You have no power.

Councillor Midgley retorted that if he had been in the same position, he would have had the decency to resign.

There was applause from the public galleries, whose occupants were sternly rebuked by the Lord Mayor, who also threatened to clear the galleries if there were a repetition.

Councillor Mullen seconded the amendment.

Councillor Henderson said that he scarcely knew what to say, because he held that some members of the Special Committee were also at fault.

Alderman Nixon thought there was a vagueness about the amendment, because it mentioned no one in particular, and they did not know who it included.

Alderman Duff said that the Special Committee were aware they had no power to single out members of the Council and call for their resignation. It was a matter for the constituencies and not for the Council.

Councillor Somerset said that he came to the meeting prepared to support the four members of the Committee. If there was

COMPANY DIRECTOR'S ARREST ON LEAVING MAIL BOAT.

(BEFORE MR. COLLINS.)

Jerome Goodbody, Talbot Lodge, Blackrock, Co. Dublin, and Ernest W. Tester, described as a company director, of Old Colony Club, Aldwych House, London, were charged on warrant with having unlawfully conspired, with each other and with other persons, by false pretences and subtle means and devices, to obtain from James Quinn and such other members of the public as might buy shares in a company known as "the Dublin County and Sports Club, Ltd.," various sums of money with intent to defraud.

Mr. O'Flaherty (of the Chief State Solicitor's Office) prosecuted.

Mr. Lynn (instructed by Mr. Campbell) appeared for Tester, and Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, for Goodbody.

Superintendent Peter Ennis stated that he arrested Tester when he was getting off the mail boat at Kingstown that morning. When the warrant was read to him Tester seemed to be surprised, and the witness read it again. Tester then said that he must have legal advice.

The witness arrested Goodbody that morning at Goodbody's works, Donore avenue. The defendant said, "I resigned from the club last Thursday." Both defendants, when charged later at the Bridewell, said that they would leave the matter to their counsel.

Mr. O'Flaherty said that that was all the evidence he proposed to give that day. He asked for a remand.

Mr. Burne, asking for bail, stated that the amount involved was small.

Mr. O'Flaherty said that he did not object to bail, but must hold that it would have to be substantial. He suggested £500 in each case.

Mr. Collins—How much is involved, can you tell me?

Mr. O'Flaherty—Thousands of pounds.

Mr. Collins remanded the accused men on independent bail of £500 each until Thursday, the 10th inst.

[The Dublin County and Sports Club, Ltd., was recently registered as a joint stock company, with a capital of £151,000. According to a statement circulated to the public, one of the objects was the formation of a club, and for this purpose the Royal Marine Hotel, Kingstown, was being acquired. It was proposed to run the club on Continental lines. Arrangements were to be made for the installation of the "Pari-Mutuel," which would be operated on all the principal races in Ireland, England and France. A proposal to hold a skill competition in connection with the Derby, with £20,000 in prizes, was set out in the prospectus.]

POSTMAN'S ALLEGED THEFT.

John Herron, a temporary postman, living at Blessington street, was charged with stealing about 70s. from a cigarette box behind the counter of the confectionery shop 12 Lower Abbey street, occupied by James Desmond, last Monday night.

It was alleged that the accused man, after asking for cigarettes, went behind the counter, took the money, and ran away. He was pursued by a crowd and arrested by Detective McGillion.

Formal evidence having been given, the accused man was remanded until to-morrow.

PUBLIC'S DISTASTE FOR BILLS.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Charged with posting bills on a doorway at Fairview, a man named Valentine Hopkins exhibited a small yellow bill and pleaded that that was the only bill that he had posted. He tore it off after putting it up. There was "nothing political in it." He put up the bill because there was no notice against it.

Mr. Cussen observed that some people objected to yellow bills, some to green bills and some to red bills. He allowed the defendant off under the Probation of Offenders Act, and warned him against repeating the offence.

FREE STATE TRADE.

ADVERSE BALANCE STILL MOUNTING.

The adverse trade balance of the Irish Free State for the twelve months ended April 30th last stood at £18,585,000, according to the official trade statistics published by the Department of Industry and Commerce yesterday.

The striking feature of the return is the continued decline in the volume of exports. For the first four months of this year we exported to Great Britain £9,639,000 worth of goods, as compared with £9,852,297 for the corresponding period of last year; to Northern Ireland commodities to the value of £1,601,963 were sent, as against £1,933,242 worth during the four months ending April 30th last year. During the same period exports to "other countries" increased from £309,992 in 1925 to £313,673 this year.

TOTAL TRADE.

THE AMERICAN IMPORTS.

The total trade with Great Britain, Northern Ireland, and all other countries during the period was as follows:—

| 4 months ending April 30. | Imports. | Exports. | Re-exports. |
|---|---|---|---|

Imports from America during the first four months of this year totalled in value £1,425,330, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of over £200,000, but that country actually bought less from us; £73,345 was the value of their purchases from the Free State during these four months. In the corresponding period of last year they bought from us goods valued at £92,138. We exported to the Argentine £3,596 worth of goods, and received from that country £318,706 worth. Belgium is one of the Free State's best customers; yet the quantity of exports they take from us is small compared with the quantity we receive from them. To Belgium we exported £38,841 worth, and imported goods to the value of £203,440.

A COMPARISON.

| | Imports. | Exports. |
|---|---|---|
| Bacon | £793,359 | £871,591 |
| Butter | [illegible]13,875 | 199,859 |
| Eggs | 8,940 | 1,251,123 |
| Wheat | 1,297,866 | — |
| Jams and Marmalades | 50,760 | — |
| Potatoes | 35,374 | 19,914 |
| Tea | 851,890 | — |
| Porter, Beer and Ale | [illegible]8,091 | 1,710,099 |
| Spirits | 58,776 | 60,974 |
| Boots and Shoes | 628,443 | — |
| Cattle | 72,131 | 3,691,885 |
| Pigs | — | 375,453 |
| Sheep | — | 166,168 |
| Horses | 302,983 | 674,357 |

INCREASED EGG EXPORTS.

Imports of eggs show a steady decline, while the influence of the recent legislation regarding the exportation of Irish eggs is indicated in the increase of our egg exports. During the period under review we exported eggs to the value of £1,251,123, as against £1,210,159 worth for the corresponding four months of last year.

A marked decrease in the value of wearing apparel imports of all kinds is recorded, and we imported £628,443 worth of boots and shoes, as against £720,765 worth in the same period of last year.

FREE STATE BETTING TAX.

TRAINERS' PROTEST.

The following resolution against the betting tax has been signed by the principal trainers in the Free State:—

"We, the undersigned trainers, aware of the great difficulties that most of the race executives have in carrying on their meetings at present, view with the utmost alarm the proposal to put a percentage tax on wagers, as stated in the Budget proposals by the Minister for Finance. The proposal is so drastic that it can have but one result—the end of betting on the racecourse, and with this the finish of the race meetings; as without betting there will be no attendance and racing could not continue.

"Our position in such an eventuality would admit of no alternative but to go abroad, as naturally owners would cease having horses trained in the Saorstat unless race meetings were also available in which to run their animals.

"The financial loss caused would extend far beyond racing circles and the horse-breeding industry; for the upkeep of a training establishment spreads an enormous amount of money in the local areas where such are situated, and, besides the employment given directly and indirectly, contributes a substantial sum to the local rates and taxes.

"We, therefore, desire to enter our vigorous protest against the proposed percentage tax, which is inequitable in principle and crushing in effect, believing that the Minister will, when he realises its implications, adopt some more practical method for raising the amount he mentioned in the Budget statement."

The resolution is signed by:—J. J. Parkinson, Michael Collins, R. Morgan, H. J. Delmage, John Doyle, Joseph Manley, E. J. Fordred, E. Fitzgibbon, M. J. Harty, P. N. Perry, T. D. McKeever, J. Four of seven members of a Special Committee of the Belfast Corporation who had been appointed to examine the findings of the Commissioner who recently inquired into the Council's housing schemes have recommended the appointment of paid Commissioners to administer the affairs of the city for at least three years.—(Page 5.)

Yesterday evening policemen found Mr. William J. Ryan, solicitor, lying in his office in Lower Gardiner street, Dublin, with a bullet wound in his head and his face badly injured. He died soon afterwards. Daniel Joseph Gleeson, a law student, who was found in the office, is in custody.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Baldwin last night told the House of Commons that, in the event of an agreement in the coal dispute, Government assistance in some form would be necessary. The Government was still prepared to give legislative effect to conditions which would complete an agreed settlement.—(Page 7.)

The Free State Executive is to confer with the British Government on the question of the Medical Register in the Free State.—(Page 7.)

It is hinted that Mr. Lloyd George may resign from the Liberal Party as the result of further criticisms made by Lord Oxford and other members of the "Shadow" Cabinet.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Epsom yesterday Birthright won the Woodcote Stakes.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were steady. Some of the speculative departments were dull.—(Page 4.)

Money was in good supply in Lombard street, and short loans were offered at 4¼ down to 4 per cent. Discount rates were weaker. French francs improved in value.—(Page 4.)

Bankrupt China.

China's methods of warfare are, indeed, a Chinese puzzle. Two months ago the military situation was definite and its outcome seemed to be inevitable. The allied war lords, Chang Tso-lin and Wu Pei-fu, had surrounded the Kuominchun, or Nationalist, armies outside the gates of Peking. These armies were starving and had offered terms of surrender; and their friend Feng, the "Christian General," had sought refuge with his Russian supporters. It seemed that within a few days Chang and Wu must be masters of Peking, and that at last a strong Government would restore some semblance of peace and law to a distracted country. For two months, however, nothing happened, and now the curtain rises once more on a very different scene. The Kuominchun, invigorated, it would appear, by starvation, have turned upon their pursuers, have broken their line, and, after two days of fierce fighting, have compelled the Manchurian Army to fall back upon a line twelve miles north of Peking. That city is powerless to resist a new invader; for it is virtually without a Government. The Government of Tuan Chi-jui disappeared some weeks ago, and, although a new Cabinet exists in theory, not a single Minister has been appointed. It is probable that no intelligent resident of Peking would risk a speculation concerning the city's fate within the next few weeks. The Kuominchun's success is ascribed to the inaction of Wu Pei-fu's troops. From the outset the quality of Wu's co-operation with Chang Tso-lin has been doubtful, and some re-shuffling of alliances may create an entirely new situation at any moment. In the meanwhile the perennial hope that the country's need may produce a really "strong man" has been revived by Marshal Sun Chuan-fang's bid for power. The over-lord of five provinces, which include Fukien and the rich city of Shanghai, he has announced the formation of these provinces into an independent State. Chinese opinion generally welcomes Sun's emergence as a possible arbiter of the Republic's destinies. He declares that, if a good Government is established at Peking, he will support it.

In such a chaos of affairs the task of the Tariff Commission, which has been sitting at Peking for more than six months, has been hopeless. Now some of the foreign delegates have left the city, and the chief Chinese delegate has taken refuge in Shanghai. The Washington resolutions, of which the Conference was to be the instrument, offered to China new and large powers of taxation in return for the reform of abuses, such as the likin, or provincial taxes, that are a hindrance to foreign trade. While, however, the resolutions contemplated concessions to an organised State, China to-day is utterly disorganised. The Conference opened with a display of differences between the Powers themselves. Japan, for instance, was unwilling to concede surtaxes which Europe and the United States favoured, because her trade with China, being mainly in cheap commodities, would be injured by higher scales of duties. Last November, however, the Conference contrived an agreed formula, by which the Powers consented to recognise China's right to tariff autonomy, while "the Government of the Chinese Republic" declared that likin would be abolished simultaneously with the enforcement of the Chinese National Tariff Law on January 1st, 1929. Even then the Powers and China were not really ad idem; for Chinese opinion was concentrated solely on the idea of tariff independence, while the Powers regarded the grant of such independence as being strictly contingent on the abolition of likin. The foreign delegates evolved a scale of surtaxes calculated to produce annually ninety million dollars—the sum needed to compensate the provinces for the loss of likin, to consolidate the foreign debt and to provide the Chinese Government with funds for administrative expenses. Since last November, however, Chinese affairs have gone from bad to worse. There is no Central Government; there is not the remotest prospect of debt consolidation, or of the abolition of those likin which are the chief perquisite of successful revolt. The Tariff Conference has been a fiasco, and the Powers must adopt more effective methods with the vast and bankrupt Republic of China.

Roads and the Land.

We have much sympathy with the complaint of Mr. Burke, Minister for Local Government, in Dáil Eireann yesterday, touching the immoderate charges made against the Irish roads. It is wrong to affirm that our roads are the worst in Europe, and absurd to follow up such a declaration with the demand that they be transformed immediately into the best. We agree with the Minister's claim that the Government deserves great credit for the measure of improvement which has been carried out already. To-day a motorist can tour the Free State, if not in the luxury of England, at least with reasonable comfort. Mr. Burke revealed some of the details of the Government's scheme for the reconstruction of 1,500 miles of trunk roads. An expenditure of £2,000,000 has been voted for this work. The operations will be directed from a national centre, but maintenance will be saddled partly on the local authorities. The roads to be reconstructed run in a radial system from Dublin, branching at different points to outlying districts. As outlined by Mr. Burke last night, the system appears in the main to be well considered. It will be observed, however, that many centres of relatively congested population, such as the highlands of Donegal, north-western and south-western Connaught, and south-west County Cork—districts which a progressive transport system ought to open up rather than leave backward—are untouched. We must condemn Mr. Burke's failure and explicit refusal to formulate a national transport policy. Mr. Good, criticising the Minister's proposals, observed that no departure was being made from the bad, old system of maintenance, and appealed for a statement of intentions for the future. In effect, Mr. Burke replied that transport must muddle along in the future as in the past. We should be ready to sympathise more fully with the Misister's complaint against captious criticism and extravagant demands if he had shown that the Government is looking into the future with a clear purpose of development.

Ireland's prime industry, agriculture, and our valuable tourist trade both require for their prosperity a sound transport system. Fresh efforts to capture from Ireland what remains of her hold upon the cattle trade in Britain were foreshadowed in a discussion in the Canadian House of Commons which is reported to-day. It was announced that the Dominion Government hoped to establish a reciprocal arrangement with the United States for free interchange of cattle and farm produce generally. Such an arrangement, in itself, might be expected to react favourably rather than otherwise upon the Irish traffic in cattle, which is suffering at present from Canadian gains in England. The debate, however, showed that the proposed plan sprang from Canada's need for larger markets. Members of the Dominion Parliament spoke of the need for larger exports "in Great Britain or the United States." From these words it is evident that the production of cattle in Canada is mounting rapidly and that the Dominion is becoming a second Argentine. Enterprise in Canada must be matched by alertness in Ireland. Alertness might find, perhaps, scope for a greatly increased production of Irish pork in the news regarding the discovery of the source of foot-and-mouth infection in Britain. Yesterday Colonel Walter Guinness announced in the House of Commons the fact that the disease had been traced to carcases of foreign pigs imported from the Continent through Holland. Probably this discovery will lead to at least a temporary embargo on the importation into England of foreign pigs, and in that event efforts should be made to recover the lost hold of Irish pork on the English market. The Free State Minister for Agriculture is to be congratulated on his efforts in one branch of production in which State action is essential. In the coming year £34,000 will be spent on the acquisition of lands for afforestation and planting operations. A forestry bill is promised which will systematise the whole operations of the country under this head.

The Colour Bar.

The problem of the "colour bar" in South Africa has reached a very critical stage. A bill has been passed by both Houses of the Union Parliament, sitting together, which will have the effect of condemning the native and coloured population of the country to permanent exclusion from all skilled trades. The struggle over this matter has been in progress for almost forty years. The British element in South Africa has been anxious to raise the status of the natives, whereas the Boers have been doing everything in their power to keep them in a position of helpless inferiority. The first crisis was reached in 1911, when the white trade unions secured the passage of the Mines and Works Act, which excluded natives from certain trades. In 1918 they threatened a "lightning" strike unless the provisions of this Act should be enforced; and their policy seemed to be succeeding everywhere when, in 1923, the Supreme Court of South Africa ruled that the "colour bar" was ultra vires, and that the regulations against native labour were "unreasonable, capricious and arbitrary." The present Act, apparently, is the Hertzog-Labour coalition's reply to that judgment. Six million natives and coloured people will be affected by the new law, which is about to receive the Royal assent. One of the triumphs of British imperial policy has been its refusal to discriminate, as the Americans discriminate, against coloured people. For the South African, however, the problem is not a matter of political ethics; it is a matter of life and death, and for that reason, much as one may deplore the new law, it would be unfair to raise the cry of "slavery." General Hertzog's attitude towards the natives is not the British attitude, but he is responsible for his country's good government, and ought to be the best judge of its needs.

Summer's Lease.

The month of May, 1926, has achieved an unenviable record; for it has been the dreariest month of its name since 1887. The rainfall was abnormally high; March-like gales shook the darling buds of our gardens and orchards, and the rare appearances of a bashful sun were followed immediately by spells of wintry cold. Our climate seems to become more and more variable as the years progress. A period of tropical heat may be interspersed with days of equinoctial bluster. Extremes chase each other through the months, and all the lore of the prophets is powerless to predict the weather for twenty-four hours ahead. All sorts of theories are being advanced for this condition of affairs. Some people are convinced that the disturbance of the ether by "wireless" waves is the source of all the trouble; others vaguely put the blame on the war, while others again are inclined to include the weather in their comprehensive list of things that, as a result of modern methods of government, are going to the dogs. Whatever the explanation may be, however, the fact remains that something is happening in our latitudes to upset our preconceived ideas on the subject of the seasons. The antics of last month may have been merely an unpleasant prelude to a glorious June, and the optimists already are predicting a summer of almost unprecedented warmth. In the meanwhile umbrellas and overcoats are the order of the day. The people of Ireland are shivering on the threshold of a month in which, we are told, "if ever, come perfect days"; and even the warmest-blooded athlete enters his morning bath with a gasp.

QUESTIONS IN DAIL.

MILITARY PENSIONS.

In the Dail yesterday,

The Minister for Defence informed Mr. David Hall that the number of persons in receipt of disability pensions was 334. In addition, there were 82 persons in whose cases temporary pensions had been suspended pending reconsideration. Eighteen pensioners and eleven persons who might receive pensions or gratuities were receiving medical treatment in St. Bricin's Hospital.

The number of claims for military service pensions awarded and being paid was 1,226. The number awarded and not yet paid, but about to be paid, was 243. The number of claims under consideration by the Department of Defence, the Board of Assessors having reported service for pension purposes, was 268. The number of claims under investigation by the Board of Assessors was 8,085. The number of claims rejected was about 11,630.

DISTRESS IN COUNTY DUBLIN.

Mr. William Norton (Labour) asked the Minister for Local Government if he was aware that acute distress existed in North County Dublin, and if he would state why he declined to permit the Balrothery Rural Council to put into force Section 13 of the Local Government Act, 1898, for the relief of distress.

Mr. Burke said he had received two reports on the matter recently, and after very careful consideration he was satisfied that the circumstances would not justify the issue of an order under Section 13 of the Act of 1898.

In reply to a supplementary question by Mr. Johnson, the Minister said that he was satisfied that the distress was acute enough on the occasion of the first visit of the inspector. He was inclined to think that an effort was being made to bring pressure upon him to enforce this section of the Act, as the local authority was anxious to make the relief of distress in that area a county at large charge instead of a district charge.

Mr. Johnson asked if the Minister received lists of practically 600 people, many unemployed, with families of from one to seven, would he recognise that that connoted acute distress.

Major Byran Cooper asked whether the Minister was aware that the inspector visited the district on two afternoons only, and that on one of those occasions, at least, exceptional relief was being given by the County Council, who gave three weeks' relief work.

Mr. Burke said that in his report the inspector said that in three weeks' time the situation would be considerably relieved.

OBITUARY.

THE HON. MARTIN MADDEN.

The death is announced at Quebec, at the age of 57 years, of the Hon. Martin Madden, Minister without portfolio in the Quebec Porvincial Government.

CONVERSATIONS WITH ROME.

ARCHBISHOP CRITICISED BY HOME SECRETARY.

"Where is the Archbishop of Canterbury? Where is the Bishop of London? Why are they not here, standing side by side, hand in hand, with the great leaders of the Nonconformist churches, who are here to-night," asked the Home Secretary, at a meeting in London, organised by the World's Evangelical Alliance, which passed resolutions declaring unwavering devotion to the principles of the Protestant Reformation, and expressing concern at the undisguised Romeward reaction of the Church of England.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks declared that they were not going to submit to the importation of doctrines of another Church, and protested against English Churchmen like Lord Halifax conducting conversations with the knowledge, and the more or less tacit approval, of the head of the Church of England.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE.

FREE STATE DELEGATES' SPEECHES.

At yesterday's sitting of the International Labour Conference in Geneva, Mr. Mortishead, Adviser to the Irish Free State Delegation, said that he profoundly regretted that the eight hours' convention had not yet been ratified by his Government. He also complained of the delay of Great Britain in ratifying the convention, and said that it was time that the British Government ceased playing the child's game of "This year, next year, some time, 'never,'" and came down to some definite decision.

He concluded by expressing the hope that before long representatives of the Government, the employers and the organised workers of the United States of America would participate in their deliberations.

Mr. Michael Deegan, Irish Free State, alluding to the directors' report dealing with the new building of the Labour Office, which is to be officially inaugurated on the 6th inst., announced that the Irish Free State Government offered a gift of £300 to help to defray the expenses of the building.—(Reuter.)

BRAY'S UNPAID INCOME TAX.

The Local Government Department has sanctioned the raising of a loan of £7,327 12s. 6d. by the Bray Urban Council for the payment of income tax arrears.

Thirty bandits were killed yesterday in the Gardens of Damascus, says a Reuter message, dealing with the French operations in Syria.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King of Norway is recovering satisfactorily from the wound which was inflicted on his arm by a savage dog last week. Queen Maud curtailed her visit to London and left Buckingham Palace last Saturday for Harwich en route for Oslo to rejoin King Haakon. Prince Olav is remaining in England at present.

The Duke of York and Princess Beatrice have promised to attend the matinée in aid of the Queen's Hospital for Children, which will be given to-morrow at the Comedy Theatre, London. ## FEES FOR EXAMINING LUNATICS.

A special meeting of Strabane and district magistrates was held to consider the circular issued by the Strabane Board of Guardians intimating that the Board objected to pay a greater fee than £1 1s. to doctors for examining lunatics. There had been a difference of opinion among magistrates on the question, and some magistrates certified higher amounts, to which the Board of Guardians took exception.

The magistrates, after discussion, unanimously agreed to the fee of one guinea fixed by the Board of Guardians.

SHAKESPEARE IN IRELAND.

THE DORAN SEASON IN BELFAST, DUBLIN AND CORK.

SELDOM do the best plays from across the Channel come to Ireland, and still more seldom is Shakespeare played in the Irish cities which once were centres of dramatic taste in which many Shakespearian actors first made their names. All the more, therefore, should we be grateful to Mr. Charles Doran and his company for the performances which filled houses in Belfast and Cork, and now are giving pleasure to Dublin audiences.

Mr. Doran has given ten different plays in Dublin, and during the remainder of this week he will repeat six of them. The present writer has seen them all, save one, and dares to affirm that almost all were notable successes. The comedies are done best: they are feasts of good humour, rich traditional humorous acting, pleasant music and Shakespearean vitality. The tragedies are of varying quality. "Hamlet" is disappointing, but "Macbeth" and "Julius Cæsar" are admirable.

* * * * * * *

Perhaps, there is no great acting in the Doran productions. Seldom, however, was there better team-work. Some Shakespearian companies of the past have included brighter "stars" in their players, but have given us less satisfying performances. After all, Shakespeare would be an intellectual joy if his plays were but recited with clear enunciation and judicious delivery. Brilliant declamation, inspired interpretation, are good things, but a modest and even production is far better than a production in which all the fine details of the play are crushed into subordination to one player's display.

Thus, "Much Ado about Nothing" is one of the most charming pieces in the Doran repertoire, and yet it had not one really strong part. Mr. Doran is to be thanked, indeed, for the prettiness of the production. The masked dance, with the airy speeches sounding against a gentle background of dance music, is pure delight, for which the credit goes to the producer. The harmonious work of the company, with many fine touches of gesture and of team acting, is Mr. Doran's. Above all these, the poetry of Shakespeare, the cordial humanity that is missing from modern art, stand out, to be enjoyed.

The constant service of the antique world,
When service sweat for duty, not for meed!
Thou art not for the fashion of these times,
Where none will sweat but for promotion.

These lines were delivered superbly in "As You Like it"; but merely recited in clear fashion, they move us.

* * * * * * *

The supreme praise for Mr. Doran's company, then, is that we are given Shakespeare, honestly and fairly. It is surprising that Irish parents do not see to it that every child of school-going age is given the chance to see these plays; for Shakespeare seen on the stage is Shakespeare half-studied. Here is a chance, almost unique, to learn the full dignity of Shakespearian declamation, the pride and humanity of Shakespearian drama, the magic of the old-time song: "Blow, blow, thou wintry wind," "O mistress mine, where are you roaming?"—airs that multiply their loveliness when heard in their proper setting.

Ten plays make a large repertoire, when each is a world of interest in itself. Perhaps, "Richard III." was not the best addition that could have been made this year. We miss "The Tempest." Among the rarer plays that we fain would see revived is "Coriolanus"—a play full of splendid things, and finer in its tragic movement than "Julius Cæsar."

Great pains were spent on "Macbeth," and the production justified them. Two additions to Mr. Doran's touches of local colour might be suggested. In the ceremonial passages the skirl of the pipes would add to the atmosphere of the North; and the touch of the keen, heard after the death of Lady Macbeth, might be made more authentic by taking the real thing that is used in the "Riders to the Sea."

CROSS-CHANNEL SERVICES.

HOW THE L.M.S. HAS HELPED IRELAND.

During the last month the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Co. rendered notable services to Ireland. The general strike lasted nine days, but the management was able to maintain the Kingstown-Holyhead mail boat service, with connections to London and other important centres in England on all save three days.

After the stoppage the day service was restored in preference to the night service in order to conserve the supply of coal. The train from London to Holyhead served not merely Ireland but a great part of England. In view, however, of representations made by various public bodies the company agreed to cancel the day mail and reinstate the night mail service in order to cater better for Irish needs. The train from London to Holyhead carries not only passengers and luggage for the mail boat, but also fish, fruit and vegetables for shipment by the company's cargo boat which reaches the North Wall, Dublin, at 8 o'clock every morning.

The full service of cargo boats between the North Wall and Holyhead was restored at the earliest possible moment. This was a great boon to Irish traders. It could not have been done if large consignments of foreign coal had not been purchased by the company. Stocks of coal have been purchased by the company in Ireland in order to maintain the Kingstown-Holyhead service.

The Drogheda services were reduced to one sailing a week, and in order to assist the trading community a supply of coal was kept in reserve.

Owing to the limited supply of British coal obtainable the company found it necessary to suspend the sailings from Greenore. It is hoped, however, that a modified service will be resumed on this route at an early date.

MOTOR REGULATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have seen a letter on the above subject from Major T. C. Goff in your issue of to-day, and I must say that I have the greatest sympathy with all that Major Goff has stated. It is well that the public should know what has taken place in regard to the institution of the international travelling pass system. When the Irish Free State became a separate signatory to the Convention of Paris, under which the international travelling pass system is operative, it had the effect of automatically putting an end to a system which had been in operation for a couple of years between Great Britain and the Free State, and the Free State and Northern Ireland, whereby the parties had mutually agreed to recognise each other's road licence duties. Recognising that the institution of the international travelling pass would be a great inconvenience to Free State motorists, my Committee took steps to approach the Government of Northern Ireland and the British Ministry of Transport, through the Royal Automobile Club, with a view to having the system of inter-validity continued, having already assured ourselves of the fact that such a system would receive the sympathetic support of the Government of the Free State.

It is satisfactory to know that the Government of Northern Ireland received our representations with sympathy, and the result to-day is that it is not necessary to have an international travelling pass to proceed to that area, nor is it necessary for a Northern motorist to possess one when entering the Free State. In regard to Great Britain there appeared to be administrative difficulties which prevented the same policy from being adopted by the Ministry of Transport, and under the regulations of the Convention it is necessary for the car and the driver to be examined whenever an international travelling pass is issued, and these passes are only available for twelve months. My experience, and I know it is the experience of most of our members, is that, when touring in England, they are never asked for their travelling passes, and I think the same may be said of English tourists coming into the Free State. I am thankful to say there is little trouble on that score with the police in either country; but it would be a great convenience to tourists were it possible for the British Government to agree to some system such as has been instituted between the Government of the Free State and the Government of Northern Ireland in regard to the temporary circulation of motor cars used by temporary visitors in each area respectively.—Yours, etc.,

WALTER SEXTON, Honorary Secretary.

LONDON LETTER.

PARLIAMENT RE-OPENS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON.

TUESDAY NIGHT.

The re-assembling of the House of Commons brought a goodly number of members to Westminster to-day, but there was nothing in the way of the usual early morning rush to obtain favoured seats. The Lobby was deserted until ten minutes to eight, when Sir Frederick Wise arrived, followed shortly afterwards by about half a dozen members. The great event of the day from the Socialist point of view was the introduction of Mr. Gardner, the member for Hammersmith. With his sponsors, the new member walked up the floor of the House amid enthusiastic cheers. Mr. Gardner and the Socialist Whips wore scarlet buttonholes to mark the occasion, but the example was little followed on the Opposition benches. When the new member was signing the roll the Socialists enjoyed a fling at the Conservative benches, shouting all manner of remarks, the effect being lost, however, because they all shouted at once. Then Mr. Jack Jones led an attempt to sing "The Red Flag," but the Speaker looked sternly at the Socialist benches, and the melancholy strains died away.

Derby Day.

The Lobby presented a very animated scene this afternoon after the question hour, and members were deeply engaged in discussing, not the coal dispute or the latest Liberal sensation, but the prospects for the Derby. The sunshine streaming through the painted windows probably induced a desire on the part of many of those present to go to Epsom to-morrow; but there is to be an important debate on an Address to the King and the Emergency Powers Act, and comparatively few will be able to motor down to the famous meeting. Regarding the Liberal position, the general idea seemed to be that Mr. Lloyd George will come out the victor, and that Lord Oxford probably will retire from active political life. It was noticed this afternoon in the House that Mr. Lloyd George was for a long time in close conversation with Sir John Simon, reputedly one of his greatest opponents in the councils of the Liberal Party.

Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

Considerable satisfaction will be felt in Ireland at the definite announcement made by Colonel Walter Guinness, the Minister of Agriculture, to-day, that the cause of cases of foot-and-mouth disease in this country is traceable to foreign pigs brought in for bacon-curing at British factories. It has been often suggested, and in fact stated, that animals coming from Ireland had brought the infection with them; but the clear announcement made to-day will put an end to such suggestions. The discovery is a matter of considerable importance generally, and it becomes obvious that the Ministry of Agriculture will have to take immediate steps to deal with it.

Egypt.

I have mentioned that the return to power of Zaghlul Pasha in Egypt has brought about a position of great delicacy. Lord Lloyd, the British High Commissioner in Cairo, has been in touch with Zaghlul Pasha since the elections, and it appears that the position of the Pasha, whose anti-British campaign reached a culmination in the brutal murder of the Sirdar, is just the same as it was. The return of Zaghlul to power with even greater strength than he had on the former occasion has brought the situation to a head, and Lord Lloyd has asked for instructions from the British Government. The Cabinet sat for an hour and a half last night discussing the position, and Sir Austen Chamberlain after the meeting sent the necessary instructions to Lord Lloyd, in order that they should reach him to-day. It is notable that there was a meeting of the Committee of Imperial Defence to-day, when Sir L. Worthington-Evans, the Secretary for War, was among those present.

The Coal Dispute.

Ostensibly there are no negotiations proceeding for a settlement of the coal dispute, but, as I mentioned last week, unofficial negotiations are taking place. The Prime Minister is a party to them, and he has seen representatives both of the miners and of the owners recently. It is hoped that something in the nature of a peace formula will have been evolved before the close of the week, and not until such a stage has been reached is it likely that the negotiations will assume an official status. The representatives of the Miners' Federation met in London to-day to discuss the question of an embargo on foreign coal, but it is unlikely that the Government will for one moment permit any interference with the import of coal from any quarter.

The Medical Council.

The London Gazette announces this evening that the King has been pleased to appoint Mr. Hilton Young, M.P., to be a member of the General Council of Medical Education and Registration in the United Kingdom for five years, in succession to Sir Francis H. Champneys, Bart., M.D. This marks a new departure in the constitution of the Council; for it is the first time that a lay member has been appointed to this body of distinguished medical men. It may be recalled that the possibility of such an appointment was mooted some months ago, and it is considered possible that it may be followed by others of a like character.

The Betting Tax.

Mr. Churchill at the Treasury to-day received a large and representative deputation from the Turf Guardian Society in order to discuss the betting tax. The meeting lasted two hours and a half, and at its close the members of the deputation refused to make any statement, declaring that they were unable to do so because they were pledged to secrecy. The Treasury officials also declined to issue a statement.

Varied Opposition.

Mr. Churchill will be busily employed for the next few weeks in receiving further deputations from various bodies regarding the tax, which still excites much opposition, though the reasons assigned for objecting to the impost are widely different in character. When the deputations on this subject cease it will be the turn of the motoring organisations to wait on the Chancellor of the Exchequer; for the Royal Automobile Club and the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders are combining to urge a change of policy with respect to the purposes to which the sums collected as motor vehicle tax are allotted. The diversion of money from the Road Fund has been much discussed, and representations are to be made to the Government to appoint a Royal Commission to consider the whole subject of the taxation of motor vehicles and the construction of new highways.

To-day's Race.

The Derby is the all-important matter for discussion to-day, and, while Colorado remains favourite, the bookmakers are deeply concerned because they stand to lose nearly two million pounds on bets made before the strike. It is said that there are only five horses that count from the bookmakers' point of view, these being Colorado, Coronach, Swift and Sure, Lex, and Apple Sammy. One doubtful problem about the meeting is the weather, the official forecast suggesting that it will be unsettled, with considerable fair periods.

Mr. C. J. Krige, the former Speaker, and other members of the South African Parliament, were ordered to withdraw from the House during a heated all night sitting.

MINISTER REVEALS DETAILS IN THE DAIL.

DETAILS of the Free State Government's plan to reconstruct 1,500 miles of trunk roads were given to Dail Eireann yesterday by Mr. S. Burke, Minister for Local Government.

It is proposed to borrow £2,000,000 for ten years at 5½ per cent. Capital and interest payments will be met out of the Road Fund.

The Government believes that the new scale of taxation on motor vehicles will yield between £600 000 and £700,000 a year, and that, when the loan charges have been met, there will be ample funds for necessary works in counties not touched by the scheme.

The work will be done under the supervision of a central authority, and may be entrusted to local bodies. Reconstructed roads must be maintained at a certain standard.

Mr. Burke claimed that the Free State roads compared favourably with the roads of any other country in Europe, except England. Since 1914 their cost to the ratepayers had increased by 98 per cent.

Dail Eireann yesterday resumed the discussion of the vote for the salaries and expenses of the offices of the Land Commission.

Mr. Nolan (Limerick) said that the cry throughout the country was "Divide the land," but there was no question of the price that the owner was going to get for it. He did not want to suggest that the Land Commission should confiscate the owners' right, but he did suggest that when the land was taken over the price should be such that the tenant would be put into the holding at an economic rent. Many people were being asked to pay annuities that were quite beyond them.

What the Land Commission should do was to concentrate on the lands they had on hands for the past fifteen years, and divide those before taking up new estates. In his own county he made inquiries, and found that on the Dickson estate there were sixty tenants who signed agreements to purchase almost twenty years ago, and the lands had not yet been vested. On an average, they were paying £14 a year interest in lieu of rent pending the vesting. That meant that in the twenty years no less than £16,800 had been sent out of the country—a dead loss to the State. As a protest, the tenants refused to pay the interest in lieu of rent, and they were brought to Court.

In one case the tenant explained why he did not pay, and the judge refused to make a decree. The £40,000 of defaulting annuities in Co. Limerick represented an addition to the rates of 2s. in the £, for the amount had to be made up out of the grants that would have gone to the rates.

THE ACTUAL AMOUNT.

Mr. Hogan said that the actual amount was £29,000. The deputy must know that the arrears were always greatest a month after the gale day. After that they began to come in, and as they were paid the amounts deducted from the grants were recouped to the local authority.

Mr. Nolan said that even at the Minister's figure, the arrears meant 1s. 4d. on the rates of the county. He warned the Government that the people would refuse to pay rates for their neighbours' default, resulting from the delay of the Land Commission in vesting lands in their hands for many years. The ranchers, like the publicans, were dying a natural death in Ireland.

Mr. Gorey said that, unfortunately, the Land Commission had paid attention to a widespread and ill-considered demand for the breaking-up of land, and had paid too much for it. Workmen on estates were induced to join in the demand, with the result that they lost their employment, got two to four acres of land and were now in a bad way—neither labourers nor farmers. It was a proceeding engineered by people making speeches at cross-roads out for popularity.

He would say publicly to the labourers of the country that they should consider the position very carefully before listening to those who, in the Dail and outside, were demanding the breaking up of all the land of the country. It might be a good thing to speed up the division of land where it was used as it was in Meath, but where such conditions did not apply the Land Commission should go slowly. Where land was broken up the labourers should get more consideration than they had so far received.

COUNTY CARLOW.

Mr. Doyle (Labour) said that in County Carlow there were 9,000 acres of untenanted land, not one acre of which had been divided. If the Land Commission did not speed up the division of the lands the only remedy would be revolution.

Mr. Sears dealt with the poor condition of the uneconomic holders in Mayo. He was convinced, he said, that the Land Commission was working at high pressure to provide land for those people, and he hoped that the pressure would be kept up, in spite of the movement in some parts of the country to prevent the transplanting into the good lands of the poor people of Mayo and Galway.

Several members described conditions in their own districts, and mentioned estates which they considered might be divided, and applications for land which they represented as pressing.

Mr. Hogan, Minister for Lands and Agriculture, said that it was quite evident that deputies were beginning to realise that the administration of land purchase was no soft job. They would have to realise that there was not sufficient land to deal with even one class. What the Land Commission would have to do would be to make a selection from every class, giving the congests preference above all others. In general it must be realised that out of every ten deserving applicants for land only one could get it.

QUESTION OF PRICES.

Dealing with the question of price, he said that 549 estates had been priced, and the aggregate price was £1,781,000. Out of these, 69 estates came before the Judicial Commissioner on appeal. The price put upon these was £409,710, and the price as it emerged from the Judicial Commission was £436,525, a total increase of £26,000. Mr. Hogan then quoted figures showing the average prices per acre for land under the Lands Acts.

|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ulster ...... | 1909 | £15.8 | 1923 | £10.5 |
| Leinster ...... | 1909 | £19.9 | 1923 | £16.3 |
| Connaught ...... | 1909 | £10.2 | 1923 | £8.3 |
| Munster ...... | 1909 | £15 | 1923 | £9.7 |

He warned deputies not to read too much into the figures, which were "a bit misleading." Everything depended on the quality of the land and the amount of good land and bad land on each estate. But the same considerations applied under both Acts, and hence they could compare them.

In reply to those who alleged that the Land Commission was paying too much for land, with the consequence that those who got divides could not meet their liabilities, he said that he had in his hand a list corrected to a month ago, showing the average prices paid in every county. The highest price was £27 an acre, and that was for one farm in County Dublin. The next highest was £20, and £17 the next. No one could say that those were extravagant prices.

RATE OF INTEREST.

He was not responsible for the fact that the rate of interest was 4¾ per cent., as against 3¼ per cent. under the Act of 1903. The annuity on land bought at £25 an acre would now be 26s. an acre, as against 16s. an acre formerly. Then they gave loans for housing and requirements to start the new tenants. A loan of £300 would add 11s. or 12s. per acre to the annuity, so they had the total annuity on the £25 an acre land something near 40s. an acre. In most cases about which complaints were brought to deputies that the Commission had paid too much to the owner, it would be found that the real reason for the high annuity was the loan granted at an extraordinarily low rate of interest.

He realised that they could not continue to make those loans and have land purchase an economic proposition. Accordingly, they would make larger grants for the purpose of starting people in the new holdings. To do that they would have to be prepared to lose considerable sums of money, but it would have to be done.

The Minister spoke of the great difficulties experienced by the Land Commission in dealing with the subject of placing congests on lands. One of the results of those difficulties was that a portion of land often had to be retained by the Commission until they got more to enable them to proceed with the work of division. Schemes of division of land could not be rushed if the results were to be satisfactory. A very large area of land had been acquired throughout the country, and a large number of the bigger farmers from the congested areas had been migrated to make room for the uneconomic holders in those areas.

THE ESSENTIALS.

Capital was desirable for a man getting new land, and if he were an inspector his first question to an applicant would be whether he had capital. But the possession of capital was not essential. The first essential for a man to get a division of land was a knowledge of farming, with a reputation for industry. The labourer and small farmer's son, without capital, but used to hard work, would often be a more valuable tenant-purchaser than many a man with capital. He wanted it to be known that the fact that a man was tenant of a Council cottage did not preclude him from getting a share of divided land.

By agreement, Major Cooper did not move his amendment to reduce the estimate for the salaries, wages, and staff of the Land Commission, and the vote was agreed to.

FORESTRY.

6,000,000 TREES PLANTED LAST YEAR.

On the motion to grant £25,457 to complete the sum of £37,457, estimate for the year of the grant-in-aid for the Forestry Fund,

Mr. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, said that the area of woodland in the country was only 240,000 acres, or 1.2 per cent. of the total area of the Free State. The policy of the Department was to increase that area to 5 per cent., and that would entail the planting of 600,000 acres more, as well as conservation of the existing area of woodland. The main difficulty about forestry lay in the fact that land was wanted for so many other purposes. Not less than 400 acres was an economic unit. The total area of land acquired up to 31st March last was 33,000 acres, and during the past year 2,043 acres had been planted, requiring six million trees.

The area planted annually had been increased steadily for the past five years, and considerably more was to be planted this year than was planted last year. The amount to be spent this year on acquisition of land and cultural operations was £34,000, an increase of £10,000 over last year.

Mr. O. G. Esmonde asked whether any progress had been made as regards forestry education, and whether the Minister could say anything with respect to the introduction of a Forestry Bill.

Mr. John Daly asked if it was necessary to send money out of the country in the purchase of young trees.

Mr. Conlan said that Kildare County Council had acquired a considerable extent of woodland. Some of it required planting to replace timber that had been cleared out, and he desired to know whether any grant would be made to the Council for the purpose.

DESOLATE DONEGAL.

Mr. John White said that in the Stranorlar area of County Donegal the country had been desolated by contractors who had purchased the woods. It would be well if the Department could exercise some authority to control such operations.

Mr. Heffernan suggested that some assistance might be provided to farmers who were willing to plant shelter belts on their land.

Mr. M. J. Hennessy urged that a larger sum than £150 should be provided for education in forestry.

Mr. Sears suggested that the Minister should initiate a large scheme of plantation along the Western seaboard.

Mr. Hogan explained that the only assistance that could be offered to county councils was the grants, roughly £20 an acre, for every acre of nurseries kept by a council, plus the wages of a forester for the first two years. One of the conditions was that that council should sell the young trees to farmers at cost price. That looked a sound enough scheme, but it had not been taken up very widely. They did not give grants in respect of lands permanently planted either by councils or others; and it was considered a sounder policy to concentrate the expenditure of the sum available in the hands of the Forestry Branch itself.

The question of a large expenditure for education in forestry was under discussion at present with the Ministry of Finance.

The purchase of trees outside the county was necessary. The Free State could not supply sufficient suitable young trees.

The Forestry Bill, he mentioned, would be a very long one, and he could not attempt to indicate its contents. With regard to the suggestion of a big planting scheme for the Western seaboard area, it would mean an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of pounds, and it was not certain that much of the land was not more useful as mountain grazing.

The vote was agreed to.

CREDIT SOCIETIES.

£33,687 ADVANCED BY THE STATE.

On the vote for £75,000 to meet the charge in respect of advances to Agricultural Credit Societies,

Mr. Hogan said that the number of credit societies, up to 18th May last, was 21, and the total advances were £33,687. Credit Societies had spread most in the places where they were most needed, with one exception, County Clare. He read a list showing that societies had been started in Cavan, Kerry, Leitrim, Limerick and Donegal. The societies were being organised by the I.A.O.S., under the very closest supervision as to operations and personnel. He had taken care to have inspections during the last couple of months, and he was satisfied that the money was being lent for the right purpose, and was being used economically and in thrifty fashion. He believed that every penny of this vote would be absorbed by the end of the year.

Mr. Gorey said that in many cases these credit societies had never reached the individuals or the districts where they were most needed. Nothing had been done in County Clare, although it was stated that the object of the movement was to relieve the conditions created by "fluke" in cattle.

Mr. Hewat said that on the basis of advancing £2 for £1 it would seem that the possibilities of extension were unlimited and might lead to very big business. He asked how the Minister contemplated finishing them without application for renewals for other purposes.

The vote was carried.

600 PASSENGERS RESCUED.

STEAMER RAMMED.

A LIVING CHAIN TO THE BOATS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

The steamer Washington Irving, running between Albany and New York, was rammed to-day by a tanker off Hoboken, with 600 passengers aboard, and sunk. All the passengers were rescued.

The steamer had only just left the pier when she was struck. The water came into the damaged hold so fast that shortly after the last passenger was taken off the boat had sunk to such a depth that only her super-structure showed above the surface.

WOMEN FAINT.

Although no serious injuries are reported, a number of women fainted at the time of the accident. The passengers were unanimous in praising the captain and crew for their coolness and heroism during the work of rescue.

Members of the crew formed a human chain by which the women and children were lowered to the lifeboats from the sinking ship. Near-by craft of all descriptions swarmed to the assistance of the stricken boat, and passengers were transferred and taken ashore.

TANKER UNKNOWN.

An effort was made to run the damaged vessel to the Jersey shore, but about a hundred feet from the land the hold became so filled by the inrushing water that the ship settled on the bottom.

The captain reported that after the collision the tanker apparently continued on its way, and the fog was so dense that the passengers were unable to see its name.

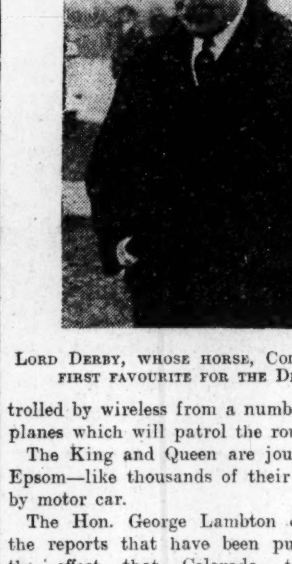

[The Washington Irving, which has a gross tonnage of 3,104 tons, is owned by the Hudson River Bay Line.]

MEDICAL REGISTER.

FREE STATE AND BRITISH GOVERNMENTS TO CONFER.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday.

The position of the Free State medical schools was referred to to-day at the opening meeting, in London, of the summer session of the General Medical Council.

The President, Sir Donald Macalister, M.D., said that the Privy Council had informed them that on February 19 the Medical Act, 1926, was passed by the Irish Free State. It continued the Medical Act of 1925 until August 21, 1926, which gave power to the Executive Council of the Free State to continue its operation for successive periods of one month until February 21, 1927, but no further.

A despatch from the Governor-General to the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs intimated that the question of a permanent arrangement in the matter of medical registration was engaging the attention of the Free State Government, and a later despatch announced that Ministers hoped to be in a position at an early date to ask for a conference with the British Government for the purpose of discussing a draft bill on the question.

The relations of Southern Ireland to the General Medical Council would, therefore, remain unchanged until August 21 at least, and medical registration would proceed as hitherto. They had as yet no official knowledge of what permanent arrangements might be proposed by the Free State.

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

IRISH BISHOPS TO ATTEND.

Cardinal O'Donnell is expected to arrive in Queenstown at about 8 p.m. next Thursday with a party of bishops and other clergymen. The party, which is accompanying His Eminence to the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago, will leave on the President Roosevelt next Friday. The following are those who are travelling in the Cardinal's suite:—The Archbishop of Cashel, Dr. Harty; Dr. McRory, Bishop of Down and Connor; Dr. Morrisroe, Bishop of Achonry; Dr. Doorly, Coadjutor Bishop of Ossory.

While at Queenstown the Cardinal will be the guest of the Most Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne, who has almost recovered from his recent accident.

BETTING TAX PROPOSALS.

WIDE POWERS FOR THE POLICE.

RIGHT OF SEARCH.

BETTING TICKETS TO BE ISSUED.

£500 PENALTIES.

CONTRARY, perhaps, to the general expectation the Free State Government's proposals for the imposition of a tax on betting have been embodied in the Finance Bill, which was introduced by the Minister of Finance in the Dail last Friday.

From the text of the measure, published yesterday, it is clear that the scheme outlined by the Minister in his Budget speech has undergone no modification.

It is learned officially that a separate bill is being introduced by Mr. Blythe to legalise cash betting. It is hoped that this new bill will be passed before the recess.

There are, in all, five clauses relating to the new tax. The first of these deals with the licensing of the "business of bookmaking"; the second with the registration of "bookmaking premises"; the third with the actual levy on bets; the fourth prescribing regulations for the payment of the duty; and the fifth, giving to the Civic Guard "powers of entry and search for documents."

TEXT OF THE PROPOSALS.

Following are the provisions:—

There shall be charged, levied, and paid for and upon every licence to act and carry on business as a bookmaker issued under any Act passed or to be passed during the financial year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1926, an excise duty at the following rates, that is to say:—

(a) on a licence expressed to be in force for one year—ten pounds;

(b) on a licence expressed to be in force for any period less than one year—two pounds for every day of such period.

EXCISE DUTY OF £20.

An excise duty of twenty pounds shall be charged, levied, and paid on the registration and also on every renewal of the registration of any premises in any register of premises maintained under any Act passed or to be passed in the financial year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1926, providing for the registration of premises in which the business of bookmaking is carried on.

The duty shall be charged and levied on and shall be paid by the person who is entered in such register as the proprietor of the premises in respect of the registration or renewal of the registration of which the duty is chargeable.

5 PER CENT. ON BETS.

There shall be charged, levied, and paid on and by every bookmaker who makes, lays, or otherwise enters into any bets on or after the 1st day of November, 1926, an excise duty (in this Act referred to as the duty on bets) of five per cent. of the amount of every bet entered into by him on or after the said 1st day of November, 1926.

The amount of a bet shall be the sum of money which by the terms of the bet the bookmaker will be entitled to receive, retain, or take credit for if the event the subject of the bet is determined in his favour.

REBATES.

Whenever it is proved to the satisfaction of the Revenue Commissioners that a bet in respect of which the duty imposed by this section is chargeable has become void for any reason other than the mutual consent of the parties thereto or that the amount of a bet in respect of which the said duty is chargeable has not been and is not likely to be collected by the bookmaker, the Revenue Commissioners may, subject to such conditions as they may think fit to impose, either (as the case may require) repay the duty paid or remit the duty chargeable in respect of such bet.

HEAVY PENALTY.

Every person who fails or neglects to pay any sum payable by and lawfully demanded from him in respect of the duty imposed by this section shall be guilty of an offence under this section and shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to an excise penalty of five hundred pounds.

BETTING TICKETS.

The Revenue Commissioners may make regulations for securing the payment of the duty on bets and generally for carrying the provisions of this Act in relation to such duty into effect, and in particular for—

(a)—the supply, use, and supervision of tax-paid betting pads, and the making of refunds in respect of unused or partially used such pads, and

(b)—the supply, use, and defacement of tax-paid betting tickets and the making of refunds in respect of unused such tickets, and

(c)—entering into arrangements with and taking security from bookmakers desiring to pay the duty on bets on the basis of returns furnished by them, and

(d)—requiring the production by bookmakers of their books, accounts, vouchers, tax-paid betting pads, tax-paid betting tickets, and other documents relating to the bookmaking business carried on by them, and authorising officers of the Revenue Commissioners to examine and take copies of or extracts from any such documents, and

(e)—granting to bookmakers remissions or refunds (as the case may require) of betting duty in cases in which the whole or any part of the contingent liability of a bookmaker in respect of a bet made, laid, or otherwise entered into by him is shown to the satisfaction of the Revenue Commissioners to have been transferred by such bookmaker to another bookmaker by means of a fresh bet made, laid, or otherwise entered into by the first-mentioned bookmaker with the second-mentioned bookmaker.

Every person who contravenes or fails to comply with a regulation shall be guilty of an offence under this section, and shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to an Excise penalty of five hundred pounds.

POLICE POWERS.

Any officer of Customs and Excise and any member of the Garda Siochana may at any time enter any premises in which the business of bookmaking is or is believed by such officer or member to be carried on, and may there search for, inspect, and take copies of or extracts from any books, accounts, letters, and other documents there found relating or believed by such officer or member to relate to the said business of bookmaking, and may further require any person found in such premises to produce all documents in such premises relating to the said business.

Every person who resists, obstructs, or impedes an officer of Customs and Excise or a member of the Garda Siochana in the exercise of any right or power conferred on such officer or such member by this section or refuses without lawful and sufficient excuse to produce any document which he is required by such officer or member to produce, shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to an Excise penalty of fifty pounds.

HOUSE BLOWN UP.

WEST BRIDGEWATER, MASS., Tuesday.

The house of Mr. Samuel Johnson, the brother-in-law of one of the principal witnesses for the State in the trial of the Italians, Sacco and Vanzetti, was blown up by dynamite this morning. Mr. Johnson and his family escaped injury, but the house was demolished.—(Reuter.)

DUBLIN SOLICITOR MURDERED.

LAW STUDENT IN CUSTODY.

Mr. William J. Ryan, solicitor, was murdered in his office at 83 Lower Gardiner street, Dublin, between 7 and 8 o'clock yesterday evening. A man named Daniel Joseph Gleeson, aged 27 years, who is described as a law student, and whose address is given as 182 Clonliffe road, has been detained by the police.

The news that something had occurred at 83 Lower Gardiner street was brought to the Store Street Police Station by a man who lives in the house, and Sergeant Cunningham, accompanied by two constables, went there. They found the door of Mr. Ryan's office locked, and when they demanded admittance Gleeson opened the door.

SCENE IN THE OFFICE.

Mr. Ryan was lying on the floor, with blood around him. There was a bullet wound in his head, and the features were reduced to pulp almost by blows from some heavy instrument, such as a revolver.

On a table in the office lay a short Webley revolver, to which, it is stated, blood and flesh adhered. In one of Gleeson's pockets the police found three "live" rounds of revolver ammunition, and three "live" rounds and one spent bullet were on the floor. Another bullet was found on a desk.

Mr. Ryan was taken in the Corporation ambulance to Jervis street Hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness at 8.30 o'clock.

Gleeson will be charged with murder in the District Court to-day.

Mr. Ryan, who was an elderly man, was admitted a solicitor in 1906.

MR. RUSSELL MAY GO TO ENGLAND.

WHY FREE STATE'S REQUEST WAS GRANTED.

The exclusion of the American journalist, Mr. Charles Edward Russell, from Great Britain as the result of representations made by the Free State Government was mentioned in the House of Commons yesterday.

COMMANDER KENWORTHY asked the Home Secretary whether Charles Edward Russell, an American citizen, was refused permission to land at Plymouth on May 27, and on what ground.

SIR WILLIAM JOYNSON-HICKS—Mr. Russell was refused leave to land at Plymouth in consequence of advices that his landing at Queenstown had been prohibited by the Irish Free State. Mr. Russell has been informed that the refusal was temporary, and that if he arrives here again, he will be admitted to a United Kingdom port, provided he undertakes not to go to the Irish Free State.

COMMANDER KENWORTHY—Was not Mr. Russell one of our warmest supporters in America before that country came into the war? Why, because the Irish Free State does not wish to admit him, should he be insulted by being refused admission to Great Britain?

THE HOME SECRETARY—The Irish Free State are in friendly relations with us, and they have, in their discretion, decided against Mr. Russell's landing there. They communicated that fact to us, and asked us to take the necessary steps to prevent him landing in Ireland. I have no objection to his landing here, and when he arrived at Plymouth he was requested to go on to Southampton, but he went on to Cherbourg instead, and made no further request. If he desires to do so, there is no reason whatever why he should not enter England.

MR. WEDGWOOD—If the Irish Free State want to keep him out of Ireland, why cannot they do their own work, instead of asking the British police to do the work for them?

THE HOME SECRETARY—There is very easy transit between England and the South of Ireland, and arrangements have existed for a long time between the Irish Free State and us by which they should stop undesirable aliens coming here, and we should do likewise for them.

MR. JACK JONES—Is he aware that a number of undesirables, from another point of view, have been allowed to land in Ireland?

THE HOME SECRETARY—The hon. member should put the question in the Irish Parliament. (Laughter.)

CANADIAN CATTLE FOR U.S.

LOWER FREIGHTAGE TO BRITAIN NEEDED.

OTTAWA, Tuesday.

Concluding a debate in the Dominion House of Commons yesterday on a resolution proposed for the appointment of a special committee to investigate Canadian industry, Mr. Motherwell (Minister of Agriculture) said that the Government was prepared to make a reciprocity offer to the United States for the free interchange of cattle as well as all other farm produce.

The Minister further said that an Order in Council had been passed authorising the Minister of Finance to reduce the duties on cattle entering Canada simultaneously with the reduction of the United States duties on cattle from Canada.

Members who took part in the debate emphasised the necessity of enlarging the markets for Canadian cattle, either in Great Britain or in the United States.

Mr. Motherwell said that he hoped that the Government would be able soon to make another effort to secure reduced ocean cattle rates to Great Britain, but the main difficulty was that the available space of cattle-carriers was not fully occupied on the eastward voyage and that there was no return cargo.

Although it was not indicated in the debate, it is understood that there is some prospect of securing free trade in cattle between Canada and the United States.—(Reuter.)

INDIAN COMMUNAL RIOT.

TWENTY PERSONS INJURED.

CALCUTTA, Tuesday.

A very trifling incident arising from a Mohammedan's touching the water-pot of a Hindu led to a communal riot at Halishahar, twenty-five miles from Calcutta. Mill hands, belonging to both communities, indulged in free fighting with sticks and brick-bats, and about twenty persons were seriously injured. One of the injured is in hospital, in a precarious condition. The mill hands have resumed work, but the mills are guarded by armed police.

A later message says:—Further communal feeling was aroused this evening in the northern quarter of the city, when Mohamedans assembled in large numbers in front of the Mosque, on the route by which Hindus were to have taken their goddess for immersion in the Hooghly. The police Commissioner decided to change the route of the procession, whereupon the Hindus refused to bring the goddess out. The police were unable to disperse the crowd, and the military have been requisitioned to patrol the streets.—(Reuter.)

STILL READY TO ASSIST.

MR. BALDWIN AND COAL DISPUTE.

A GRANT-IN-AID NOT BARRED.

CONDITIONS OF LEGISLATION.

MR. BALDWIN last night told the House of Commons that he had not lost touch with the parties to the coal dispute, and he was willing to continue negotiations at any moment. One thing, however, he was not willing to do, and that was to pledge the taxpayers' money indefinitely for the support of this one industry; nor was he willing to take any political control of the mines.

The announcement that the failure of both parties to come to an agreement had freed the Government's hands in regard to the subsidy did not mean that the Government was not at liberty to render some assistance in the event of renewed negotiations leading to an agreement; but till that moment came he could not say what would be the amount of such assistance or what form it would take.

He would be prepared to consider what could be done in the way of legislation to aid a settlement, but primarily the future depended on the statesmanship of both parties to the dispute.

MR. BALDWIN'S POLICY.

WHEN THE GOVERNMENT WILL ACT.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, Mr. Austin Hopkinson and Mr. Lloyd George having raised the subject of the coal strike and the Government's policy, on a vote for the Ministry of Mines, in the House of Commons last night,

The Prime Minister (Mr. Baldwin) said that he would not deal with details about wages, but would follow up the speech he made shortly before the House rose at Whitsuntide. He was not going to hand any bouquets or throw any brickbats. He promised the House that he would do all in his power to secure a square deal. After the House rose he put before both sides proposals for a settlement. He had endeavoured, apparently without success previously, to convince the miners of the good faith of the Government in adopting the whole report of the Commission wholeheartedly, in letter and in spirit. In the document sent to the miners he put in the forefront the specific, definite and solemn pledge of the Government to support the various schemes of reorganisation contained in the report. His proposals were a fair and honest attempt to form a basis on which negotiations might take place and lead to a successful issue. He had an interview with the Miners' Executive, and reviewed the proposals in detail.

He was asked why he had omitted municipal trading and the buying out of the royalty owners. He said that he had put in all points on which immediate legislation was required, and he had no objection to including both matters, but municipal trading was a matter which needed investigation before he could say in what form legislation would be practicable. With regard to royalties, that was a very big question, and as the Government had to be guided by the domestic and the international financial situation, some time must elapse in deciding on fair values, and nothing that could be done with royalties could affect the immediate questions to be dealt with. He believed then, as he believed now, that his proposals afforded a basis for negotiation, but they were turned down flatly.

OWNERS' RESENTMENT.

His experience with the owners was not much more fruitful. Their rejection was equally flat and definite. Most of all, they resented what they called political interference. In fact, they asked him to step aside, presumably that there might be a fight to a finish. He told the owners that it was impossible for the Government to be disinterested in the affairs of a great basic industry, and for the sake of the victims of a cruel struggle, which he believed to be quite unnecessary, the Government must seek every way to bring the parties to reason, if possible, without resorting to force. His attempts, so far, had met with little response. The deadlock continued.

He had not lost touch with the parties. Many people cried out that the Government should do something, and do it quickly. He was willing to resume negotiations at any moment, but he was not willing to pledge the taxpayers' money indefinitely to support this one industry—(Ministerial cheers)—nor to be forced to take political control of the mines.

THE SUBSIDY.

When he said that the rejection of the subsidy left their hands free, it did not mean that the Government were not prepared, at the first possible moment, to come in and do all they could on what they thought were the best lines, and it was obvious that, whatever settlement was arrived at, sooner or later it would probably be necessary to render some assistance. They would be prepared to do it, but he could not say until that moment came the form in which that assistance would be given, nor the amount. He had never hesitated, when adopting the report of the Commission, to maintain the view that a temporary subsidy, in some form or another, to tide over the period when negotiations were proceeding, or to certain districts after the negotiations succeeded, was necessary.

REPLY TO MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

Mr. Lloyd George had made a very persuasive and very temperate speech, asking the Government to introduce legislation. He would reply by a quotation from Mr. Lloyd George's own speeches, when he had to deal with similar difficulties in 1921. The right hon. gentleman then said that there was no greater mistake than to interfere prematurely. "It was quite obvious that the parties must be brought together again, but the right moment must be chosen. The never, never mood must be evaporated, and the parties must be in a better mood for negotiating. When that moment came the Government would act. There was a great deal that the Government could do to assuage bitterness, to soften asperities, and see fair play.

He would remind members of the sentence in the report: "The future depends primarily on the leadership and general level of opinion among miners and owners." Wisdom was a plant of the slowest growth. It would come sooner than many expected. He was not sure that the shoots of the new plant were not beginning to appear. The moment that happened, he would buckle to the task once more, and if legislation would help, he would consider what could be done. Primarily the future depended on the statesmanship of the two parties.

MR. MACDONALD'S ATTACK.

CHARGE OF MISHANDLING THE SITUATION.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald opened the discussion by attacking the Government for their handling, or, rather, as he had said, mishandling of the whole business connected with the mining dispute. This was a national crisis, and all that the Government had done was to express views which left them as far from a solution as ever. Never had there been such a melancholy story of wasted time, opportunities neglected, chances missed. They were now told that the offer of a subsidy was withdrawn, and this at a time when the case for a subsidy was stronger than ever. They had, in effect, been told that the subsidy was withdrawn, because the coal industry was not "well behaved." The fact remained that, whether they liked a subsidy or not, money had got to be found if the industry was to be put on its legs.

He assumed that the Government had

CANCEL WAR DEBTS.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PROPRIETOR'S PLEA.

Mr. Adolph Ochs, the principal owner and publisher of the New York Times, who returned to-day in the Majestic from a three weeks' visit to Europe, in an interview, advocated the cancellation of war debts, and the dedication of the sums concerned to the furtherance of permanent peace.

He declared that Americans were returning from abroad with the impression that they are not liked, and the feeling is growing so fast that it will eventually become a burden.

Mr. Ochs attributed this dislike to the "European people's conception of the United States as a very wealthy nation, pressing them to pay debts which we ourselves know they can never pay."—(Reuter.)

FRENCH FINANCE.

M. BRIAND'S SUCCESS.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Tuesday.

This afternoon's sitting of the Chamber proved to be as stirring as was expected, and has produced important results. M. Briand upheld the determination which he stated last week, not to allow any discussion of financial matters until the Government had completed its plans and obtained a vote of confidence by 313 votes to 147. Previous to this M. Péret had made it quite clear that the policy which the Government intended to pursue was one which would not further discourage capital. His statement not only shocked the Socialists, but also offended the Radicals, whose support the Government must to a certain extent retain. So the division was taken in circumstances which were by no means favourable to it. However, M. Briand, by a fine oratorical effort, secured the votes of about one-third of the Radicals, though they had decided to abstain only about ten minutes before. It was a great achievement.

The effects of this vote will be that the Government will be left to mature its financial plans without further heckling. This is the most important victory of common-sense over politics which has been won in the Chamber for a year. It was gained through M. Briand taking a strong line and holding it. It might have been done any time during the last twelve months, but M. Briand was the first Minister to do it.

THE COAL SUBSIDY

GOVERNMENT'S INTENTION.

(FROM THE PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES.")

Though nothing definite emerged from yesterday's debate on the coal deadlock in the House of Commons there was a general feeling in Government circles last night that, at any rate, no fresh obstacles had been placed in the way of a settlement when the owners and the miners are willing to develop a temper for further negotiation. The anxiety of the Labour Party as to the withdrawal of the offer of a subsidy of £3,000,000 was considerably allayed by the Prime Minister's statement that whatever settlement is arrived at, sooner or later it will probably be necessary to render some financial assistance to the mining industry, and the Government will be prepared to do so. But until negotiations are resumed neither the form of the assistance nor the amount can be stated.

For the moment the Government has no intention of introducing legislation to suspend the seven-hour day, and no legislation of any sort is likely until the parties have come together again.

NORTHERN PARLIAMENT.

TRIBUTE TO LORD LONDONDERRY.

The two Northern Houses of Parliament held short sittings yesterday and adjourned until 12th October next.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Pollock reported that the Governor had been pleased to give his Assent to the following Acts of 1926:—Mines Working (Facilities, Support, etc.); Pensions (Increase); Economy (Exchequer Relief); Ancient Monuments; Queen's University of Belfast; Appropriation; Jury Laws (Amendments); Teachers' Superannuation; Firearms (Amendment); Unemployment Insurance, and M'Calvin's Divorce.

THE SENATE.

On the motion for the adjournment in the Senate, Mr. Dorman expressed his appreciation of the treatment that he had received from the late Leader of the House, the Marquis of Londonderry. He appreciated, perhaps more than the other members, the benefits that his lordship had conferred upon Northern Ireland in his capacity as Minister of Education. He believed that in the future Lord Londonderry would be looked upon as one who laid the foundation of a lasting blessing to the people.

Viscount Charlemont said that he agreed with the sentiments of Senator Dorman towards the late Leader of the House. The Ministry had come in for a great deal of criticism. In Ulster they had the failing that they expected too much too quickly. It would be a generation or two before everybody would receive the full benefits of the Act. He thanked Senator Dorman for his interesting speech.

The House then adjourned.

TEACHERS AND THE LANGUAGE.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR SUMMER COURSES.

A scheme for the further training of national teachers in Irish and Irish teaching methods, issued by the Free State Ministry of Education last night, provides for a general course commencing on Tuesday, August 3rd next, and concluding on Friday, August 27th. Classes will be held on every school day during the period of the course, four lectures of fifty minutes duration being given daily. There will be no general closing of the schools for the purposes of the course, but in the case of schools for which one or more members of the staff attend the lectures, the vacation will be arranged to include the period of the course.

Should accommodation allow, teachers studying for the ordinary certificate will be permitted to attend at the Irish colleges, and special centres will again be formed for members of religious communities who are studying for higher certificates.

Whilst conditions have been altered from last year, travelling and subsistence allowance will be paid.

Attendance at the examination on November 26th next for the various certificates will be optional, and will not be confined to teachers who have attended the course.

"RECORD" ELECTION OF MEMBERS.

All the candidates represented important trade interests in the city.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE TO RESIGN?

LIBERAL SPLIT WIDENS.

"SHADOW" CABINET'S CRITICISM.

"INSTABILITY."

ACTIONS DESTROY CONFIDENCE.

I will not continue to hold the leadership for a day unless I am satisfied that I retain in full measure the confidence of the party.—LORD OXFORD.

We have done our best in the interests of Liberalism to work with Mr. Lloyd George in the councils of the party, but we cannot feel surprised at your feeling that confidential relations are impossible with one whose instability destroys confidence.—TWELVE LEADING LIBERALS.

THESE two sentences in further correspondence which has taken place over Mr. Lloyd George's attitude during the general strike widens the breach in the ranks of the Liberals, and it is hinted that Mr. Lloyd George may resign from the party, although Lord Oxford says that there is "no question of excommunication or ostracism." Mr. Lloyd George, he adds, was "not driven out—he refused to come in."

Mr. Lloyd George's activities of recent years are severely criticised in a letter to Lord Oxford, and the following twelve leaders of the Liberal Party have now definitely ranged themselves against Mr. Lloyd George:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Viscount Grey. | Sir John Simon. |
| Mr. Walter Runciman | Lord Lincolnshire. |
| Lord Buckmaster. | Lord Buxton. |
| Sir Donald Maclean. | Lord Cowdray. |
| Mr. Vivian Phillipps. | Mr. Geoffrey H. Ward |
| Mr. W. M. R. Pringle. | Sir Godfrey P. Collins. |

Mr. Lloyd George last night declined to make any statement on the letter from these supporters of Lord Oxford in the "shadow" Cabinet, but one closely associated with Mr. Lloyd George stated that the communications printed below were drawn up at a meeting held in Lord Oxford's house yesterday afternoon.

At this meeting, he said, not only was Mr. Lloyd George absent, but all those who were supposed to be sympathetic to him in the "shadow" Cabinet, including Mr. Masterman, were excluded.

Lord Beauchamp, the Chairman of the Liberal Party in the House of Lords, who was present, protested against the terms of the letter to Lord Oxford, and declined to endorse it.

At the request of his supporters, who desire him to challenge his critics in the Parliamentary Party, Mr. Lloyd George last night decided to summon a meeting of the party for to-morrow morning at the House of Commons. It is understood that Mr. Lloyd George will make an important speech in Manchester on Saturday afternoon, when he may reply to any references made to the dispute which Lord Oxford may make at a luncheon at the National Liberal Club in London on Friday.

LORD OXFORD'S CASE.

HOW MR. LLOYD GEORGE "REFUSED TO COME IN."

The following further letters, arising out of the recent correspondence between Lord Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George, were issued last night:—

"44 Bedford square, London, W.C.1, "1st June, 1926.

"My Dear Godfrey Collins,—I address these few lines to you, that there may be no doubt in the minds of the rank and file of the party as to the line which I have taken in recent transactions, or as to my present position.

"I will deal first with the general strike, and next with the coal dispute. The general strike attacked some of the root principles of Liberalism—the supremacy of Parliament, the freedom of the Press, the right of the individual to carry on his work, the protection of the elementary liberties of the whole community against the organised invasion of a self-constituted dictatorship. It was, in fact, a war against society, in which society was bound, with all the resources at its command, to make certain of victory. This was the united opinion of the Liberal leaders who met in the 'Shadow' Cabinet on May the third. It was the view to which I gave emphatic expression at the earliest opportunity, in my speech in the House of Lords the following day.

"Later on in the same week, both I and Lord Grey sent messages through the only available organ, the British Gazette, which were framed with the sole object of encouraging and stimulating the magnificent efforts of the nation. They were sent, of necessity, without any preceding consultation either between ourselves or our colleagues, as was Mr. Lloyd George's simultaneous communication to the American Press.

"I summoned a further meeting of the 'Shadow' Cabinet for May 10th, in order that we might explore again the possible roads to an ultimate settlement of the coal dispute. Mr. Lloyd George declined to attend the meeting in a letter not marked 'private,' on the ground that the messages sent by myself and others were 'declarations of policy made in the Government Press,' from which he dissented, and that denunciations on our part of the strike ought to be accompanied by denunciations of the Government, who were 'equally, if not more, responsible.'

EQUIVALENT TO RESIGNATION.

"The 'Shadow' Cabinet is the substitute, when the leaders of a party are in opposition, for the actual Cabinet when they are in office, and it has always been understood that membership of it involves similar obligations. I have sat in many Cabinets under various Prime Ministers, and I have not known one of them who would not have treated such a communication from a colleague, sent at such a time, as equivalent to a resignation. I certainly so regarded it. Nor was the difference of attitude and policy which it announced one that, in my judgment, could be smoothed away as a trivial matter of transient importance. It was clear and clean-cut. If the leaders of the Liberal Party as a body had adopted Mr. Lloyd George's view we should have been doing our best to weaken the authority of the Government, which was for the moment the embodiment and organ of the national self-defence against the gravest domestic danger which has threatened the country in our time. We felt that we were trustees of the traditions of the party, and were under a special responsibility to see that it played a part worthy of its past.

"I did not think it necessary to reply to Mr. Lloyd George's letter until after the general strike was recalled. My answer, which, like his letter of the 10th May, was in no sense a private communication, was not published until I had waited for the best part of five days for a reply. I need hardly say that it was written on my own initiative, and that I take full responsibility for it.

"There is no question of excommunication or ostracism. There is no such process known in the Liberal Party. The leader of a party is neither a Pope nor an autocrat, but he has always claimed and exercised full liberty of choice as to his colleagues and advisers. Mr. Lloyd George, in the exercise of his own judgment, and for reasons, of which I am the last to question the gravity, chose to separate himself in the most formal manner from our deliberations in a moment of great emergency. He was not driven out; he refused to come in.

THE COAL DISPUTE.

"I come now to the coal dispute. It is a complete and wilful travesty of the facts to represent those who, like myself and the large majority of my colleagues, differed from Mr Lloyd George's attitude on the general strike as having adopted and pursued, in regard to the coal dispute, what is absurdly called an anti-Liberal or reactionary line.

"We are accused, I see, by some of our new monitors in the Press of being content with sterile platitudes and constitutional pedantries. In my speech in the House of Lords I pointed out in a practical spirit lines upon which, as soon as the general strike had been cleared out of the way, roads might be found to a peaceful and practicable winding up of the quarrel between the coal-owners and the miners. Some of my suggestions were subsequently adopted in substance by the Archbishop of Canterbury and those associated with him. Others, and in particular my advocacy of a return to the precedent set by my own Liberal Government in 1912, when we stepped over the heads of both the recalcitrant parties to the dispute with legislation of our own, are, I believe, now regarded by practically all Liberals, and by many who belong to no party, as still indicating the most hopeful way to a settlement. The attempt to claim for any section of Liberals a monopoly of interest, or of constructive suggestion in this or in any other department of social and industrial reform, is wholly unwarranted in fact.

PERSONAL POSITION.

"In conclusion, I must add a few words as to my own personal position. I see that it is insinuated that I have been the, perhaps passive, vehicle of personal animosities. My record in these matters is well known to my fellow-countrymen, and I can afford to disregard base imputations upon my honour. I am this month completing forty years of service to the Liberal Party. For a considerable part of the time I have been its leader, and I have honestly striven, during the last two years, to re-create and to revive the broken fabric of Liberal unity. It has been a burdensome, and, in some of its aspects, a thankless task. I will not continue to hold the leadership for a day, unless I am satisfied that I retain, in full measure, the confidence of the party.

"Yours sincerely,

"OXFORD."

PROMINENT LIBERAL SUPPORT.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE CONDEMNED.

"Dear Lord Oxford,—We cannot allow you to bear the whole brunt of the criticism which has been directed against you on the ground of your letter to Mr. Lloyd George. It is due to you that we should say unreservedly that we support the course which you, after endless patience and life-long service to Liberalism, have felt obliged to take.

"Since Mr. Lloyd George broke up the first Coalition, and became Prime Minister, he has played many parts, and when he re-joined you at the General Election of 1923, it was obvious to everybody that nothing could make this reunion effective, except a willingness to forget past differences, and an identity, both in machinery and in single-minded devotion, to the party. We have done our best to follow your lead in securing these objects, and your own forbearance and chivalry are known to every Liberal. But Mr. Lloyd George has insisted upon retaining separate headquarters and a separate fund. He discouraged the putting forward of more than three hundred Liberal candidates at the last election, and his methods have often made us suspect that he has not abandoned the idea of a new coalition. His action during the recent general strike has to be regarded in the light of this record.

AN EYE TO FUTURE USE.

"It is obvious to us that his letter to Sir Godfrey Collins was written with an eye to its possible future use if events had turned out as he anticipated, in his communications to the foreign Press. When the strike was over, he stated at Llandudno Junction (May 26th): 'During the progress of the general strike I refrained from urging criticism as to the past; The nation had to concentrate on fighting the stranglehold.'

"It is astonishing that Mr. Lloyd George should have persuaded himself that this version represents his attitude, for, in his letter to Sir Godfrey Collins (May 10th), refusing to meet you, he wrote—'I cannot see my way to join in declarations which condemn the general strike, while refraining from criticism of the Government, who are equally, if not more, responsible.

"Practical suggestions for dealing with the coal dispute are welcomed by all of us, and have been made by none more clearly and usefully than yourself, but it seems to us to be pure opportunism to taunt the Government, as Mr. Lloyd George did nine months ago, with being afraid of facing cold steel, to refuse to meet his colleagues at the crisis of the strike, on the ground that he was opposed to the demand for unconditional withdrawal,' and when that withdrawal took place, to tell his constituents that he was always in favour of the policy that he refused to discuss with you.

"The difficulties of co-operation in such circumstances are well known to you and to us, although they may not be always appreciated by the general public. We should, therefore, think ourselves failing in the duty which we owe to you and to the Liberal Party, to say nothing of the affection and admiration with which we regard you, if we did not make it plain where we stand. We have done our best, in the interests of Liberalism, to work with Mr. Lloyd George in the councils of the party, but we cannot feel surprised at your feeling that confidential relations are impossible with one whose instability destroys confidence.

CROPS UNDER FLOOD IN COUNTY DERRY.

LIMAVADY WITHOUT ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The heavy rains of the past week-end have caused the river known as the "Big Drain" at Magillan, near Limavady, County Derry, to burst its banks. Farmhouses are under water, and livestock were saved with difficulty, whilst acres of potatoes were swamped and destroyed. One farmer, who lost the produce of last year's harvest in the last flood, has this time lost all, and is faced with ruin.

Serious damage also has been done to the "Lead," which supplies the water-power to Messrs Ritters' electric light works at the Green, Limavady, and it will be fully a week before any electric light supply is available for the town. There has been a "boom" in oil and candles as a result.

THE CASE OF DR. AXHAM.

STATEMENT BY SIR D. MACALISTER.

Sir Donald Macalister announced, at the summer session of the General Medical Council in London yesterday, that a layman, the Right Hon. E. Hilton Young, M.P., had been appointed by the King as a member of the body.

Sir D. Macalister referred to the Axham case and said:—There is reason to think that the factitious agitation against the Council as an independent tribunal, instigated by unqualified persons under cover of Dr. Axham's name, but joined in by many who, ignorant of the facts, were moved by laudable compassion for his age and infirmity, has led indirectly to a better understanding of the Council's duties.

Had Dr. Axham survived, said Sir Donald, the Council would at this session have been called upon to exercise its judicial functions in his case without fear or favour, affection or illwill. When a request for reinstatement was made in November, he said, Dr. Axham was unable to make the required declaration, that he held any qualification entitling him to be registered, and the Council was legally precluded from dealing with his informal request, which was accordingly adjourned. The Royal College of Physicians in Edinburgh, however, said Sir Donald, on January 19th last resolved to restore Dr. Axham's licence, and if he had then presented an application for restoration with his statutory declaration, which he could not furnish in November, that he actually held a medical qualification, and setting forth his recent occupation and intentions as to practice, the application, along with any objections to its restoration, would have been considered by the Executive Committee at its regular meeting in February. But at that meeting no such application and statutory declaration was forthcoming from Mr. Axham. The Executive Committee, which had no power to suspend the Council's standing orders, were thus unable to consider what recommendations they should make, and the matter perforce stood adjourned till the next meeting on May 21.

The unfortunate death of Mr. Axham early in April, added Sir Donald, has, to our regret, caused the application to be withdrawn from our agenda paper. No requisition for the summoning of a special meeting of the Council reached me, added Sir Donald, in conclusion.

Sir Donald's remarks were received without comment by the Council, which at once proceeded with the further business on the agenda.

TRAMCAR ADVERTISING.

DRINK NOTICES RULED OUT IN BELFAST.

The Belfast Corporation yesterday, by 25 votes to 16, decided not to permit advertisements regarding alcoholic beverages to appear on tramcars.

Several members pointed out that this decision would mean a loss of revenue of £1,700 per annum.

Councillor Holland said that a large section of the community was opposed to any increase in the sale of alcohol. These advertisements would be distasteful to a great many, and would tend to deterioration in the city.

Councillor McAlevey said that the fact of an advertisement being on a tramcar would not increase the amount of drink. These advertisements would educate the people who wanted to drink as to the best thing to drink.

Councillor Scott stated that Catholic Bishops were complimenting Northern Ireland for her attitude regarding Sunday closing.

Councillor Dickson, as a member of the "trade," said that he was in favour of temperance, but he doubted if any temperance legislation had been really successful. The 1923 Act had its curses, as it brought in certain clubs and induced women to take home liquor on Saturday evenings. Was it not an awful thing to see women carrying drink into their homes? He asked the Corporation to get away from fads.

Councillor Agnew asked why they should not stop lascivious pictures outside cinemas. He objected to a spirit of snobbery in the Council. Some men there voted one way to please their constituents, but held different private opinions. Let them throw away hypocrisy, and for once vote in accordance with their conscience.

RAILWAY PORTER CRUSHED.

ACCIDENT AT KINGSTOWN STATION.

In going to the assistance of a man who slipped in getting out of the 6.30 p.m. train from Kingstown to Westland row yesterday after the doors had been closed and the train was in motion, Porter Barnes himself slipped, and fell between the carriage footboard and the platform. He was being rolled round and crushed, and was slipping lower and lower as the train moved on, when Inspector Joseph Byrne rushed forward, and, by a great effort, pulled him up on to the platform. Both men fell heavily, but the inspector was not injured.

The porter was taken to Monkstown Hospital. He is suffering from severe contusions, and is to be X-rayed.

ON FAREWELL VISIT.

INTENDING EMIGRANT KILLED IN CYCLING ACCIDENT.

Intending to leave Ireland soon, Miss Kathleen Forde, aged nineteen, niece of Mr. Thomas McGreevy, newsagent, Westport, and a native of Kilconly, Tuam, was cycling from Westport to Newport to bid some friends good-bye when she was thrown from her bicycle at a dangerous turn at Borley Hill, sustaining fatal injuries. Three other fatal accidents have occurred at the same point in recent years.

At the inquest the jury returned a verdict of "accidental death," and added a rider calling on the County Council to pay attention to this "death trap" immediately.

£90,000 COTTAGE SCHEME.

An inquiry was opened in Newtownards yesterday by Mr. A. V. Ashe, Inspector to the Northern Ministry of Home Affairs, with reference to the application of the Rural Council for an order confirming an improvement scheme made by them under the Labourers' Acts, at an estimated cost of £90,200.

Major-General Montgomery did not think that the present scheme would meet the requirements.

Applicants for cottages stated that, while they considered the rent of 14s. per month very high, they were prepared to pay it so long as they got suitable houses.

The Clerk of the Council said that 300 representations were before the Council when the members came to the conclusion that a scheme was necessary. It was proposed to erect 258 cottages under the present scheme.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH SCOURGE.

HOW THE DISEASE IS INTRODUCED.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY IN ENGLAND.

"Foot-and-mouth disease has been brought to this country in the carcases of foreign pigs imported for British curing factories." Colonel Walter Guinness, Minister of Agriculture, made this statement yesterday in his address to the Council of Agriculture at the Middlesex Guildhall.

"The number of outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease in the last month," said Colonel Guinness, "was eighteen; the month before ten, and in the month of March nineteen. In the last ten days we have had a new and unfortunate development in Scotland, which has been free for two years from the disease. It has now become a centre of a new development, and in connection with this outbreak we have made the very important discovery that the origin is traceable to foreign pigs brought in for curing at British curing factories.

ORIGIN OF DISEASE TRACED.

"There have been seven outbreaks in the vicinity of the bacon factory at Carluke, and they are all traced to these virulently infected carcases of pigs brought from Belgium through Holland.

"Apart from the carcases at Carluke, we have another case of infection at Carlisle, and a shipload, including infected carcases, has arrived at Leith. An embargo has been placed on the landing of that cargo, and it has been sent back to the port of origin.

"We have long suspected," said Colonel Guinness, "that foot-and-mouth disease must be brought to this country by foreign meat, and especially offal. For the first time we have obtained definite complete evidence

ACTION TO BE TAKEN.

"It must be remembered that at the Ministry of Agriculture we have no machinery in the ordinary case for inspecting meat cargoes at the ports; but, now that we have traced back the outbreak, I think it is absolutely imperative that we should take action to minimise this risk. At the same time, I am sure that the Council will understand that this matter raises issues of great importance, and I cannot give any indication of what action we may take until I have consulted the Government as a whole.

"In a matter of this grave importance, which affects foreign countries as well as ourselves, I must get the approval of my colleagues to any action which may be taken. However, I can assure you that no time will be lost."

Colonel Guinness made it clear that what he had said in no way applied to frozen meat imported from the Argentine. It applied purely to fresh meat from the Continent.

COASTAL BOROUGH.

THE "MANAGER" SYSTEM.

At a meeting in Ryan's Commercial Hotel, Kingstown, on Saturday evening, Dr. J. E. Conway, Chairman of Dalkey Urban District Council, read a paper on the "Manager" system in municipal administration. He dealt first with the present system of unwieldy councils, working through committees, and said that they were really councils of inexperienced men striving to snatch an hour or two at irregular times to carry out the most intricate and involved administrative work. There was no individual responsibility, and it could be said that they were not responsible to their electors, as they could not be turned out till their term of office was completed. Vexatious delays, inefficient services, undeveloped areas and huge overdrafts were the results of the system in the majority of cases. Legislation based on the report of the Greater Dublin Commission, he hoped, and expected, would bring about radical changes.

Dr. Conway then described the American and German methods of city administration, dealing in turn with the commission system, the manager system, and a combination of both. Alluding to the Greater Borough scheme for the coast townships, which the Ratepayers' Association submitted in evidence before the Greater Dublin Commission, he said that they advocated the manager plan, as it was thought that the commission method was more suitable for very large cities.

The contemplated Southern Borough would have a population of about 40,000. The borough would elect, say, 20 representatives of sound business standing, and these, in turn, would elect a manager.

A discussion followed, in which Councillors J. M. Devitt, E. J. Mallins (Chairman of the Kingstown Urban District Council), M. P. O'Donnell, Dr. Merrin, P. Dooge, Sean B. Healy, J. Molloy and P. Delaney participated.

ROSCOMMON PERJURY CASE.

MOTHER AND SON SENTENCED: FATHER'S APPEAL TO JUDGE.

At Roscommon Circuit Court, Michael, Mary and Patrick McGovern, of Cloonala, Castlerea, were indicted, the latter for perjury and the two former for conspiracy to commit perjury, at Castlerea on March 25th last, when being examined as witnesses in an action in which Messrs. Connolly Bros., Castlerea, were plaintiffs, and Michael and Mary McGovern were defendants.

The case arose over a claim by the firm against Patrick McGovern, the defendants' son, for breaking his indentures of apprenticeship as a painter. There was a second count for conspiracy.

The boy was apprenticed for four years, and the parents gave security in £50 for his carrying out the agreement. After some months the boy left Messrs. Connolly Bros.' employment, and an action was taken by the firm for breach of contract. At the hearing of the suit Patrick McGovern swore that he never signed indentures or served an apprenticeship to them. The father and mother admitted that they signed the indentures, but were under the impression that they were signing an unemployment form.

Miss Gertie Connolly deposed to the signing of the indentures, and Edward Connolly corroborated.

Patrick McGovern swore that there was never any agreement between the firm and his father.

The jury found Patrick McGovern guilty on the first count—that of perjury.

Acting on the advice of their solicitor, Mr. F. G. McSherry, the father and mother entered a plea of guilty.

Judge Wakely said that he considered the mother the worse of the three. He sentenced her to three calendar months without hard labour, her son, Patrick, to two calendar months with hard labour, and against Michael McGovern, the father, he recorded a sentence of three months, not to take effect if he kept the peace.

The old man begged the Judge to increase his sentence and allow his wife out to look after the young children.

The Judge refused to alter his decision, stating that the children would be better without her.

At the meeting of the Belfast Harbour Board yesterday, Mr. J. C. Craig, Chairman of the Coal Merchants' Association, was co-opted a member, in room of the late Mr. William E. Williams, D.L.

COAL CRISIS.

some plan in its mind. What was it? Were they going into the negotiations, or were they going to stand outside? To a great extent they had hitherto stood outside, but they had made it plain that, on the whole, they were in favour of a reduction of the miners' wages. They were, in effect, playing the game of the mine-owners, and were standing by whilst the fight was being fought out to a finish. And this, in face of the admissions of the Prime Minister that the parties, if left to themselves, would never come to an agreement.

He appealed to the Government to begin negotiations now, with a mind made up as to what they were going to do. The Government, even at this late hour, when so much prejudice had been created, should make it clear that they accepted the idea of wages embodied in reconstruction, not wages apart from reconstruction. If the miners were given a scheme of reconstruction which would satisfy them, and would mean a healthy industry as soon as it was put into operation, they would consider and accept all the details of that scheme, including wages. Until that was done he did not see much chance of a settlement. The miners wanted something more than vague promises. They had had too many promises. It was the duty of the Government to produce some suggestion which would safeguard them against future disputes in the coal industry.

"SLOPPY EYE-WASH."

Mr. Austin Hopkinson, who, as an independent member, can always be relied upon to say something novel and amusing, characterised many of the recommendations of the Royal Commission as "sloppy eye-wash." The miners' one desire was to get the owners to join them in a scheme to squeeze a further subsidy out of the taxpayer, and they made no secret of their disappointment when that scheme came to naught. The negotiations were hopeless from the very beginning, because the Miners' Federation had tied their own hands, and refused to have them untied. He urged the Government to get rid of all political interference with industry: it constituted a bar to real industrial peace.

THE COMMISSION'S REPORT.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S APPEAL.

Mr. Lloyd George saw nothing helpful in the speech of the hon. member for Mossley, and he sincerely hoped that the Prime Minister would not regard it seriously. Personally, he saw no way out of a very difficult situation unless the Government intervened, and that very effectively. It would contribute greatly to a settlement if the mine-owners would say officially that they accepted the recommendations of the Royal Commission.

Mr. Hopkinson, interrupting, declared that Mr. Lloyd George was speaking without information in doubting that the Mining Association had accepted the report.

Mr. Lloyd George asked the hon. member if he was authorised to state now that the Association accepted the report.

Mr. Hopkinson entered upon a somewhat lengthy explanation, and was frequently pulled up by demands from the Labour benches for a definite answer. Finally, he declared that the Mining Association had accepted the report and its recommendations, and he quoted, in confirmation, The Times of April 14th.

Mr. Lloyd George, continuing, said that if this was the fact it was a pillar on which they could base a bridge to settlement, and he invited the Prime Minister to state his views on the points. His suggestion was that the Government should take immediate action on the lines of the Commission's report and introduce the necessary legislation.

PERSONALITIES.

The Marquis of Hartington was inclined to congratulate the Government on having got out of the quarrel, and he was proceeding to develop his argument against Government interference, when Mr. Wallhead shouted, "There are no plus fours going down the mines, anyhow." Cries of "Order" came from the Conservative benches, whereupon Mr. Wallhead shouted, "Order yourself, and shut up." Mr. Skelton got up to protest against these "disgusting interruptions," and this led Captain Fitzroy, who was in the chair, to observe that they certainly did not add to the dignity of debate. Mr. Wallhead agreed that they did not, but said that he was bound to protest against Conservative members talking as they did about men whose children were starving.

Sir Robert Horne wondered if the people who talked glibly about reconstruction and amalgamation realised the time it would take—and the coal trade was, perhaps, one of the most difficult in this respect. The bedrock of the position was that it was impossible to pay the miner the wages he wanted, unless he worked a longer day than at present. A longer day would save the industry, and he did not believe that the great mass of the miners would refuse to make this concession, at least for a limited period of years.

Mr. Baldwin then made the statement which we print above.

The debate was continued by Mr. Spencer, Mr. Wragg, Mr. Grenfell and Mr. W. Graham, who moved to reduce the vote by £100. Mr. Snowden declared that he had never listened to a speech with greater feelings of hopelessness and despair than those with which he listened to the Prime Minister. When the paralysis was creeping over all the industries of the country the Prime Minister could say nothing more than that he proposed to continue the policy of "wait and see." If the owners would not accept the proposals of the Commission it was the duty of the Government to propose legislation.

Sir A. Steel Maitland said that no set of men ever had a squarer deal from the Prime Minister than the miners. The men must face the economic facts and try to help the Government and the industry.

The motion for the reduction of the vote was defeated by 252 votes to 108, and the debate was adjourned.

THE STATE OF EMERGENCY.

The Home Secretary, after questions, went to the Bar of the House, announcing that he had a message from the King. He took the message to the Speaker, who read it to the members. It stated that a proclamation declaring a state of emergency was signed on May 29. It was then decided that an address in reply should be considered by the House to-day, when the regulation made under the Act can be discussed at the same time. The back-bench Socialists objected to the proposal, and went to a division, but were heavily defeated. The Socialist front bench took no part in the division.

NO NEGOTIATIONS.

MR. COOK'S STATEMENT.

Although it is believed that representatives of the Government have been in direct touch with representatives of both miners and owners, and that there are hopes of further meetings, Mr. Cook stated last night that there had been no negotiations with the Government. There had not been any correspondence between the owners and the miners or the Government, he said, since the letter sent by the Government to the Miners' Federation on May 22.

Officials of the Miners' Federation are still discussing with the transport workers the question of embargo on imported coal.

SUGGESTED STRIKE AMNESTY.

An amendment to the Address to the King, in reply to the message of the new Emergency Proclamation, has been put down in the names of Mr. Clynes, Mr. Tom Shaw, Dr. D'Alton, and Mr. Lees Smith, praying that His Majesty may exercise his Royal prerogative to grant pardon to all those of his subjects who have been convicted of offences which arose from the circumstances creating a state of emergency, but which left unimpaired the peace of the realm.

The Radical group of the Liberal Party in the House of Commons also have put down a motion praying for an amnesty.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Killaloe Choral Festival will be held on the 18th June next, the Bishop of Cork to be the preacher.

The Rev. Dr. Breene has been instituted to the Incumbency of St. Peter's, Belfast. The Archdeacon of Down was the preacher at the service of institution.

In the last six years the sum of £6,400 has been raised in connection with the Belfast Mission (Trinity College, Dublin). At a recent sale of work a well-deserved tribute was paid to the retiring Head of the Mission, the Rev. C. H. P. Lyndon, who has been the means of greatly extending the work connected with the Mission during his tenure of office. Mr. Lyndon leaves Belfast in the near future for work in the Mission at Chota Nagpur.

ALLEGED BRITISH SPIES.

STATEMENT BY FOREIGN SECRETARY.

THE SPEAKER AND MR. THURTLE.

Mr. Thurtle, in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Secretary for Foreign Affairs whether he had seen the French official report of a recent trial of three British subjects in France for espionage, in which it was explicitly stated that these men were acting on behalf of the British Government; and whether he was aware that the dementi of Lord Crewe had reference merely to the activities of the Bleriot Burndept Wireless Company, which was not charged, and had no reference to the three British subjects who were charged and convicted; and if, in these circumstances, he had any further statement to make on the matter.

Mr. Locker Lampson—As regards the first part of the question, I am awaiting the French official report, which has not yet reached me. Pending the receipt of this report I am not prepared to make any statement, beyond the fact that these three men were not employed by any department of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Thurtle—Does the honourable member agree that the dementi of Lord Crewe had reference merely to the Bleriot Burndept Wireless Company, and did not deny anything in respect of these three British subjects?

Mr. Locker - Lampson—This question has reference to individuals. I have already stated that neither of these individuals was ever employed by any department of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Thurtle—May I ask the honourable gentleman whether he realises that the reply he has just given to me is a diplomatic falsehood? (Cries of: "Oh" and "Withdraw.")

The Speaker—I must call on the honourable member to withdraw that.

Mr. Thurtle—I have very great respect for the chair, and equal respect for the truth, and I cannot withdraw that.

The Speaker—If the honourable member refuses to comply with my order I must direct him to withdraw from the House for the remainder of the sitting.

Mr. Thurtle then rose, left his place, and, bowing to the chair, departed from the chamber amid some Labour cheers.

SHEEP DIPPING IN 1926.

WARNING TO FLOCK OWNERS.

As the sheep dipping season commences on 1st June, the Department desire to direct the attention of sheep owners and all concerned in the execution and enforcement of the Sheep Dipping Orders to the urgent necessity for securing the dipping of all sheep in the Free State during the prescribed dipping periods and in accordance with the requirements of the Orders.

The principal object of the Order of 1915, and the supplementary Orders which enable local authorities to require the prescribed dippings to be carried out under the supervision of local inspectors, is the eradication of scab, a disease which has done much to retard the development of the sheep industry and to injure the country's valuable export trade in sheep and lambs. Under these Orders the local authorities have ample means of ensuring the freedom from scab of all sheep in their respective districts, and of thereby enhancing to a very considerable degree the value of the sheep industry as a whole.

In the last resort, however, responsibility for the cleanliness of Irish flocks rests on sheep owners themselves. Every owner of sheep is bound to dip his sheep in the manner and during the periods prescribed by the Sheep Dipping Order, and every consideration of duty and self interest should urge him to discharge his obligation. If local authorities require him to have his sheep dipped at a time and place appointed by the local authority, he should make arrangements to have the whole of his flock dipped in accordance with these regulations; otherwise, he should fix a time and place himself, and give the local authority due notice, so that they may be represented at the dipping should they so desire. Forms for the purpose of this notice and of the declarations required respectively (1) to accompany sheep to fairs and (2) to be made at the end of each dipping period, can be obtained from the local authority or from the Garda Siochana.

Whether the dipping takes place under local regulations or not, or under supervision or not, the dipping should be by thorough immersion of the sheep in an approved dip, and the greatest care should be taken in carrying out the directions given as to the mixing of the dip and the length of time during which the sheep should be kept immersed. In the summer dipping period (from 1st June to 31st July) the sheep must be dipped once, and must have been shorn before dipping, unless they are lambs under nine months old. In the autumn dipping period (1st August to 15th November, inclusive) sheep must be dipped twice within an interval of not less than seven or more than fourteen days. The interval is important, having regard to the life history of the scab parasite. The first dipping will probably kill the parasites, but their eggs may remain and get hatched out, and the second dipping is necessary to kill the young parasites before they, in turn, lay their eggs. Where a poisonous dip is used, it is advisable that the interval between the dipping should be at least ten days. Where an arsenical dip is used for a first dipping of sheep, a non-poisonous dip should be used for the second dipping of such sheep. Every approved dip is retailed in a packet or vessel bearing a label indicating that the use of the dip in certain proportions has been approved by the Department for the purposes of their Orders relating to sheep scab and sheep dipping, and containing directions (which should be carefully followed) as to the preparation of the dipping bath.

It is a matter of great importance that sheep owners should, from time to time, carefully examine their sheep for indications of scab. This should always be done before sending them to a fair, market, or port for shipment, as, in the event of any sheep being found diseased at these places, the infected animals, and also all those which have been in contact with them, will be seized by the veterinary authorities and dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the Sheep Scab Order. In such circumstances the owner of the diseased sheep inflicts grievous harm on the owners of the other sheep, as well as rendering himself liable to prosecution for not reporting the existence of the disease on his farm, and for exposing diseased sheep in the fair or market or for sending them to a port, as the case may be. The authorities of the fair, market, or port are, moreover, involved in expenditure which might have been avoided, as they are required to have the place in which the sheep in question were exposed specially cleansed and disinfected.

QUEENSTOWN'S WORRIES.

REQUEST TO COMMISSIONER TO PROVIDE MUSIC AND WORK.

A deputation of the local Tourist Development Association appeared before Mr. Commissioner Monahan, who is transacting the business formerly carried out by the Queenstown Urban Council, with a view to reviving the weekly band promenade during the summer in the town.

The Commissioner agreed to do all in his power to help the Association in the matter.

A number of unemployed road workers waited on the Commissioner with the object of obtaining work on the roads. The Commissioner said that he was unable to find employment for them, but would do so at the first opportunity.

Following a recent inspection of the urban district by Dr. F. D. McCormack, the Minister for Local Government wrote asking if the by-laws regulating common lodging-houses and boarding-houses in which emigrants were housed were enforced, and if the common lodging-houses in the district were registered and regularly inspected.

The Town Clerk said that the by-laws were enforced in respect to common lodging-houses, and that three common lodging-houses were registered, also fifty-nine emigrant lodging-houses. The keepers of these latter object to the title "common lodging-houses," and only registered under duress, as the American Consular authorities refused to give a clean bill of health to any steamer receiving passengers from a house not registered.

It was important, he added, that the emigrant lodging-houses should be differentiated from houses of the vagrant class, and that could be done if they were registered as common lodging-houses.

IRISH RAILWAY WAGES.

COMING CONFERENCE IN DUBLIN.

Great reticence is being maintained regarding the object for which the conference between the representatives of the Irish railway companies and the men affected by the new wages "cut" has been called for to-morrow morning.

The initiative in this matter was taken by the National Union of Railwaymen, who, at the end of last week, approached the general managers of the railway companies with the request that they should attend this conference.

The managers and directors of the railways of Southern and Northern Ireland met in private conference at Belfast on Monday, and it was agreed that the representatives of the railway companies should attend the conference.

The representatives of the National Union of Railwaymen will be:—Messrs. A. Bayne, W. K. McPherson, members Executive Council, R. Hennessy, Inchicore, representatives of the Central Wages Board; Alderman Dobby, President of the Union, and J. Kenny, representatives of the National Wages Board; Mr. T. C. Cramp, Industrial General Secretary; and Mr. Watters, Irish Secretary.

Mr. M. F. Keogh, general manager, Great Southern Railways; Mr. Stevens, manager, Great Northern Railway, Dublin; and officials of the other railways in Northern Ireland will be present.

FALSE PRETENCE CHARGE AT QUEENSTOWN.

DALKEY MAN AND A CHEQUE.

At the Queenstown District Court a middle-aged man of respectable appearance, named William Dermott Smyth, whose address was given as Sorrento terrace, Dalkey, County Dublin, was charged with having attempted to obtain money (£5) under false pretences and with forging a name to a document with intent to defraud.

Mr. John Ronan, solicitor, said that on 20th May he saw the accused in his waiting-room and asked him who he was. The accused replied that his name was Smyth. When the witness gave him his name the accused said that his name was not Smyth, but that he was a partner of James Taylor, costs drawer, 31 South Frederick street, Dublin. He asked the witness to lend him £1, but he refused. The accused left the office, and the signature to the cheque (produced) was not in the witness's handwriting, neither did he authorise it.

The Accused—Was I sober? In my opinion, you were not sober. You were fast asleep in a chair in my waiting-room, and you appeared to be in a drunken sleep.

Civic Guard Murphy said that on the 20th May, about 7.45 p.m., the accused approached him and produced a cheque, and said that if the witness cashed it he could keep £1 and that he was badly in need of money. He further said that the cheque was endorsed by Mr. Ronan, solicitor. The witness brought the accused to the barracks, as his suspicions were aroused.

James Hannagan, Bishop street, stated that the accused came to him at the Post Office and asked him if he knew Mrs. Nicholson and if he would take a message to her, handing the witness a cheque. The witness gave the cheque to Mrs. Nicholson, who returned it to him. The witness subsequently gave it to the Civic Guard.

Mrs. Nicholson, Harbour row, said that the accused entered her hotel on the 16th instant and asked if he could be put up for the night. On the following day he agreed to stay for a week, and she told him it would cost £1 10s. The accused informed her that he was wiring for £50, and that there was a wire coming to him. He first said that it was coming from Dublin, and then from Cork. Next day he asked her for the loan of 5s., and said that he would pay when he got the cheque. She gave him 5s. He left the hotel, and before leaving gave her £1 to pay for what he had bought and for the 5s. that he had borrowed. On the same evening Hannagan called and handed her the cheque. Having read it, she handed it back to him.

Miss Mary Beahan, manageress of the Imperial Hotel, Queenstown, said that the accused called there and requested a sheet of paper. He then asked for a twopenny stamp. He next asked her to cash a paper drawn up in the form of a cheque for £5. She told him that she had no money. He again called to the hotel and produced a cheque, which he said was guaranteed by Mr. Ronan, solicitor. She did not examine the cheque, as she had no intention of cashing it.

Civic Guard Sheehan gave evidence of Hannagan having handed him the cheque. The words "I guarantee this cheque, J. Ronan," were not on it when the cheque was handed to him. He had the cheque for nearly two hours, and handed it back to the accused, who was pointed out to the witness by Hannagan. Before handing the cheque back to the accused, the witness questioned him about his identity, and the accused said that he was William Smyth, a native of Dalkey, County Dublin, a widower, and that he was on a "booze" since his wife had died. He said that if the cheque was presented to the Ulster Bank in Dublin it was as good as gold, as he had a bit of money there.

The accused, who declined to make a statement, was remanded.

WATERFORD MAN'S PLEA.

COMPELLED TO POACH OWING TO POVERTY.

At Waterford District Court John Hanlon and William Gunnip, Checkpoint, pleaded guilty to salmon poaching in the close season.

Hanlon said that Gunnip was his nephew, for whom, with five other children, he was left to provide after the Great War, in which their father was killed, and want compelled him to poach.

The case was dealt with under the Probation of Offenders Act, Hanlon agreeing to pay the costs of the prosecution to the Waterford Fishery Conservators.

PROTECTION OF WILD BIRDS.

The Dublin Gazette of May 28 contains two Orders made by the Free State Minister for Justice (Mr. Kevin O'Higgins) under the Wild Birds (Protection) Act, 1904. The Orders apply to the Counties of Dublin and Galway, and are made at the request of the County Councils.

The first Order states that:—"The taking or destroying of the eggs of the following species of wild birds is prohibited throughout the County of Dublin (including the Islands of Lambay and Ireland's Eye) between the 1st day of June, 1926, and the 1st day of August, 1926, and between the 1st day of April and the 1st day of August in each year for a period of four years from the 1st day of April, 1927:—Black guillemot, crossbill, goldfinch, kestrel, kingfisher, oyster catcher, owl (all species), peregrine falcon, plover (all species), raven, skelduck, skylark, tern (all species)."

The second Order prohibits the taking or destroying of the eggs of the following species of wild birds throughout the County of Galway between the 1st day of June, 1926, and the 1st day of August, 1926, and between the 1st day of April and the 1st day of August in each year for a period of four years from the 1st day of April, 1927:—"Golden eagle, harriers (all species), divers (all species), chough, mallard, sea eagle, buzzard, petrel, woodcock, white swan, peregrine falcon, phaleropes (all species), raven, teal, kingfisher, merlin, eider duck, black-necked crebe, and lapwing."

Crawling under a tarpaulin over an opening in the ground where Corporation workmen were at work yesterday on electricity cables, a Paisley boy, aged eight, touched exposed wires and was killed instantly.

EMPIRE WIRELESS.

THE AUSTRALIAN "BEAM" STATION.

FOUNDATIONS OF CORK.

MELBOURNE (By Mail).

About half-way between Ingliston and Ballan, a few miles south of the Ballarat Railway line, a small village is rapidly springing into existence at the foot of the six giant steel towers of the Australian "beam" transmitting station. The main building work at the station itself is almost completed, and the first part of the machinery for the beam transmitter is being installed. Although no date for the completion of the station has yet been fixed, it will probably be ready for operation by next August, and tests may be carried out before that time.

ECONOMY OF SHORT WAVE.

The latest devices in modern wireless engineering practice are being incorporated in the Ballan station. The station itself represents a radical departure from the accepted standards of two years ago, the main difference between the Ballan station and less modern transoceanic wireless stations in other parts of the world being that a very short wave length, probably less than 40 metres, will be used at the Ballan station, whereas most other long-distance commercial stations employ wave lengths of more than 10,000 metres. The use of the short wave at Ballan makes it possible to concentrate the signals being emitted into a relatively narrow beam, whereas the radiation from long-wave stations is diffused uniformly round the transmitting aerial.

The short wave used also makes possible other important economies. The cost of the beam station is likely to be less than one-third of the cost of the long-wave station, while the amount of ground required for the station and aerial system is only a fraction of that needed for a long-wave station. Whereas six masts, each 250 feet in height, are required at the Ballan station, about 16 masts, each 800 feet in height, would have been necessary if a long-wave station had been erected. It is expected that the power to be used by the Ballan transmitters will be about 25 kilowatts. It is probable that ten or twenty times this power would have been used for a long-wave station.

AERIALS FOR BRITAIN AND CANADA.

The site at Ballan was chosen with great care. It is about 1,800 feet above sea level, and is free from "shielding" by hills. The six masts stand on a plateau, slightly elevated above the surrounding country. The Ballan station, when completed, will really consist of two separate transmitters—one for communication direct with England, and one for working with Canada. Two aerial systems will be needed, and, therefore, each system will be supported by three masts.

The three masts for each aerial are carefully set out in a line. The determination of this line is particularly important, because the direction in which the "beam" is radiated is exactly at right angles to the line of the masts. It will be clear that unless this line is accurately determined, there will be a danger of the beam "missing" the receiving station in England, to which it will be projected. The angle of the beam will be about 45 degrees. This means that the strength of the wave emitted will be about eight times greater than with a transmitter of equal power but without the beam equipment.

ROUND THE WORLD BOTH WAYS.

The station will be so arranged that in the morning the aerial pointing to the north-west will be in use. The beam to England will then be projected across Australia, the Indian Ocean, Northern Africa and Southern Europe. This path will be for the greater part of its length in darkness. The waves travel most readily through a path of darkness. In the evening, however, the beam will be sent in a South-Easterly direction, going round the other half of the earth, which will then be in darkness, in doing so. The Canadian aerial will be equipped to transmit in a North-Easterly direction only.

All the electric current for working the transmitters, as well as for domestic purposes in the cottages of the station staff, will be generated at the station. The construction of the power-house floor is unique. Although each engine and generator is set in a heavy block of concrete, these concrete blocks are entirely isolated from the main floor of the station, and rest on beds of compressed cork. The purpose of this is to prevent the slightest jarring or vibration from being communicated to the transmitting apparatus itself. As a further safeguard, the concrete blocks on which the transmitters will be built will also be set on beds of cork. The effect of vibration on the transmitter would probably be to cause the wave to change

CONTROL FROM MELBOURNE.

Although there will be a staff of nearly twenty men at the station when it is working, no messages will actually be transmitted from the station. The duty of the staff will be to stop and to start the generators and motors and to keep the plant in running order. Messages will be transmitted from the offices of the Amalgamated Wireless (Australasia), Limited (by whom the station is owned), in Queen street, Melbourne. Automatic transmitters will be employed, and as messages are received they will be typed out on a machine resembling a typewriter, which will punch them in Morse characters on a paper tape. This tape will then be fed to apparatus capable of transmitting at a speed of 100 words a minute and possibly more. The messages will then be sent by means of a telegraph line to Ballan, where they will be communicated to the main transmitter, and thus started on their aerial journey.—(Reuter.)

ABOLISHED CLARE OFFICES.

COUNTY COUNCIL'S PENSION SCHEME.

For over eight hours the Clare County Council were engaged at their last meeting in fixing the pensions to be awarded to the Clerks of Rural District Councils, whose office has been abolished. Those clerks have already been recommended for pensions in respect of their services as clerks of Boards of Guardians, but, except in two cases, those pensions have not yet been sanctioned. The County Council had asked the Minister for Local Government to fix the pensions, but he declined to do so, pointing out that his function was to consider the figures submitted by the Council, and to approve of them if he deemed them equitable.

Some of the Councillors desired to have before them the pension recommended to the officials as Clerks of Unions before deciding the pensions they should get as Clerks to District Councils.

Mr. F. F. Cullinan, solicitor, for the officials, submitted that the pension as Clerks of Unions had nothing to do with the pensions as Clerks to District Councils. They were two distinct jobs.

The Council, after a prolonged debate and repeated votes, passed the following figures for submission to the Minister:—

Mr. M. O'Reilly, clerk to Corofin District Council, £107 18s.; pension recommended previously as clerk to Guardians, £132 11s. Mr. N. Griffey, clerk to Ennistymon District Council, £84 8s. 6d.; pension as clerk to Guardians, £107 4s. 4d. Mr. P. McMahon, clerk to Kildysart District Council, £124; clerk to Guardians, £102 12s. 10d. Mr. T. Kelly, clerk to Kilrush District Council, £84 12s. 10d.; clerk of Guardians, £114 18s. 3d. Mr. J. Holohan, clerk to Scariff District Council, £92 6s. 8d.; clerk to Guardians, £223 6s. 8d. Mr. E. Vaughan, clerk to Tulla District Council, £138; clerk to Guardians, £42 (fixed eighteen years ago).

The County Council decided by a majority not to add 50 per cent. to the years of service in respect of the abolition of office. Stress was laid in the course of the discussion on the burden imposed on the county by an unsuitable scheme of workhouse amalgamation.

Mr. M. S. O'Loghlen, ex-clerk of Ballyvaughan District Council, who would have been entitled to compensation for loss of office, was appointed rates inspector at £350 a year, inclusive.

Objecting to the cost of this office, Mr. James O'Flynn said that the work was formerly done in fifteen minutes ten times a year by the clerks of unions at a total cost of £150.

Mr. Cullinan, solicitor, said that the work, to be done properly, would occupy a full time officer.

Mr. P. J. Kelly, late assistant clerk to the Kilrush District Council, was appointed roads clerk at £260 per annum. Mr. Kelly would also have been entitled to compensation for loss of office if he were not provided with another appointment.

MONEY AT 5 PER CENT.

Stocks opened steady, but the stiffening of money rates tended to restrain bullish operations. After advancing briskly, the market lapsed into dullness, and later became reactionary. Business and trade news was of a mixed character. The failure of a large Florida real estate project and the announcement of a cut in Automobile prices by one manufacturer was offset by the publication of a number of favourable Industrial and [illegible] statements and reports. The mail order sales were above last year. Five per cent. money, the highest rate for two months, caused renewed selling, however. Motors reflected disappointment over the failure of the directors of Mack Trucks to declare a special dividend. The market closed irregular. Government Bonds and Railroad Bonds steady. The day's sales totalled 880,000 shares.

Money on call closed strong, at 5 p.c. bid and 5½ p.c. asked. Business done during the day ranged from 4 to 5 per cent., with the ruling rate 4 p.c. The last loan was made at 5 p.c. Sterling exchange irregular. Silver unchanged at 65c.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

WHEAT opened easy, 1⅛c. to ⅜c. lower. Bearish weekly foreign statistics and poor Liverpool cables, combined with advices of a beneficial rainfall over the week-end in scattered parts of the South-West and North-West, started the market lower, but the maintenance of firm cash premiums, bullish private spring wheat estimates, and a decrease in the visible supply, and talk of an export inquiry later prompted covering, and effected a moderate upturn. Subsequent realising caused reactions, however, but the closing was steady, ⅛c. up to unchanged. Spot weak.

SUIT CLEANERS SUED.

DAMAGES FOR BELFAST MAN.

In the Belfast Recorder's Court Christopher R. Howell, 33 North street, Belfast, photographer, was awarded £2, with costs, in an action against Messrs. Thompson Brothers, Ltd., Belfast, dyers and cleaners, for £8 8s., for alleged damage to a suit of clothes sent to be cleaned, and which was returned with two holes burned in the back of the coat.

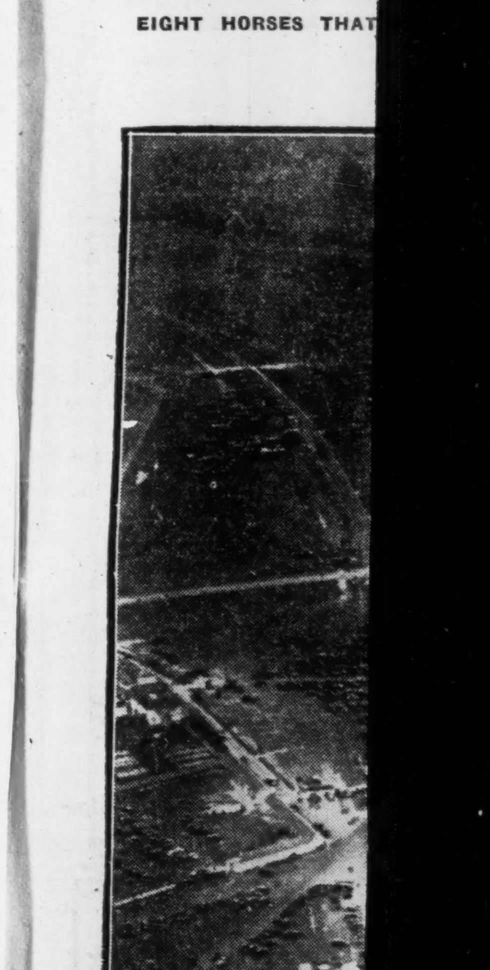

The defence was that the plaintiff stated that the stains were caused by grease, and when the defendants treated the clothing with the usual dry-cleaning process they found that the stains were caused by acid.

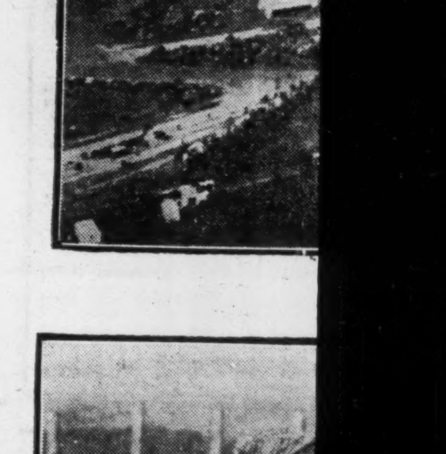

The Recorder held that the defendants should have examined the garment to see if it was suitable for their treatment. He gathered from what Mr. Cowden, of the Belfast Technical Institute, had said, that, if a technical examination were made, the coat would not have been put through the cleaning process. He gave a decree, as stated.

BELFAST AND THE EDUCATION ACT.

TRANSFER OF ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

HEADS OF AGREEMENT APPROVED.

A SETTLEMENT has been reached in the controversy with regard to the transfer of elementary schools in Belfast to the local education authority under the new Education Act.

The Transfer Sub-Committee of the Belfast Education Committee and the Protestant Managers' Association have arrived at "heads of agreement" which may be embodied in leases for the transfer of elementary schools or temporary tenancies.

The difficulty at one time threatened to disorganise the whole elementary education system in Belfast.

SCHOOL PREMISES.

TRANSFER OF EQUIPMENT.

I understand, writes our Belfast Correspondent, that it has been agreed that the equipment of the school premises shall be transferred to the education authority absolutely, provided that any portion of the premises that may be discarded from time to time shall be handed back to the transferors. The right will be reserved to the transferors, during the term of the lease or tenancy, to use the premises at such time, and for such purpose as may be arranged at the time of the making of the lease. This provision is subject to a condition that the education authority shall be indemnified for any rates which may be charged upon the premises, due to the use made of them by the transferors; also that the transferors shall contribute to the education authority a proportion of the cost of heating, lighting, and cleaning, as arranged, in respect of the use of the premises, and that the transferors shall be responsible for any damage occasioned during the time they are using the premises.

The education authority, on the other hand, will become responsible for the head rent, or such portion of it as may be arranged, and also for the repayment of the instalments of any outstanding debts on the building, or of such portion as may be agreed to at the time the lease is made. But the education authority, during the period of the lease, will obtain the benefit of any endowments relating to the premises, in so far as such endowments relate to educational purposes.

A DIFFICULTY SETTLED.

One matter that caused considerable difficulty has been satisfactorily arranged. The education authority is to use the premises for the purpose of a public elementary school, but in suitable cases the transferors will favourably consider the insertion of a clause in the lease or tenancy, enabling the premises to be used for other purposes ancillary to education, which shall not unduly interfere with the use of any adjoining premises by the transferors. The education authority will have the right to erect such fittings, and to make such alterations or introduce such equipment as may be required by them from time to time, but these must not materially interfere with the use of the premises reserved to the transferors.

Temporary tenancies can be terminated by notice on either side, but the education authorities may surrender the lease of the premises on giving six calendar months' notice. Transferors will have an option to determine any lease by six months' notice if the conditions of transfer are not being observed. Schools transferred on lease shall be under the management of a local committee for the school or group of schools, and one committee will advise in the appointment of teachers to vacancies; in the teaching staff fair and reasonable representation will be given on such local committees to the transferors, and the parents of the children and the proportion of representation will be arranged at the time of transfer.

Bible instruction will be given daily by the teaching staff during the periods set apart for religious instruction, according to a programme to be adopted by the education authority, or such other programme as may be substituted therefor, and approved by the transferors.

The Protestant managers, through their chairman, have approved of the agreement, on the understanding that if any public elementary school or teachers' residence is offered on lease or temporary tenancy on the terms and conditions contained therein, and the offer is not entertained, the responsibility for closing the school or contributing to the maintenance of the residence will not rest with the managers or owners.

The Chairman of the Education Committee (Alderman Duff) approved of the agreement, subject to confirmation by the City Council, but without admitting any responsibility which may arise in the events referred to by the Chairman of the Belfast Protestant Managers' Association.

The agreement which was approved to-day by the Belfast Corporation as the Education Authority for the city has gone a long way towards settling all outstanding difficulties in regard to school transfers, and if it is observed in the spirit, as well as in the letter, it should lead to educational peace in Belfast.

Alderman Duff, in moving the adoption of the education minutes at the Belfast Corporation meeting this afternoon, stated that the agreement with the Protestant managers dispelled all difficulties, and the committee now hoped that as the controversy has been amicably closed, they could rely upon the good-will of those who fought them in the past to help on the good work in connection with the children.

The minutes were adopted.

Thomas Fitzpatrick (40) and William Griffiths (50) were working underneath a crane in the Clyde Valley Electrical Power Station yesterday, when an iron counter balance broke in two pieces, and killed them.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS
How to get quick relief
Indigestion is not only painful, but it neglected soon becomes dangerous. Excess stomach acid and fermenting food irritate the delicate stomach lining, form gas, and, by interfering with proper nourishment, actually break down health. The surest, quickest, and only logical way to relieve indigestion is to neutralise the acid and stop the food fermentation which causes it; and "Bisurated" Magnesia will do this instantly. The sour fermented stomach contents are sweetened, the acid-inflamed stomach lining is soothed, natural healthy stomach conditions are restored, and painless, healthful digestion follows at once. "Bisurated" Magnesia removes the cause of indigestion and gives relief from the most severe attack in less than five minutes. Get a package from your chemist to-day, either powder or tablets, and see how quickly you get complete stomach comfort.

Gums Like Coral
Teeth with that dazzling whiteness you seek
This NEW way will bring them quickly. Simply send the coupon. Make this unique dental test. See what a great difference a few days will make—it removes the film that invites "off-colour" teeth and unhealthy gums.
FREE—10-Day Tube—Note coupon
HERE is a simple dental test. A test that will work a great change in the colour of your teeth, in the colour and firmness of your gums.
You may not realize it, but yet be handicapping yourself immeasurably with a smile that lacks the attraction of glistening whiteness and healthy gums.
So, for your own sake, send the coupon. It means so much to you.
That stubborn film—you must remove it
Dental science now tells us that most tooth troubles have a potential origin in a film that forms on your teeth.
You can't see it with your eyes, but run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it . . . a slippery coating.
That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off-colour" and dingy.
It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack.
You can't have pretty teeth unless you combat it. Highest authorities tell you this.
Brushing won't end it
Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.
Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.
Largely on dental advice the world has turned to it. Tooth and gum troubles hence are on the decline.
It removes that film. And Firms the Gums
It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film then firms the gums. No harsh grit, judged dangerous to enamel.
A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt. Why cling to old methods when world's authorities urge a better way?
Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget.

FOR HELPLESS CHILDREN.

ENTERTAINMENT IN AID OF ST. ULTAN'S HOSPITAL.

Fine weather favoured a performance of classical and ballet dancing and singing given by the pupils of Madame and the Misses Rock at St. Leonard's, Killiney, yesterday in aid of St. Ultan's Hospital.

Miss ffrench-Mullen, addressing the spectators during an interval, said that the sentiment expressed by a Roman matron, who described her children as her jewels, was as true to-day as when it was uttered, because a country's most precious possession was its children. The spectators, by their presence that day, had helped these helpless children. In St. Ultan's Hospital they did their special work, but those who helped the hospital with money or service likewise would receive a share of the reward.

Miss ffrench-Mullen added that the weather prevailing elsewhere, in Dublin especially, had prevented many from coming out to enjoy the sunshine at St. Leonard's; but Madame Rock had kindly consented to repeat the performance next Monday. (Applause.)

RAILWAY FARES TO BRAY.

At a meeting of the Bray Urban District Council last night the Chairman (Mr. Frame) said that it was very unusual and very wrong that no cheap tickets should have been issued by the railway company from Dublin to Bray on Whit Monday.

In answer to Mr. Frame, the Town Clerk said that he had received no reply from the company about reduced fares to Dublin.

A SELF-SUPPORTING SCHOOL.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT IN KERRY.

Mr. Thomas F. Curtayne presided at a meeting which was held in the Intermediate School, Killorglin, when the Headmaster read a report on the work of the school during the past year.

The Chairman said that that was the only school in the Free State managed and financed by a local committee. It was not endowed, no collections were made for it in the parish, and it received nothing from the rates. The Committee had a plot of ground attached to the school, and they hoped to get an instructor from the Department of Lands to give part-time instruction in horticulture, and they also hoped to establish domestic economy classes.

Mr. Thomas O'Donnell, barrister-at-law, said that he was very proud of the School since he started it in 1909. It had now 62 pupils, and three University graduates as teachers, and had a revenue of over £1,000. The school was self-supporting, except for a small grant which it got from the Education Board. That was a creditable record of local initiative and local success in a district that was not overburdened with wealth. He hoped next year to get a fourth, and, if possible, a fifth teacher, and, if so, agriculture and science would be properly looked after.

The MacGillycuddy of the Reeks also addressed the meeting.

The Yarmouth drifter, Young Charlie, sank off Penzance yesterday afternoon. The crew were saved.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

THE DERBY.

COLORADO TO WIN.

BIRTHRIGHT ALL OUT.

BULGER STILL UNBEATEN.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

EPSOM, Tuesday Night.

The signs and portents continue favourable to the chance of the favourite, Lord Derby's Colorado, winning to-morrow's race for the Derby. The colt arrived here early this morning in the best of health, and Lord Derby and Mr. Lambton went about the course all day smiling in confident anticipation of the triumph awaiting them to-morrow. The weather has been delightful all day, and the going will be in almost perfect order, unless heavy rain falls in the course of the night.

I have said before that I cannot plead a case favourable to any of Colorado's rivals, and I expect to see him win, and win easily into the bargain. There is some eleventh hour confidence behind Coronach, and he was well backed on the course this afternoon, though his price did not contract. Fred Darling thinks that the improvement he has made since Colorado beat him five lengths in the Guineas can hardly be measured, and his trial with Warden of the Marches was a high one. As, however, Warden of the Marches was at least a stone behind classic form last season, it might still not be good enough to beat Colorado. I will admit for Coronach that he showed rather more room for improvement when he ran in the Guineas than did Colorado, and also that he was badly away.

On the other hand, he was beaten five lengths, and whereas Colorado finished full of running, Coronach was absolutely all out. I am a little doubtful, too, on the subject of Coronach's stamina. In spite of all statements to the contrary, there are still doubts about him being absolutely sound in his wind, and I should be in no way surprised did he fail to finish in the first three.

Swift and Sure will carry a good deal of Taylor's confidence, though it is doubtful if he has any real hope of beating Colorado. He is the only candidate of note who has won over a mile and a half, and he took the Chester Vase in the style of a good horse. Even when this is said there is nothing about him to suggest that he will beat the favourite. I expect Lex to run well, and to show rather more relative improvement than anything which finished behind Colorado and Coronach in the Guineas. He has suggested in his last gallops that he stays well.

Gay Lothario met with a slight accident a few days ago, and has been taken out, Lord Glanely's only runner being Tenacity, who is quite likely to do well. Finglas is another whom I expect to see run well, for he could have been closer up in the Guineas. Apple Sammy is a little fancied, but his stamina is doubtful. Harry Beasley will ride Review Order, who will stay the course, and G. Walsh will be on Mr. Persse's other candidate St. Mary's Kirk, neither of whom I can fancy in the least. Cimiez, who will carry the Aga Khan's colours, has never run before. This half-brother to Charley's Mount is said to have been well galloped at Whatcombe, and is expected to give a good account of himself. None of the others seem to be on the map at all.

I choose COLORADO to win, and suggest that he may be followed home by Swift and Sure and Lex.

The Stewards' High-weight Handicap is the other interesting event of the afternoon. Sunny View, who did so well at Hurst Park last week, will be in the field and will be hard to beat. Orison is fancied, and Silver Crag, if started, should do better than he did last time. I think, however, that nothing will beat SUNNY VIEW.

The Caterham Stakes should rest between Sundry, who won at Newmarket, and Obol, though I believe that Wootton's Cold Steel is fancied. I choose OBOL to win.

A TREBLE FOR DONOGHUE.

There was some very good racing this afternoon, and the attendance did not seem to suffer in any way from the curtailment of the railway facilities. Donoghue, who had not ridden a winner since the Chester meeting a month ago, delighted his supporters by riding three here. The most important of these was Birthright, who took the historic Woodcote Stakes for Mrs. Sofer Whitburn. He jumped off close to Fourth Hand, who dropped back in the first furlong, with Shian Mor in close attendance. At the distance, however, he began to draw away, and he beat Shian Mor by two lengths, with Fourth Hand, who was making up ground fast at the finish, a head away, third. This winner, who is a son of Swynford, is a smart colt, and some rate him as being the best the season is likely to produce. I thought myself he was shortening his stride in the last hundred yards, and that Donoghue could not have got much more out of him. There is scope for improvement about the second, Shian Mor.

One of the most interesting things of the day was the reappearance of the unbeaten Bulger, a son of Bridge of Earn, bred at the Knockany Stud, whose nominations were made void by the death of Sir Edward Hulton. He came as near as nothing to losing his race, for Bay Friar poached a long lead off him at the start, and when he did come to head the others Bay Friar put up another rally, and was only beaten a short head in a tense moment, during which those who had laid the long odds on Bulger had a sharp shock. Although he only won by this narrow margin, I think Bulger is a good one; but he is a lazy colt, who seems quite satisfied when he has got his head in front. It was by stamina that he won this afternoon, and probably he needs a longer course to show him at his best. He did not come down the hill too well, and it is doubtful whether he can beat Solario, if he is started for the Coronation Cup on Thursday.

Golden Clear made all the running for the Egmont Plate and beat Bewitched and Bright Maid by a length and a half and the same. The winner has a curious history, for when the daughter of Golden Sun came up at Doncaster among Mr. C. M. Prior's yearlings, George Stern, who was running some horses for his patron, M. Marcel Boussac, at the meeting, took a fancy to her, and bought her for 540 gns. She won in France for M. Boussac, but being English-bred there were so few events open to her that he leased her to Sir Alfred Butt, who brought her back to England. She had obviously so much in hand when she won at Windsor that she was a good favourite to-day. Bewitched, who is quite tractable at the gate this season, is also leased by Mrs. Denneny, who bred her at Ballymanus, to Captain de Trafford. She has all the Tetratema speed, but in Golden Clear she was meeting one exceptionally smart.

Frank Hartigan, who had one of the selling races with Unexpected, took the Epsom Handicap with Rhyolite, on whom Donoghue rode a beautiful race to beat the favourite, Balderston, by a head. Perfect Son, who won the last race, completed a treble for Wootton and a double for Sir Alfred Butt and Smirke. Wootton had an odds-on chance in Modesty in the opening selling race, but this one was well beaten by the junior gelding, Lashaway, owned and trained by De Mestre. This is the tiniest two-year-old I have seen win a race for a long time, but Mr. S. W. Beer bid up to 910 guineas to buy her. Her trainer stopped at 900, and the sale caused some slight heat and a good deal of amusement to the spectators.

IRISH BREEDERS' PRODUCE STAKES.

In connection with the Irish Breeders' Produce Stakes, to be run at Phœnix Park in July, 1929, it should be noted by those who intend making entries that to-day (Wednesday) is the last day for naming mares. The race is for the produce of mares covered this season by sires standing in Ireland, to run when two years old. The entrance fee is only £1 for each mare named, and 100 sovs. goes to the nominator of the dam of the winner, and 50 sovs. to the nominator of the dam of the second horse. Entries should be sent to Mr. F. H. Clarke, 9 Hume street, Dublin.

Vickers Sporting Guns & Rifles are world famous.—Advt.

THE DERBY.

6 to 4 Colorado (t.).
8 to 1 Coronach (o., after 7 to 1 t.).
8 to 1 Swift and Sure (t.).
10 to 1 Lex (t.).

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

THE DERBY.

The race of the day is, of course, the Derby. The field will number some nineteen. It may be said at once that the confidence reposed in Colorado by the colt's connections is as great as ever, for the horse has given every satisfaction in his gallops since his meritorious victory in the Two Thousand Guineas. The value of that form has since been greatly enhanced by the runaway victory in the Irish Two Thousand Guineas of Embargo, who, in the Newmarket classic, was beaten out of sight by Lord Derby's champion. Coronach appeared to be running on stoutly when finishing second in the Guineas, but will need to have made tremendous improvement to turn the tables on his very easy Newmarket conquerer. Lex, who so sensationally beat Coronach in last year's Middle Park Stakes, is stated to have greatly pleased his connections in his recent work and to have overcome the shelly brittle foot trouble which afflicted him in the Guineas. The recent rains at headquarters, too, are all in his favour. Apple Sammy was well beaten in the Guineas, but it would not be surprising to see him again run into a place. Swift and Sure has been well tried, and has proved that he can stay by the brilliant manner in which he galloped down the opposition when recently winning the Chester Vase, run over the Derby distance. There are, of course, others, but they are hardly likely to reveal another "springer" like Jeddah or Signorinetta, and in an endeavour to anticipate the verdict I shall place the leading trio thus—

CORONACH ........................ 2

LONDON BETTING—YESTERDAY.

The market on the Derby at the Beaufort Club's "call over" last evening was extremely limited. Colorado was backed to win about £2,500 at 13 to 8 down to 6 to 4. Swift and Sure became second favourite at 7 to 1, and was supported to win upwards of £2,500. Coronach was easy. Lex was befriended to win about £2,000 at 10 to 1. Of the remaining candidates, Harpagon was the best backed at 40 to 1 to win, upwards of £3,000 being written against his name.

M. DE ST. ALARY'S BEREAVEMENT.

M. de St. Alary, the owner of Finglas, has unfortunately sustained a bereavement in the death of his mother, which occurred yesterday morning. Finglas finished fifth behind Colorado in the Two Thousand Guineas, and having met with public support for the Derby M. de St. Alary has decided to allow the colt to run. An application was made to the Epsom Stewards yesterday afternoon to permit Finglas to run in the name and colours of his trainer, Mr. P. P. Gilpin, but, as the card had already been printed, it was too late to make any change.

NEWMARKET GALLOPS.

At Newmarket yesterday:—

Captain Boyd-Rochfort gave his Oaks candidate, Glasheen, a nice seven furlongs gallop in company with Law and Order.

Lord Derby's Oaks filly, Piazzetta, gave every satisfaction when galloped over a mile and a half.

Lord Durham's Trilogy showed no sign of the ailment which prevented her from being exercised on Saturday when galloped over a mile, with Beary in the saddle, in company with Box Hill.

Sir John Rutherford's colt, Solario, the winner of last year's St. Leger, who is strongly fancied for the Coronation Cup on Thursday, went well in six furlongs gallop with Right Ho !.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE FRANCO-BRITISH MATCH.

GREAT BRITAIN'S VICTORY.

Much to the surprise of the French critics, Mrs. Godfree (Great Britain) beat Mlle. Vlasto in the Franco-British lawn tennis contest here to-day—1-6, 6-4, 7-5. Mlle. Vlasto carried the first set easily by sheer speed, which, however, she was unable to maintain, and in the second set flagged badly, while Mrs. Godfree's more finished game began to tell. Again and again the Englishwoman's net strokes put an end to a rally which Mlle. Vlasto had kept up from the back line. Mrs. Godfree, who also frequently scored from fine passing shots to her opponent's backhand, certainly showed form considerably above her displays on French courts in 1924 and 1925.

Miss Joan Fry, who beat Mme. Mathieu 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, seemed to be playing much more like herself, and stood up well to the Frenchwoman's hard drives. Details:—

Mrs. Godfree (Great Britain) beat Mlle. Vlasto (France)—1-6, 6-4, 7-5; Mrs. Shepherd Barron beat Mlle. Deve—4-6, 6-4, 6-2; Mme. Vaussard (replacing Mlle. Descleres) beat Mrs. McIlquham—6-0, 6-3; Miss Joan Fry beat Mme. Mathieu—6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Mrs. McIlquham and Mrs. Shepherd Barron beat Mlles. Deve and Conquet—8-10, 6-4, 6-0; Mrs. Godfree and Miss Colyer beat Mlles. Cousin and Charnelet—6-3, 6-1.

Results:—Great Britain, 9 matches; France, 3 matches.

DAVIS CUP—THIRD ROUND.

SWEDEN v. SOUTH AFRICA.

Sweden gained a surprising victory over South Africa in the Doubles match of the third round, European zone, Davis Cup tie, at Melbury Park, Kensington, yesterday. There remain two Singles to be played, and Sweden hold a lead of two matches to one.

Doubles—O. Garrell and S. Malstrom (Sweden) beat P. D. B. Spence and J. J. Lezard (South Africa)—6-2, 8-6, 8-6.

ANGLING.

WATERVILLE, COUNTY KERRY.

For the week ending 30th May angling conditions were very good. An abnormal rainfall for three days made a great improvement, and sport of a high order was the result. The weir fishery also broke all previous records, as the takes on Friday last, when weir was lifted and the netting of pool, amounted to 160 salmon (largest 33lb.) and 129 sea trout (several over 4lb.). Angling results on Waterville lake were—Dr. P. T. O'Sullivan, Cork, 2 salmon, 9½ and 8lb., some sea trout (largest 2½ lb.); Sir Charles Anderson, 2 salmon and 10 sea trout, average 2lb., also a nice basket of brown trout; Dr. McDonnell, 15 sea trout; A. Riley, 7 salmon in three days from 11½ to 22lb.; M. Paterson, two, 11½ and 10lb.; J. Healy, two, 12 and 9lb.; J. Sullivan, two, 11½ and 9½lb.; and W. Breen, one, 12lb.

On Lough Namona Dr. P. T. O'Sullivan had one salmon, 12lb., and 33 brown trout in one day; on Cloonaghlin lake 19 brown trout, and on the Cummeragh river, three sea trout, 5, 3, and 2½lb.

The Inny river was in heavy flood and unfishable for a few days, but Captain Gibson foul hooked a salmon 9lb.

Dr. McDonnell and Mr. P. Hamilton had a good day's sport pollock fishing in Darrynane Bay (rods), and accounted for 27, average weight 3½lb.

CYCLING.

IRISH ROAD CLUB.

The above club held their 12-hour tourist ride to Bagenalstown and back on Sunday, the 30th ult. The riders were despatched and checked in by Mr. J. J. Galavan, and of the nineteen who started thirteen finished the journey of 120 miles. Those finishing were:—*J. Nolan, J. Kinnane, M. Conray, P. Fegan, *K. Leedom, *W. J. Finn, G. Palmer, Thos. Scholes, *J. W. Brownlee, *R. Oates, *D. A. O'Brien, *J. Gunning, and J. Earley, and will be awarded the club's certificate. Those marked with an asterisk are club members. The outward journey was very severe, a gale blowing from the south-west impeding the riders greatly, many of whom had never faced the journey before, and the result is highly creditable and augurs well for this event in the future.

POLICE INSPECTIONS.

FREE STATE TOUR OPENED BY COMMISSIONER.

General O'Duffy has begun a tour of inspection of the police force of the Free State. Last week he inspected the Cavan-Monaghan divisional force. All the officers, sergeants and Guards, except the barrack orderly, were brought from the various sub-districts to the district headquarters at Carrickmacross, Monaghan, Ballyconnell, Cavan and Bailieborough, and examined in police and detective duties, orders and regulations, drill, etc. The examination at each centre lasted on an average ten hours. The Commissioner afterwards visited each station in the division, and inspected the buildings, books and records, and public property.

At the close of the Cavan-Monaghan tour General O'Duffy expressed himself as greatly pleased with the result of his inspections.

IRISH LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

MRS. CUTHELL DEFEA[TED] AT 19TH.

INTERESTING PLAY A[T] NEWCASTLE.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDE[NT]
NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The story of the first day's play [in the] Ladies' Championship can be written [in] the elimination of Mrs. Cuthell b[y Miss] Jean Rice. They had met in the Ulst[er] when the former champion gained a victory, but the Dunmurry lady had revenge to-day, when she got the be[tter of] her rival at the nineteenth, in what [was the] match of the day. When Mrs. Cuth[ell] three of the first five holes it was [...] her being stymied three times, but s[he] got level at the ninth. Then ensued [one of] the keenest matches which have been [seen] in the championship for years. Mi[ss Rice] wiped out a two-holes deficit at the si[xteenth] and, the next two being halved, they [went to] the tie hole. Here Miss Rice hit the [green with her] tee shot, and an excellent putt gave [her a] 4 for the match.

But there were other interesting [happen]ings, in fact it was a distinctly inte[resting] day's golf. So far as the play in t[he after]noon is concerned the outstanding [event] was the passing of Mrs. Madill. The [Hermi]tage lady did not play at all poorly, [but she] was up against it all the way, an[d was] down to Miss P. Gardiner, she never [succeeded in] making up the lost ground, and was [beaten] by the astonishing margin of 6 and [4, the] winner having played fine golf and [getting] down in one putt on a number of th[e greens]. Some of the best golf of the day w[as played] by Miss Helen Hirsch. It was th[is] lady who beat Miss Lobbett in the [...] Open at Troon, and to-day she p[ut up at] least one capital display when sh[e beat] Mrs. Gotto by 4 and 2, after leadin[g at the] turn by two holes.

Another lady who is playing co[nsistent] golf is Mrs. Jameson, the captain [of The] Island, who overcame a strong player [in Miss] Hewitt, the Westward Ho lady, who [plays] from Cork Club. There will not [be many] better recoveries than that effected [by Miss] O'Hara in her match with Mrs. Co[burn of] Sutton. She was three down at th[e turn,] but won the next three, to square at t[he 12th.] She fell behind again and was dorm[ie one] down, but the Sligo lady was not do[ne] even then. She took three holes [in a row] and won the tie hole to get into th[e next] round. The holder of the title, Miss J[ackson,] was in her element in the wind, and [won her] two matches with much ease. Anoth[er meri]torious achievement was the success [of Miss] May Hannan, who, in her first essay [in the] championship, outplayed Miss Bla[ck, the] Tailteann champion.

MRS. CUTHELL DEFEATED AT 19TH.

INTERESTING PLAY AT NEWCASTLE.

By OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday Night.

The story of the first day's play in the Ladies' Championship can be written round the elimination of Mrs. Cuthell by Miss Jean Rice. They had met in the Ulster Cup, when the former champion gained a hollow victory, but the Dunmurry lady had a full revenge to-day, when she got the better of her rival at the nineteenth, in what was the match of the day. When Mrs. Cuthell lost three of the first five holes it was through her being stymied three times, but she had got level at the ninth. Then ensued one of the keenest matches which have been played in the championship for years. Miss Rice wiped out a two-holes deficit at the sixteenth, and, the next two being halved, they went to the tie hole. Here Miss Rice hit the longer tee shot, and an excellent putt gave her a 4 for the match.

But there were other interesting happenings, in fact it was a distinctly interesting day's golf. So far as the play in the forenoon is concerned the outstanding feature was the passing of Mrs. Madill. The Hermitage lady did not play at all poorly, but she was up against it all the way, and three down to Miss P. Gardiner, she never looked making up the lost ground, and was beaten by the astonishing margin of 6 and 5, the winner having played fine golf and getting down in one putt on a number of the greens. Some of the best golf of the day was played by Miss Helen Hirsch. It was this young lady who beat Miss Lobbett in the Ladies' Open at Troon, and to-day she put up at least one capital display when she ousted Mrs. Gotto by 4 and 2, after leading at the turn by two holes.

Another lady who is playing convincing golf is Mrs. Jameson, the captain of The Island, who overcame a strong player in Miss Hewitt, the Westward Ho lady, who entered from Cork Club. There will not be many better recoveries than that effected by Mrs. O'Hara in her match with Mrs. Coburn, of Sutton. She was three down at the sixth, but won the next three, to square at the turn. She fell behind again and was dormy three down, but the Sligo lady was not done with even then. She took three holes running, and won the tie hole to get into the third round. The holder of the title, Miss Jackson, was in her element in the wind, and won her two matches with much ease. Another meritorious achievement was the success of Miss May Hannan, who, in her first essay in the championship, outplayed Miss Blake, the Tailteann champion.

LEINSTER JUNIOR CUP.

SECOND ROUND.

The Leinster Junior Cup was continued yesterday at Milltown, when the second round, consisting of seven matches, was completed. Several interesting matches were played during the afternoon, and as a result of the day's proceedings, Royal Dublin, Bray, Foxrock, Killiney, Portmarnock, Malahide, Milltown and Castle have qualified for the third round, which will be played to-day. Royal Dublin had a very close match with Sutton, winning by the odd match in 7; while Malahide also had an exciting tussle with Dublin University. Quite the best match of the day, however, was that between Castle and Clontarf, the result hinging on the last match—that between McAlister and Crawley, which went to the 21st before the Castle man won. Milltown had an easy win over Hermitage, taking five of the seven matches, while Bray and Portmarnock had also decisive victories. Details:—

The following clubs were elected to the Union:—Clonmel, Gorey, Castlebar, Claremorris, Clara, Edenderry, Ballymena and Shandon Park, Belfast.

THE WALKER CUP MATCH.

GREAT CONTEST AT ST. ANDREWS.

Great Britain is to make her fifth attempt to beat America in the Walker Cup match at St. Andrews to-day and to-morrow. Four matches have been played, and America has won all of them. The British Selection Committee chose its team at the last hour, and despite the reversal of form shown in the Amateur Championship only two new players have been "capped," these being the Hon. W. G. Brownlow and Andrew Jamieson, jun. The order of play has been finally decided upon as follows:—

TO-DAY—FOURSOMES.

Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford (A.) v. R. H. Wethered and Sir E. W. E. Holderness (G.B.).
Jesse Sweetser and G. Von Elm (A.) v. Robert Harris and Major C. O. Hezlet (G.B.).
R. T. Jones and Watts Gunn (A.) v. C. J. H. Tolley and A. Jamieson, jun. (G.B.).
Robert Gardner and R. McKenzie (A.) v. E. F. Storey and the Hon. W. G. Brownlow (G.B.).

In the Singles, which are to be decided on Thursday, Tolley opposes "Bobby" Jones in the top match, and the meeting of these two great golfers will occasion considerable interest. Another match of great promise is that between Ouimet and Wethered. On the last occasion of a big American challenge for the British Championship, in 1923, Wethered beat Ouimet in the semi-final round, and in the last match which the two players contested at St. Andrews, in the Walker Cup contest of the same year, the result was a halved match. The Amateur champion, Jesse Sweetzer, has to meet Sir Ernest Holderness, who has twice held that title. The order of play for the Singles will be:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Jones | v. | Tolley. |
| Sweetser | v. | Holderness. |
| Ouimet | v. | Wethered. |
| Von Elm | v. | Hezlet. |
| Guilford | v. | Harris |
| Watts Gunn | v. | Brownlow. |
| Mackenzie | v. | Storey. |
| Gardner | v. | Jamieson. |

WHISKEY SUPPLIES HELD UP.

"TRADE" AND THE IMMATURE SPIRITS BILL.

Reporting on the Immature Spirts (Restriction) Bill, at the weekly meeting of the Licensed Grocers' and Vinters' Protection Association of Ireland, held in Commercial Buildings, Dublin, yesterday, the Secretary (Mr. Martin O'Byrne) stated that reports had come to him from wholesalers and retailers that very considerable hardship was being imposed, and would continue to be imposed until the 22nd July, when the bill was expected to become an Act, by the holding-up of supplies. He could not see why this should be so, or why the Government should cause any inconvenience in the important matter of supplies, inasmuch as the object of the measure did not arise from any considerations of revenue, and he felt confident that if suitable representations were made in the proper quarter this hardship would be overcome.

Mr. O'Byrne made a brief report on the Finance Bill which was introduced last Friday.

The Chairman (Mr. Fagan) said that with regard to this bill, the possibility of obtaining relief in the destructive duties on beer and spirits was still in the hands of the elected representatives of the people, and he, speaking for the organised licensed trade, appealed to their members all over the country to bring strong pressure to bear on their representatives to have those great national industries safeguarded, by securing some substantial reductions.

A vote of sympathy with Mr. James J. O'Neill on the recent death of his father; with Mr. J. Bannon, 71 Upper Dorset street, on the death of his mother; and with Senator Mrs. Wyse Power, on the death of her husband, Mr. John Wyse Power, was passed.

Mr. M. J. Ryan, Peace Commissioner, was elected President of the Thomastown Cumann na nGaedheal. Mr. P. T. Kelly Vice-President, and Messrs. B. J. Ryan and Joseph Woods, Peace Commissioners, Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

TWO MATCHES DRAWN.

LANCASHIRE WIN BY 34 RUNS.

A definite result was reached in five of the seven matches yesterday, the exceptions being Middlesex v. Australians and Yorkshire v. Kent, in the latter of which the champions gained three points for a first innings lead.

At Lord's G. T. S. Stevens batted steadily to the finish, scoring 149, and in the closing stages he received good support from Murrell, who contributed a hard-hit 54. Much of the interest had gone from the game when the visitors went in a second time, but W. M. Woodfull ran up his third century of the tour, including ten 4's, a vigorous innings marked by hard driving on both sides of the wicket.

Tyldesley (E.) and Iddon were the chief factors in a splendid recovery by Lancashire at Old Trafford, and their fifth wicket partnership, which realised 94, pulled the game round, and Lancashire snatched a win by a margin of 34 runs. The Surrey batsmen failed against Macdonald, who was bowling well, and it was just on time when he claimed the last wicket.

At Trent Bridge, A. W. Carr practically won the game for Notts by a characteristic 76, 50 of which he scored in half an hour, and the home county took full points with four wickets to spare.

After an unpromising start, a second wicket stand by Bates and Davies gave Glamorgan a good win against Derbyshire at Chesterfield. The pair carried the total to 95 before Davies left, and with Clay in, Bates completed his century, the winning hit, a 3 to leg.

The following were the chief individual performances:—

NORTHERN OLD AGE PENSION SCHEME.

PAYMENTS NEXT MONTH.

From July 2nd next old age pensions at 10s. a week will be payable, without investigation of means, to persons aged 70 years or over who have the health insurance qualifications laid down in the Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pension Act (Northern Ireland), 1925.

Persons drawing an old age pension of less than 10s. a week may get a 10s. pension in substitution, if they have the necessary qualifications.

Any person who is insured under the National Health Insurance scheme, when he or she reaches the age of seventy, remains so insured for the rest of life.

At the meeting of the Kildare County Council on last Monday Mr. J. Bergin, Co.C., was co-opted a member of the Carlow Mental Hospital Committee.

BELFAST CITY CONTROL.

the slightest truth in what Councillor Henderson suggested about members of the Special Committee, it was all the more reason why the whole Corporation should clear out and allow Commissioners to come in and work the city on business lines. He thought the Corporation ought to express themselves as to whether or not they should adopt the addendum.

HEATED EXCHANGES.

Councillor McClure challenged Councillor Henderson's strictures on the members of the Special Committee. With regard to the amendment, he pointed out that the Special Committee sat for 40 to 45 hours last week preparing the report, and that Councillor Midgley came in at the last moment "on the man hunt." On no other subject did he pass any comment whatever.

Councillor Midgley rose to a point of order, whereon Councillor Hinds cried: "Sit down."

Councillor Midgley—Sit you down. I will hit you a punch on the jaw.

Councillor Hinds—Come on over.

Councillor Midgley explained that he sent an apology to the Committee, as he was engaged at the Co-operative congress and could not attend.

The Lord Mayor said that he thought Councillor Midgley was not altogether to blame for his absence under the circumstances.

Councillor Henderson absolved Councillor McClure from inclusion in his reference to the Special Committee.

Councillor Midgley's amendment was lost without a poll.

MORE ABOUT COMMISSIONERS.

After further discussion, the Lord Mayor definitely ruled that any member desirous of putting into force the terms of the addendum must give notice of motion through the Town Clerk, and it must come up at a special meeting for consideration.

Councillor McClure said that in his opinion it was not outside their terms of reference, which entitled them to bring in anything calculated to put an end to corruption about the City Hall.

The Lord Mayor—It will be considered later if desired.

Alderman Duff, who then spoke on the report, said that it was not intended to bring in pious resolutions. Desperate diseases required desperate remedies, and all that was asked was that the city be governed for three years, as an experiment, by Commissioners. During the past ten years certain habits had crept into the Corporation, and these had a demoralising effect. It was only a very small sacrifice in the interests of the prosperity of the city to ask members to give up office for three years. If the remedy suggested were tried, it would bring credit and honour to the city. It was an experiment worth trying. Let them think of the reduction in rates and the increased amount of prosperity to the city if the sixty members were let loose to attend to their own business. (Laughter.)

The Lord Mayor's motion adopting the report was adopted.

ST. MARY'S, DUNDALK.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE COLLEGE UNION.

The annual meeting of the College Union in connection with St. Mary's College, Dundalk, was held in the College yesterday, when past pupils assembled to wish their Alma Mater continued prosperity. Surgeon John S. McArdle (Dublin), who has been President of the Union for the past fifteen years, was re-elected, and most of the existing members of the committee were re-elected, including Mr. A. N. Sheridan, D.L., who, as Vice-President, presided in the absence of Surgeon McArdle, who sent the President of the College a letter explaining that he was obliged by professional engagements to forego the pleasure of being with them.

THE DINNER.

The Union's annual dinner was held in the evening at the hotel, Greenore, Mr. Sheridan presiding.

The toast of "The Union" was proposed by Mr. D. O'Connell, who expressed regret for the death of their old friend, Sir Thomas Macardle, and spoke of the activities of the Union during the past year—the debates, the concerts for the boys, the dance and the whist drives.

Mr. McGee proposed "Prosperity to St. Mary's College."

The Very Rev. P. E. Byrne, President, responding, said that, in spite of bad times, their numbers were increasing; they had over one hundred and thirty boarders on their roll this year. What he was paticularly pleased with was the number of boys in the higher classes, which was a departure from the tendency to withdraw boys from school at the age of from sixteen to seventeen years.

STUDENTS' SUCCESSES.

In the higher classes—leaving certificates and matriculation—the College had over twenty boys. This showed that parents were beginning to realise the value of education, and were eager to take advantage of the opportunities of the higher education offered to them by the State. He regretted that the leaving certificates and the matriculation course did not correspond either in matter or in style. Time was when the same professor could teach both courses concurrently; at present they were totally different classes, requiring separate and independent treatment. This seemed to him to be an unnecessary waste of time, money and energy, and he could not understand why, with a little goodwill on both sides, the University and Intermediate courses could not be worked with greater uniformity, both as to the matter prescribed and the method of treatment.

He had it on good authority that the Marist students at the University were second to none in their application to study, in their uniformly good conduct, and in the success which attends them.

Proceeding, the President referred to the many distinctions achieved by past pupils of the College, and said that a special word of praise was due to Dr. Peter Kerley, who promised to be one of the most brilliant students who ever passed through this College. It seemd hardly credible that a young man of twenty-six years had secured the following distinctions:—Diploma of the University of Vienna; D.M.R.E. (Cantab.); Assistant Radiologist of the Middlesex Hospital, London; Radiologist to the Royal Chest Hospital, London; Radiologist to St. Stephen's Hospital, London; London Lecturer for the Cambridge diploma in Radiology; Editor of X-Ray and Radium Section of "The Cancer Review."

THE LATE SIR THOMAS MACARDLE.

In a letter to the Very Rev. President, Surgeon McArdle paid a tribute to the memory of Sir Thomas Macardle, whose devotion to St. Mary's and whose work in all other spheres of his activities were of the highest value to his country.

Among those present were:—The Very Rev. Eugene Clarke, P.P.; the Rev. A. Byrne, C.C.; the Rev. J. Carraher, C.C.; the Rev. J. Brady, C.C.; Surgeon Hayden; Messrs. James T. McGee, Chairman Louth County Council; D. O'Connell, solicitor; P. O'Connell, V. O'Connell, J. Collins, J. M. Carroll, W. Mooney, P. Kieran, L. Farnan, J. B. Hamill, State solicitor; P. L. Macardle, solicitor; W. B. Connolly, James Wynne (Hon. Secretary), F. McCann; Dr. Clarke; the Rev. P. Lawless, S.M., Leeson street, Dublin, and the Very Rev. P. E. Byrne, S.M., Provincial and President of the College.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

"A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM."

Last night the Doran Shakesperean Company gave the tenth and last play in its repertoire at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin—"Midsummer Night's Dream." Six of the plays already given will be repeated this week.

The performance last night was one of the prettiest of the season, and the fairy chorus presented by pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne's School of Dancing alone would have made the night delightful. The droll humour, dashed with pathos, of the entanglements between two pairs of lovers, was done very skilfully, and the intricacy never puzzled the audience. Miss Hutchinson and Miss Kilburn, in beautifully blending Grecian dress of salmon tint and blue, made a charming Hermia and Helena, and Miss Corinne Bouchier gave a Puckish Puck. Mr. Derek Williams was a kingly Oberon. As Titania, Miss Dorothy Francis—who has been seen too seldom in the performances, although her Viola was quite a masterpiece—was altogether charming in her youthful, playful, fairylike delicacy of playing. The final act was the best thing in comedy done this season. The court, in white and gold attire, made a lovely scene, and the play by Bottom's company kept the audience in roars of exuberant laughter.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

DUBLIN.

Motorists Fined.—At Dundrum District Court yesterday, John Tynans, Milltown, Co. Dublin, was summoned for driving a motor car at Dundrum without having a disc displayed. He was also charged with not having paid the tax. Defendant was fined 10s. and costs for not displaying the disc and £20, mitigated to 30s., for not having a licence. Robert M'Clelland, 23 North terrace, Inchicore, summoned for riding a motor cycle at Dundrum in a manner dangerous to the public, was fined 20s. and costs. William Cavey, 95 Donore terrace, Dublin, for riding a motor cycle at Kilternan on last Whit Sunday at a speed of 30 m.p.h., was fined 10s. and costs. John C. Maher, 19 Ballsbridge terrace, summoned for driving a motor car at Kilternan at a speed of 30 m.p.h., was fined 20s. and costs. Cornelius B. O'Connor, 26 Ormond road, was fined 20s. and costs for riding a motor cycle at a speed of 32 m.p.h.

Bray Council Officials' Salaries.—The Bray Urban Council, by 7 votes to 3, postponed for three months the appointment of a committee to go into the question of salaries and wages. Mr. Dunne said that it was impossible to reduce wages, as the cost of living had not gone down during the last six months.

Drowned in Royal Canal.—That death was due to asphyxia following immersion in the water, was the verdict returned at an inquest held in the Dublin Morgue yesterday on Thomas Dunphy (43), smith's helper, 11 Bessborough avenue, North Strand, whose body was recovered from the Royal Canal on last Monday morning. A rider was added to the effect that there was no evidence to show how the deceased man came to be in the canal.

PASSENGERS BY B. AND I. LINE, VIA LIVERPOOL.

ARRIVALS.—Mr. T. Jollyman, J. Fitzgibbon, J. Mathews, J. Fawcett, T. Sampson, J. Vicker, R. Simpson, H. Davies, L. Smith, W. Smith, T. Lund.

DEPARTURES.—G. Woods, G. H. Spratt, J. Armstrong, W. Roberts, C. H. Brown, Captain H. C. Hall, J. Walker Barns, T. McEvoy, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Stewart, C. Nolan, R. Scallan, E. G. Gordon Taylor, C. Odlum, Miss J. Walsh, Mrs. Shirley Taylor.

LEINSTER.

Pig Prices.—The price paid for pigs at Kilkenny market on last Monday was 104s. per cwt. (dead weight).

Presentation.—Mr. J. Dunne, Kilkenny, has been presented with a purse of sovereigns by his colleagues in the C.Y.M.S. on the occasion of his departure for America.

Rate Collectors Appointed.—Mr. John Devin, Carlanstown, has been elected rate collector for the Drogheda district and Mr. B. Clarke for the Kells district.

Councillors' Travelling Expenses.—At the Meath County Council meeting a resolution was passed that members of the County Council and authorised committees be paid 5d. per mile travelling expenses to and from their destination; copies to be sent to each County Council in the Free State. Mr. C. Matthews, who moved in the matter, said that if it was refused the next thing that he would propose was that they refuse to accept anything at all, because the present allowance was ridiculous to offer any body of men.

Defaulting Land Annuitants.—At the quarterly meeting of Meath County Council on Monday, Mr. A. Matthews drew attention to the deduction of £5,446 18s. 1d. from the agricultural grant for the year in respect of land purchase annuities. It meant that the ratepayers were asked to pay this sum for the land annuities of their neighbours, or 2½d. in the £. The Chairman said that if the amount was not paid before the next quarterly meeting the County Council would take into consideration the advisability of publishing in the local Press the list of defaulters.

Marking of Pigs.—At Baltinglass District Court Michael K. Byrne, a local pig-buyer, was summoned in connection with forty-two pigs purchased at Baltinglas Fair. Guard Halloran said that he found the pigs at the railway station. They were scored with a cut about six inches long in two places. Mr. G. Morrin, V.S., said that, in his opinion, unnecessary suffering was not caused by marking in this way, unless the skin was cut through—a stick would do more damage. District Justice Price, in dismissing the case, said that it was a proper one to bring up.

Kilkenny Beekeepers.—The number of apiaries in Thomastown district has more than doubled since last season. Many beekeepers have re-stocked their apiaries with Dutch and Italian swarms. One beekeeper in Thomastown realised over £100 from the sale of honey from his apiary last year.

Miss Nancy Long, of Kilkieran, Kilkenny, writing in reference to the Carlow Dog Show, which was held on the 24th ult., says that her pointer, "Kilkieran Hero," took first prize in Open Class, No. 101, not second prize, as reported.

CONNAUGHT.

The Late Mr. John Wyse Power.—The Castlebar Branch Cumann na nGaedheal passed a resolution of condolence with Senator Mrs. Wyse Power, wife, and Circuit Judge Charles Power, son, on the death of Mr. John Wyse Power.

MUNSTER.

Fermoy Pig Fair.—There was a very large supply of well-finished pigs on sale on last Monday, and all were sold. The top price was £5 10s. per cwt. Good stores made from £4 10s., and bonhams fetched from £2 to £3.

Fermoy Market.—There was a good supply of butter at the weekly market. The prices were:—Fresh, 1s. 3d., 1s. 3½d., and 1s. 4d. per lb.; the average price was 1s. 3d.; salted butter made 1s. 5d. and 1s. 6d. Eggs, store price, 11d. per dozen. In the potato market there was a good supply at 10d. per 21lbs.

Jail For Larceny.—Pleading guilty to larcencies from employers on the Shannon scheme, where he worked for some time, Joseph Hayes was sentenced to three months with hard labour at Limerick Circuit Court yesterday. In discharging the jurors Judge McElligott congratulated them on the paucity of criminal business listed from the city.

Forged Cheque.—At Limerick City Circuit Court yesterday, before Judge McElligott, a domestic servant, Elizabeth Casey pleaded guilty to forging a cheque for £24, the property of Mrs. E. Taylor, Eden terrace, and was discharged on her further recognisances of £5.

ULSTER.

Sequel to County Cavan Accident.—At Virginia District Sessions, Thomas Kane and Andrew Dunne, of Lisanymore, were returned for trial charged with having driven a trap in such a manner as to cause bodily harm to Philip Carolan, Buncreagh. Sergeant Young stated that when arrested the defendants were under the influence of drink, but were not drunk. Dr. O'Reilly deposed that the superficial wounds received by Carolan were not serious, but that he suffered from severe shock. He considered his life had been in danger for some time.

Dirty Eggs.—At Drumkeeran District Court yesterday, Mr. H. L. Conner, acting District Justice, fined Edward Dolan, Newbridge, 5s., £1 witnesses' expenses, and £1 8s. Court costs for exposing for sale a case containing 679 eggs, of which 59 were broken and the remainder externally dirty.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Successful Law Students.—The following is the result of the annual examination for students of the Inn of Court of Northern Ireland, held last month:—Senior Student, Mr. J. S. Mitchell, awarded a second class pass. Junior Student, Mr. A. P. Magill, awarded a first class pass, and also a prize for distinguished answering.

Belfast Surveyorship.—At yesterday's meeting of the Belfast Corporation the minutes of the Agreement Committee recommended the promotion of Mr. E. S. Pinkerton to the vacant office of City Surveyor, at a salary of £1,250. The Committee also recommended that Mr. Pinkerton be instructed to report with regard to the organisation of the departments under control of the City Surveyor. An amendment to refer the matter back, pending consideration of the re-organisation of the whole non-trading departments, was defeated, and the appointment was agreed to.

Londonderry High School.—A movement is on foot for providing a playing field for Londonderry High School for Girls. The old Victorians' Donation Fund has been established for the purpose, and the project is being enthusiastically taken up by former students, in recognition of the newly acquired status of Victoria High School as the first public school for girls in Londonderry under a Board of Representative Governors, of which the President is the Duchess of Abercorn.

FREE STATE TOBACCO CONFERENCE.

CALL FOR INQUIRY INTO LICENSING SYSTEM.

Under the auspices of the Dublin Tobacconists' Association a conference was held yesterday in the Metropole Restaurant, Sackville street, Dublin, delegates from Cork, Limerick, Waterford, and other parts of the Free State attending.

Mr. P. J. Carolin (President of the Dublin Tobacconists' Association), in welcoming the delegates, said that as a result of the whole-hearted support which they had received from the tobacco traders, he was confident that they would soon remedy some of their many grievances, and place their trade in the position it deserved, as the second largest revenue producer in the country. (Hear, hear.)

The first thing that they wanted, Mr. Carolin went on, was a government Commission of inquiry as to licensing, and as to the present promiscuous system of issuing licences without the slightest inquiry as to whether they were needed in the locality, or whether the place was suitable. Next they demanded that Government or other offices should not be allowed to carry on the sale of cigarettes, tobacco, or other goods, which enabled them to compete unfairly with traders who had to pay wages, rent and taxes. This they considered a grave injustice, and that it should be stopped. (Hear, hear.)

The third matter which he wished to bring before them was a desire that at the next general election every candidate should be approached, and that only those in favour of an immediate inquiry should get the votes of the tobacco traders and their supporters. Then they should see that the trade should get its proper share of direct representation in the Dail and Senate.

In conclusion, Mr. Carolin said that he desired to thank the manufacturers who were helping them to maintain fixed retail prices.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted:—

1.—"That we call upon the Government to grant a Committee of Inquiry into the present system of licensing of retail tobacconists."

2.—"That we call upon the Revenue Commissioners to take steps to deal with the growth of street hawking of tobacco and cigarettes, and all those people who are selling without licences."

3.—"That the Conference of Retail Tobacconists, An Saorstat, strongly condemn the selling of tobacco and cigarettes, etc., in Government and other offices, and call upon the authorities to stop this illegal practice."

CANADA RETURNS TO GOLD STANDARD.

OTTAWA, Monday.

Speaking in the Dominion House of Commons to-day, Mr. Robb, Minister of Finance, announced that Canada would return to the gold standard on July 1, on the expiration of the law under which the standard has been suspended since the beginning of the war, in respect of the coinage and the use of gold as legal tender.

GAELIC ELEMENTARY EDUCATION.

TWO ALL-IRISH SCHOOLS FOR DUBLIN.

A deputation was received by the Free State Minister of Education, who was accompanied by Mr. P. Bradley, on the subject of the provision of facilities for primary education wholly in Irish for Irish-speaking children in Dublin. The numbers of children expected to attend wholly Gaelic schools on the North and South sides of the city were laid before the Minister, as calculated by a voluntary committee of parents and educationalists which has been at work upon the subject for some time past, and it was suggested that a motor service be provided by the State for children in outlying districts whose parents desire them to attend the schools.

The Minister expressed his sympathy with the objects of the deputation, and stated that means would be provided by September, 1926, for young Gaelic-speaking children in Dublin to receive a completely Irish education. The facilities would be extended to both sides of the city.

The deputation, which thanked the Minister for his promises, consisted of the Rev. Michael Saul, S.J., and Messrs. R. Mulcahy, T.D.; Sean O'Cathain, T. O'Connell, T.D.; D. McCullough, T.D.; D. O'Connor (Inspector); Sean O'hUadhaigh, solicitor, and P. O'Fathaigh, T.D., Secretary of the Gaelic League.

BELFAST JUTLAND DINNER.

At the annual dinner of the Belfast branch of the British Legion Naval Club, the following message was received from Lord Jellicoe:—"Warmest greetings, members British Legion Naval Club, on this anniversary, when ten years ago men Grand Fleet showed that spirit animating British seamen was even firmer than ever before." The Northern Prime Minister, Sir James Craig, wired:—"Best of good wishes to all assembled in commemoration of the battle of Jutland. Ex-officers and men of Ulster who served in the Royal Naval forces during the war will never be forgotten, and the great event you celebrate to-night will perpetually stand writ large in the calendar of our history."

ASSAULTS ON WHITE WOMEN.

TIGHTENING THE LAW IN KENYA.

Sir Edward Grigg, the Governor, announced in the Legislature to-day that, following upon a number of crimes of violence against white women committed by natives recently, the Government intended tightening the law and the punishment for such crimes, thus giving a greater sense of security.

The Government was also enlisting the assistance of the chiefs and headmen, who themselves do not countenance such acts. The boundaries of the native reserves have been finally decided upon, and an announcement will be made shortly.—(Reuter.)
